80 Greet St. Louis Mayor

A Democratic breakfast to boost the Harry S. Truman Award and Rally in St. Louis Oct. 31- Nov. 1, was held at the Rustic Rock today at a 9 a.m. It drew 80 party leaders and mayors to hear St. Louis Mayor A. J. Cervantes discuss plans for the statewide gathering.

Arriving at the airport of 8:30 a.m. with a half dozen St. Louis political leaders including Paul Berra, chairman of the Truman rally, Mayor Cervantes, and his group were taken to the Rustic Rock, where Bootheel party leaders greeted the metropolitan visitors.

The St. Louis mayor pointed out in his short address that, "we're trying to get 51 per cent of the vote at the next election." He said the large statewide dinner was conceived by the St. Louis City Democratic Committee." He said that "We will go from here to Rolla and Springfield in its promotion.

Paul Berra, who hails from South St. Louis, said:

"I come from an area where they usually clobber us at election time, and this three- day event will be a large one. It will open with a Halloween party Friday night. Saturday there will be a tour of the city. At noon Sen. Thomas Eagleton will be the speaker. Saturday night at the banquet will be the selection of the outstanding Democratic leader, and the choice will be made on Dec. 17.

"Most of the state officers, Congressmen and U.S. Senators will be present Saturday night. Sunday morning will be a brunch at the new Spanish Pavillion. Sunday afternoon all visitors who are guests of the rally, will be able to receive tickets to the St. Louis football Cardinals game with the New Orleans Saints.

Headquarters for visitors will be the Sheraton- Jefferson Hotel.

ST. LOUIS MAYOR A. J. Cervantes, pauses after telling jokes on his family background, today at breakfast at the Rustic Rock Inn. He was promoting the coming Harry Truman Rally in St. Louis over the Halloween weekend.

Committee Approves Haynsworth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth to the Supreme Court.

Approval came on a vote of 10 to 6. Maryland Republican Charles McC. Mathias abstained.

Dedication Of Hearnes School Set

CHARLESTON — At the Charleston R-1 school district board of education meeting last night Oct. 24 was set for the dedication of the new Warren E. Hearnes elementary school. Governor Hearnes will be present for the dedication ceremonies. Mrs. Velma Brown is chairman.

The board tabled action on the sale of the Mark Twain and Lincoln school properties.

First National Reveals Dividend

Donald R. Bohannon, president of the First National Bank, announced on behalf of the behalf of the board of directors, a 10-cent per share quarterly dividend payable on Oct. 15 to all stockholders of record as of Sept. 30, 1969.

Bohannon stated the payment of this second quarterly dividend is in line with the Board of Directors desire to continue dividend payments on a quarterly basis to their stockholders. The total number of shares outstanding is 300,000 with the number of shareholders exceeding 500 throughout Missouri, Southern Illinois, Western Kentucky, and Northeast Arkansas.

U.S. Battlefield Deaths Hit 34-Month Low of 64

SAIGON (AP) — The total of American battlefield deaths in Vietnam dropped last week to 64, the lowest weekly toll since December 1966, the U.S. Command announced today.

The reduction in American casualties continued a generally downward trend that began three months ago. Official sources said if this trend continues, it could prompt President Nixon to speed up American troop withdrawals.

However, the sources cautioned that although significant enemy activity is at its lowest level for this year, captured enemy documents and prisoner reports indicate a winter campaign beginning in November. Therefore, American forces have not curtailed their offensive operations to keep the enemy from getting set in position.

Casualty totals for South Vietnamese government forces and for the enemy also were down considerably last week, and the government's military headquarters said in a communique: "The level of enemy activities during last week was the lowes since the beginning of the year and it decreased six per cent compared to that of the previous week."

The U.S. Command reported 900 Americans wounded in action last week, the lowest total since 599 were wounded during the first week of he year, Dec. 29-Jan. 4.

The weekly report raised to 38,887 the total number of American troops reported killed in action in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961. The total number of American battlefield wounded reported rose to 254,274.

The U.S. Command said enemy battlefield deaths now total 558,552 since the beginning of 1961.

U.S. headquarters also reported two American aircraft shot down Wednesday. An Air Force F4 Phantom fighterbomber was downed 10 miles southeast of Da Nang, but the two crewmen escaped unhurt. A small army observation helicopter was shot down 22 miles southeast of Saigon, wounding two crewmen.

"The South Vietnamese have been taking an unusually high number of casualties from booby traps and mines," said one source.

Bid to Put $30,000 Top On Farm Payments Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, by a four-vote margin, sidestepped today an attempt to insist on a limit of $30,000 for farm subsidy payments which the Senate had rejected.

Questions about the House-imposed, and Senate-rejected ceiling have been hanging fire since July.

It came to a head when an attempt finally was made to send the Agriculture Department appropriation bill, to which the limitation was attached, to a House-Senate conference committee.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., sponsor of the original House amendment which was approved by a 224-142 vote in May, tried to get the House to instruct its conferees in advance to insist on the House position.

However, Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee on agriculture, then moved to table (kill) Conte's proposal.

The Whitten move first was approved on a 64-44 standing vote and then nailed down on a roll call vote of 181-177.

The money bill then was sent to the Senate-House conference for compromise of the differences, including the payment limitation.

Two Chicagoans Killed in Crash

A Chicago man and woman were killed Wednesday at 2:20 p.m. when the driver of a car lost control on a curve on highway 61, four miles north of Fruitland. The dead:

Arthur Stewart, 56, driver of a 1963 Pontiac, who was traveling north on the highway when he lost control of the vehicle, ran off the road and struck a utility pole.

A passenger, Jimmie Rorer. Their bodies were taken to McCombs Funeral Home in Jackson.

A two- car collision Wednesday at 8:20 a.m. on highway 177, one mile north of Cape Girardeau, injured Lucille Kirchhoff Bryant, 51, Cape Girardeau, the driver of 1962 Chevrolet.

A 1959 Cadillac, driven by Roland Funk, 20, Cape Girardeau, attempted a right turn from a county road onto route 177, when he veered into the path of the Bryant car, the state patrol reported.

The Bryant woman received bruises on her left eye, arm and knee.

She was taken to St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Wednesday at 5:30 p.m., three miles south of Malden, Joyce Pickard, 33, Malden, received cuts on her face and head, when her 1959 Chrysler left the road and went into a ditch. The patrol said the car was traveling at high speed.

She was taken to Crooms clinic in Malden.

Policeman Nabs Four After Burglary

Policeman Jack Patterson sprang from bushes early today and nabbed four burglary suspects.

Patterson reported one of those arrested is a juvenile boy. The men are identified as Jimmy Sloan, 22, Larry Adams, 19, and Billy Greer, 28, all of Sikeston.

They were arrested about 5:52 a.m. when Patterson spotted them in a Cape Girardeau taxi near the War Drum on East Malone. Patterson stopped the cab. He said the four offered no resistance.

They were questioned about breaking into a grocery store owned by Jim Poe at Morehouse. Poe reported 30 pairs of mens trousers and 10 cartons of cigarettes were stolen from the store between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m. today. Entry has made through a rear door.

The highway patrol reported a car, believed to have been used by the burglars, was abandoned at Scott City. Cigarettes and men's trousers were reported to have been found in the car.

Patterson said the four suspects had three cartons of cigarettes when he arrested them.

Third 'Hoover' Spot Filled

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes now has named three of the four at-large members of Missouri's third "Little Hoover" Commission.

Wednesday he chose former House Speaker Howard Elliott, Ladue Republican. Elliott was speaker from 1943 to 1947 and in 1962 was the unsuccessful GOP nominee for governor.

Earlier, Hearnes named Fred Hughes, president of the Joplin Globe Publishing Co., a Republican, and former Circuit Judge D. W. Gilmore, now of Kansas City and a Democrat, to the commission.

He indicated the fourth member, a Democrat, will be named soon. The at-large members will work with four representatives and four senators in studying governmental reorganization proposals.

$555 Loss in Straw Fire

Fireman said today the loss by fire of 740 bales of straw Tuesday at the Country Club was $555.

The 5:05 p.m. fire destroyed the straw, which was used to bed grain during the winter.

TESTING HIS SALES approach for the Lions Club gourmet pepper sale which opens tonight at 6:30 p.m. in a city wide canvass, is Clem Beal, chairman of the fund raising project. At left are Sandy Buchanan and Shirley Keyley.

Hearnes Signs Tax Bill

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today signed his embattled income tax increase bill into law.

The expected action came after Senate President pro tem Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, already had set in motion his campaign to block the law from becoming effective Jan. 1.

Blackwell's petition campaign would put the tax increase law up for a referendum test by the state's voters at the November 1970 general election.

Hearnes has said that if Blackwell is successful in his quest for some 65,000 voter signatures by the Dec. 30 deadline the administration will have to hold the line on all appropriations at approximately the levels of the current fiscal year.

The bill raises the corporate income tax ceiling from 2 per cent to 5 per cent and sets a 1-6 per cent range on individual income taxes, up from the present 1-4 per cent range.

Hearnes said it would actually lower the taxes of the low income Missourian and would make substantial increases only in the taxes of persons earning more than $12,000 a year.

Blackwell Torpedoes Committee

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Efforts to select a new director of the Legislative Fiscal Affairs Committee were thwarted Wednesday by Senate President pro tem Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillboro.

Blackwell had a messenger deliver a letter to the assembled committee just as it was ready to take up the resignation of Arthur W. Betts as fiscal affairs director. Blackwell's letter took three Senate members off the committee and substituted himself and Sens. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, and Robert L. Prange, R-St. Louis.

Those taken off were Majority Leader A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, and Sens. Richard Southern, D-Monroe City, and Jack S. Curtis, R-Springfield.

Vanlandingham and Southern were present but suddenly no longer members. Blackwell and his other new choices for membership were not on hand so the Senate delegation's quorum was broken.

Without at least four of the seven members from each chamber present the committee cannot act.

The members still present after the abrupt ending of the session expressed amazement and bitterness at Blackwell's action.

Shoe Union Local Okays Bond Issue

Members of the United Shoe Workers AFL-CIO local number 123A union gave unanimous endorsement last night to the $600,000 industrial revenue bonds issue on which Sikeston citizens will vote Oct. 21.

The funds would be used to construct a plant to house National Lock, a subsidiary of Keystone Consolidated Industries, Inc.

Other groups that have endorsed the vote include the Chamber of Commerce, Lions club, Sunset Improvement club, Jaycees, women who are employed in the public schools, and the city government.

News Briefs

China Easing Hostile Stand

NEW YORK (AP) — Nixon administration officials say Communist China has indicated that it wants to ease its hostile stand toward the United States, the New York Times said today.

In a dispatch from Washington, Peter Grose said various branches of the government are studying what response to make, as a possible preliminary to opening talks with the Chinese.

Diplomats from Western countries who met Chinese officials in Peking last week during ceremonies marking the 20th anniversary of the Communist state reported little anti-American invective was displayed, the Times said.

These diplomats also reported a Chinese interest in easing trade and travel restrictions with the United States.

Flashing Blast Reported Widely

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Reports of "a bright flashing explosion of some sort, or light" were received early today in an area extending from Grand Island, Neb., to Fort Worth, Tex., the Federal Aviation Agency said.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said calls had been received from Des Mines, Iowa, to Arkansas. "People reported a tremendous flash and a loud explosion," the dispatcher said. "And at all the points," he added, "each said the flash was directly over their heads."

The police dispatcher at Nevada, Mo., near the Kansas border, said she had received telephone calls from western Missouri, including several from Willow Springs, about 150 miles southeast near the Arkansas border. Many of the callers said a bright body broke up in the sky and fell earthward, the dispatcher said.

Among the many calls received at Nevada, the dispatcher said, was one from a local resident who reported it appeared someone was flashing a light in her bedroom window.

Sky Fluff Blamed on Spiders

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Airborne spiders may have been responsible for a fallout of white, fluffy material that looked like spider webs over large areas of Missouri and Illinois Wednesday.

Donald Pecsok of the St. Louis County Air Pollution Control Division said a St. Louis laboratory did indeed identify the thread - like filaments as spider webs.

He said a St. Louis University entomologist also told of a creature called the balloon spider, which spins a web that can carry it through the air.

Meat Packing Spokesman Doubts Price Rise Ended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers will have to pay even more for beef if cattlemen are expected to satisfy the nation's increasing hunger for meat, according to a packing industry spokesman.

"With all due sympathy for their problems," Herrell DeGraff told congressmen Wednesday, "I have to say to consumers that on a continuing basis they cannot have both the beef supply they want and the level of beef prices they seem to want."

DeGraff, president of the American Meat Institute, said the cattle industry had reached the point where it must expand to meet future demands.

But he said cattlemen won't make the investment unless they can expect a reasonable price. He did not say how high the price might go.

He testified before a House government operations subcommittee studying the high and rapid retail meat price increase this year.

DeGraff blamed the 16 per cent beef price increase between July 1968 and July 1969 on a bad winter that produced beef shortages. He said that squeeze is easing and prices are coming down.

But he said it has been clear to the industry since 1965 that beef prices "would have to increase for a more fundamental reason than a bad winter."

Beef production from a basic 50 million animals has increased to 21 billion pounds this year from 13.5 billion in 1955 because of improved methods, DeGraff said. But, he went on, the only way to meet the rising demand is by increasing the basic number of cattle.

Earlier, the American National Cattlemen's Association admitted it urged a 5 per cent production cutback in June 1967 but denied the purpose was to create a price-boosting shortage.

The association's executive vice president, C. W. McMillan, said cattlemen were urged to make the cutback because at that time supply exceeded demand.

But Rep. John W. Wydler, R-N.Y., said he is going to turn the association's action over to the attorney general's office if he can find any connection with this year's sharp price rise.

"I don't know whether it's illegal or not but I'm going to find out," Wydler said in an interview. "When any other industry bands together to cut production and increase prices, it's illegal."

Litter Pickups Last Year Cost State $484,568

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — It cost the state highway department $484,568 last year just to pick up the litter tossed out on the state's highway right- of- ways.

Thomas A. David, director of highways, called it a disgrace, and a danger to highway travelers and the deprtment's maintenancemen.

The cost was highest in St. Louis County- $56,900. then came Jackson County at $49,939, the city of St. Louis $26,089. Jasper County $21,555, and Green County $18,043. Tidiest was Scotland County where the cleanup bill was only $255.

Community Fund Drive Opens Tuesday

NEW MADRID - Joe Mitchell, chairman, said today the kickoff date for the Community Fund drive is Tuesday. The drive will begin with a request for donations from business establishments.

Chuck Palmer, Jim Edwards, Lawrence Galemore, Jim Helms, Leo Hedgepeth and Joe Mitchell will solicit business firms. The group will report their progress at a meeting at the community building at 7 p.m. Tuesday night.

Mitchell said that, "contributions will be divided this year among eight organizations." Last year's community fund disbursements were Boy Scouts, 10 per cent, Girl Scouts 10 per cent, New Madrid Youth Fund, 40 per cent, New Madrid Emergency Fund, 5 per cent, Salvation Army, 7 per cent, Red Cross, 25 per cent, and Cerebral Palsy, 3 per cent.

Added to this year's contributions will be the Braille foundation.

Mitchell said the major portion of the fund will remain in New Madrid. All of the youth fund or 40 per cent of the funds are used locally to support the Little League program and other youth activities. The emergency fund assists local people in need. A percentage of the funds allocated to the other organizations remains in the community.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
OBSERVATION AT THE HILTON LOBBY AT HARTFORD CONNECTICUT

A woman with calves in her legs hitting each other as she walked.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

We live in a confused time indeed. Through the generations, Americans have taken great pride in the fact that we have always rewarded hard work, diligence and achievement. We are, in fact, a nation of doers largely because the reward has been part of the game. Unhappily, there is in Congress a new tax "reform" bill which, if passed as written, would directly punish our successful business managers. This bill, now before the U. S. Senate Finance Committee, would effectively destroy incentive by crippling stock option programs, would deny tax relief on interest payments made by employees to buy stock in their own companies, and would lengthen the time limit during which an employee could take advantage of any capital gains incurred as a result of his efforts. And all this without raising any significant tax funds for the U. S. Treasury! In effect, believe it or not, the American business manager - who has guided the economic destiny of this country to where it towers as a successful example to the world - is being punished for his magnificent achievement. This is class legislation. Since this so-called "reform" was pushed through the House in haste, the hope is that the Senate will take the time and effort to set things right by our American managers.

HIGH COST OF HEADLESSNESS

"Don't give fire a place to start!" is a piece of advice often heard but too little heeded. Results of this heedlessness are starkly outlined in the annual fire records of the United States and Canada.

In the two countries, more than 1,850 homes are destroyed or damaged by fire each day, in many instances with tragic loss of life. Fire strikes about 500 industrial and commercial places each day, and in addition to the waste of physical resources there are incalculable costs in temporary or permanent loss of jobs and frequent business failures.

We have an unfortunate habit of dismissing most fires as "accidents," as sort of visitations of bad luck which somehow are unavoidable. But how unavoidable - or predictable - is the fire started by a carelessly discarded cigarette, or overloaded and defective electric wiring, or poorly maintained heating and cooking equipment? As shown by National Fire Protection Association studies, these and similar, uncomplicated causes are responsible for the great majority of fires.

Each of us needs to acknowledge the fact that fires are not only wasteful but avoidable, then to go on to reform the habits and remove the hazards which cause them. When each of us as an individual has done this, we will no longer risk our lives, jobs and possessions to the destructive forces of fire.

THE URGENT NEED

People who talk a lot become leaders, even if they don't know what they are talking about.

This disturbing fact came to light by an experiment at the University of Tennessee.

A study of group leadership revealed that students who monopolized discussions but who were seldom correct were selected as leaders ahead of quiet ones who were usually right.

So if people with good ideas remain on the sidelines:

--the running of organizations may slip by default into the hands of the incompetent or corrupt;

--the mounting conflicts in our nation will become more a test of wills than a meeting of minds;

--the irresponsible demands of the extreme left and the over-reaction of the extreme right may slip our society into hostile fragments.

Don't let "cold feet" keep you on the sidelines when so much is at stake. Master your fear or whatever you want to call it so that you can contribute your constructive solutions to the many problems besetting our nation and the world.

This is our answer to the majority of good Americans who have asked what they can do to bring peaceful progress to our national programs instead of extremists and militants, actually few in number, dominating everything.

Halloween is coming. Once darkness falls on October 31, millions of laughing ghosts, goblins, witches and creatures of all kinds across the nation will be ringing doorbells and voicing the familiar refrain: "Trick Or Treat!"

The same darkness that lends mystery, excitement and adventure to this yearly ritual can also set the stage for tragedy. Dressed in dark costumes, trick-or-treaters are virtually impossible to see on unlighted streets and intersections where, because of their excitement, they're apt to disregard their parents' street - safety teachings.

This suggests two things. First, if you are a motorist and must be behind the wheel anytime after about 3 p.m. on Halloween, drive especially carefully!

But equally important, if you're a parent there are a number of things you can do now, a few weeks before Halloween, to make that evening safer for your trick-or-treeting youngsters.

Part of it, of course, is stressing to them the importance of being careful whenever they're near a street or driveway. But you can't depend on their remembering this, so the next logical step is to make the kids easier to see by motorists.

The National Safety Council recommends that you decorate your tots' costumes with reflective tape or paint, which is much the same material as that used on reflective traffic signs and license plates throughout the country. This material is highly visible in a car's headlights, and could give a motorist that extra split second of warning that he needs in order to avoid hitting a child who dashes out into the street at night.

With the tape, you can outline your child's cuffs, collar, sleeves, etc., in bright red, silver or stripes. With the reflective paint, you can either coat the existing designe (skeltons, etc.) on ready-made costumes, or, if you are designing the costume yourself, let your own or your child's artistic talents with the paintbrush go. Both reflective tape and paint are usually available at many auto accessory, paint and hardware stores.

Increasingly, clothing manufacturers are realizing the style and safety values of reflective materials. Two large, national department store chains are marketing jackets trimmed with reflective fabric this fall. This concept of reflectorizing for night-time safety also has the support of the U. S. Public Health Service which is actively promoting local action programs throughout the nation designed to show the benefits of reflectorizing for night-time safety. Reflective materials attract the attention of night-time motorists hundreds of feet away.

SINKING SUBMARINE CAPACITY

Testimony by Vice-Admiral Hyman Rickover before the House Appropriations subcommittee recently revealed that the Defense Department is following a very dangerous policy with regard to the construction of nuclear-powered submarines.

Admiral Rickover testified that in less than five years, the Soviet Union could surpass this country in nuclear submarine strength. Yet the Defense Department has refused to authorize the building of any nuclear submarines after 1970.

Rickover stated it would be "highly dangerous to allow the deterioration of our submarine capacity that would result if no submarines are constructed after fiscal year 1970. Our survival could well depend upon what we do in that vital area."

Admiral Rickover, director of the Navy's reactor division, says there is little doubt that the Soviet Union is working to expand substantially their submarine program, both in quantity and quality. He pointed out that the entire Soviet submarine fleet has been built since World War II, while two-thirds of the United States submarine fleet was built during that war and are about 25 years old. He added that the Defense Department has not given the approval needed for the development and testing of a new submarine.

Most military experts are agreed on the vital role that nuclear submarines play in safeguarding this country's security. Admiral Rickover said: "We must produce whatever it takes to counter the Soviet submarine threat." If the United States is to maintain its capacity to resist Communist aggression, the officials in the Defense Department should heed this sound advice.

NEW YORK (AP) — Man can make machines that remember, but no machine gets the joy out of remembering that man does himself.

It is his memories, indeed, that largely make a man. They are food to his mind, fuel to his spirit. They resurrect his past and are his chief sanctuary from muffling oblivion.

For no yesterday is dead so long as it is remembered.

Your own album of memories is pretty extensive if you can look back and remember when —

A boy could buy enough candy with a nickel to make himself sick.

Auto horns had rubber bulbs you squeezed by hand.

Grant's Tomb and the Woolworth Building, the world's tallest skyscraper, were Manhattan's chief tourist sights.

Everybody was sure there was an opium den behind every beaded curtain in Chinatown.

No matter what ailed a woman her first step toward a cure was to climb into bed with a hot water bottle.

A man was suspected of secret drinking if he habitually chewed Sen Sen, a breath improver.

It was a landmark in any child's education when he finally learned the multiplication table up to 12 by heart. Of course, in every class there was one smart aleck who could multiply 13 by 13 in his head and tell you right off that the answer was 169.

The honeymoon was over when a bride, in a burst of mistaken zeal, washed her husband's stinky pipes with soap and hot water.

For every mustache there was a mustache cup.

Kids yelled "beaver" whenever they saw a white horse or a man with a beard.

People thought twice before they bought anything that cost more than a dollar.

If you searched all the mattresses in a small town you'd find more money than was on deposit in the local bank.

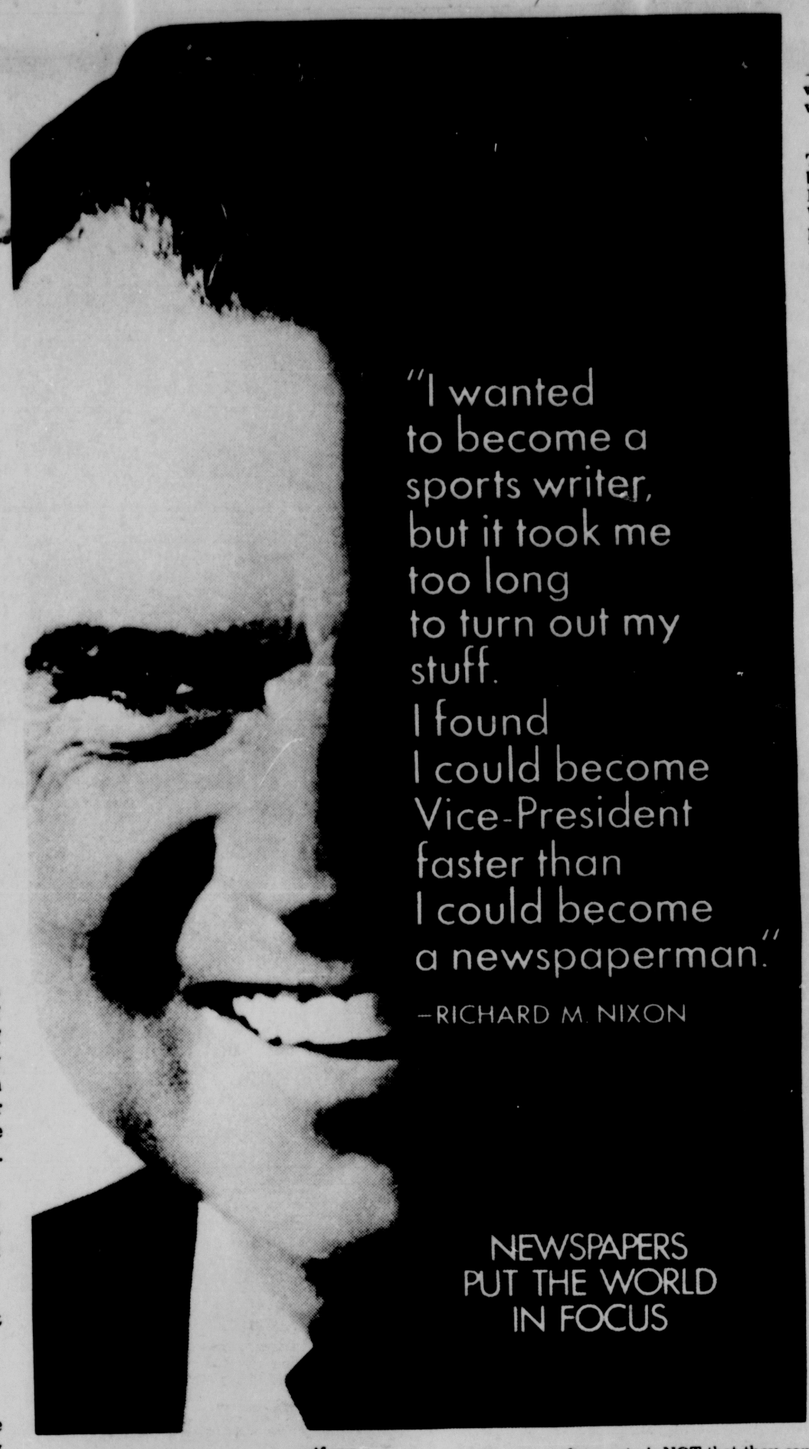

Anybody who kept his front door locked was regarded as downright unfriendly.

Before going out for the evening, a man could read a long article in the Saturday Evening Post in the time it took for his wife to lace up her corset.

A juvenile delinquent was a boy who furtively dipped the long curls of the girl in front of him into the inkwell on his schoolroom desk.

People spent less of their lives hurrying to get to places they didn't want to go in order to do something they really didn't enjoy.

Those were the days! Remember?

RED BLACKMAIL BACKFIRES

Four courageous women from Dallas have helped arouse concern among some who had been apathetic toward the communist enemy, with he result that a Vietnamese communist blackmail attempt is backfiring.

The four, wives of W. S. airmen shot down over Vietnam and listed as missing in action, traveled to the site of the Paris negotiations to talk to officials of the North Vietnamese delegation to find out "if we are wives or widows.' As one of the wives put it, " Each of us hopes that our husband is still alive, and we hope and pray that the North Vietnamese delegates will tell us where they can be found and if they are in good health."

The wives had not counted on communist callousness. One Vietnamese blatantly answered with, "Tell your children that when the war is over, this will be a simple matter."

Americans always resent totalitarian blackmail. Now wives from other cities are confronting and embarrassing the communist "peace" negotiators in Paris. The formerly apathetic are coming to realize the nature of the enemy and to organize to fight such communist tactics.

The communists' objective is obvious. They say, in effect, "When you surrender and run, leaving millions of your allies to communist executioners, only then will you learn anything about your missing husbands."

With the support of our awakened and informed citizens, aroused to action by patriots through crusades large and small, our negotiators can deal with communist blackmail everywhere. Communists understand and fear strength and resolution. HLH

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Off the Atlantic Coast, where the continental shelf ends and the ocean floor abruptly plummets, the waters are not quiet. U. S. Navy prowlers steam on set courses, and aboard them, trained men sit in soundproof rooms and wait for their listening devices to pick up messages from the deep.

The answer, a chattering pattern of pings, comes with ominous regularity. Everywhere on the seven seas--the waters we so confidently dominated for six decades--our Navy can locate sleek, nuclear-powered Soviet submarines.

From the noise characteristics of the lurking subs, flashed to a U. S. Naval Base and run through a computer, we are able to identify each sub. The game of hide-and-seek is relentless but professionally calm. Upon occasion, an American Destroyer will play a recording of the "Volga Boatman" on the sound system for the benefit of the Russians beneath the waters.

In the 25 years since World War II, the Russians have constructed a first-class Navy. Not only under the seas but on the surface, their fleet is now a match for the proud U. S. fleet. Cruisers, destroyers and helicopter carriers cruise the major waterways of the world, flying the hammer and sickly from their masts.

It doesn't take an electronics expert to read the message: Russia is staking a claim to preeminence on the high seas.

RUSSIAN MANEUVERS

In late August, 63 Soviet vessels--the biggest red fleet ever assembled outside home waters--began maneuvers near the coast of Israel. About the same time, the Russian Navy boldly steamed down the East Coast of the United States, and Soviet sailors took their first shore leave in the arms of the warm-eyed girls of Havana. The Castro brothers, Fidel and Raul, posed happily in their rumpled green fatigues with the Russians in their starched white uniforms.

In the Aegean Sea, where the Russians have found the green waters of Homer's heroes a favorite spot for maneuvers, Greece's antique Navy has difficulty keeping watch on prowling Soviet subs. Yet NATO depends upon the Greeks to patrol this corner of the Oceans.

Russian ships have also moved into the Indian Ocean to take the place of the British, who withdrew in the name of economy. An American naval visit to India, scheduled as an attempt to succeed the British, had to be called off because of the demands of the Vietnam War.

At Port Said, the Northern Terminus of the Suez Canal, Russian ships are constantly on station to boost the morale of their Arab allies. Soviet ships also make regular ports of call at Alexandria, Egypt, and at Latakia and Tartus, Syria. The Russians are even negotiating to take over the British naval base on the Mediterranean Island of Malta.

Soviet grains on the seas, however, can be attributed as much to our failings as to their achievements. For while Russia has hoisted its ensign around the world, the U. S. Navy has suffered a series of practical and political disasters.

U. S. NAVAL GOOFS

More than 70 have been documented, ranging from the loss of the nuclear submarines thresher and scorpion to the disastrous accidents aboard the carriers Forrestal and Enterprise. The latest: The Destroyer Frank E. Evans was sliced in two by an Australian carrier during exercises in the South China Sea with the loss of 73 U. S. Seamen. A naval inquiry placed the primary blame upon the American ship.

The Admirals have treated their men almost as badly as their ships. In 1967, Lt. Cmdr. Marc Arnheiter, because of his aggressiveness in Vietnam waters, upset some crew members aboard the picket ship Vance. He was given a hasty summary dismissal. Capt. Richard Alexander, commander of the battleship New Jersey, felt Arnheiter had received a raw deal. He put his career on the line and protested to the Secretary of the Navy. Although one of the Navy's most promising officers, Alexander was immediately transferred to a desk job in the Boston Navy yard.

Through decades of gunboat diplomacy, two world wars and a host of small crises, the Navy's reputation went virtually unblemished. Now, however, with the Russians challenging us for supremacy of the Oceans, there is strong evidence of dry rot in the Navy's timbers.

LEADERSHIP CRISIS

To scrape away the barnacles and find out what is really wrong with the Navy, this column talked to Navy personnel of all ranks. Their general answer: The Navy is suffering from a leadership crisis.

Desk-bound Admirals at the Pentagon have put loyalty to each other above loyalty to the Navy and the Nation. Many of them still live in the era of battleships, and follow the rules of the admirals' club, a closed clique of senior officers who band together to keep their gold braid untarnished.

Young officers who challenge the establishment are frowned upon, and imaginative thinking is suppressed. There is no forgiveness for those who buck the system. Result: Junior officers leaving the service as soon as their basic commitment expires.

The situation recently became so critical among the submarine corps that the Navy was compelled to offer a $15,000 bonus to young officers who would agree to stay for an additional tour.

While young officers are leaving the service, however, the old Admirals are demanding more aircraft carriers--a throwback to the glory days of a quarter century ago.

That is the measure of the difference between the Russian Navy and ours. The Soviet Navy is a new one. The U. S. Navy, though more experienced, is burdened with old men, old concepts and old techniques. The weight of years is threatening a proud tradition

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WORRYING UNION CHIEFS:

Labor Leaders Fear Drive for Labor Courts And Curbs on Nationwide Strikes.

Atlantic City, N.J. -- Out front in the big hall, the massed labor leaders guffawed and waved "HHH for Unity" placards each time "private citizen" Hubert Humphrey lashed and mocked President Nixon. They cheered when the former vice president said, "Oh, boy, is it good to see you... Thank you for carrying the brunt of the political battle. If the others had done as much as you, this meeting (the AFL-CIO Convention) would have been in the East Room of the White House."

So spoke the man who almost became America's first labor president.

But behind the scenes, behind the guffaws, there is great concern. Labor leaders and their political strategists in COPE (Committee on Political Education) fear that a Republican victory in the 1970 Congressional elections will ease the way for vast changes in today's pro- union labor laws.

For example, the labor leaders see a Republican drive to replace the National Labor Relations Board with a new system of labor courts.

The national union chiefs are view this so seriously, they've encouraged one of their new national leaders to fly to Australia next to study the labor court system of handling strikes there.

The traveler making this very unsentimental journey will be Charles Luna, Texas- born president of the sprawling newly merged United Transportation Union (AFL—CIO), biggest in the ground transport arena which plans a series of silent, sudden flash selective rail strikes next year if it doesn't win a two year contract giving its members a 30 per cent plus cost of living clause packet.

There is concern here, too, over just what Mr. Nixon's Secretary of Labor, George Shultz, meant when he said here, after his speech in the big hall, that the White House soon would send Congress proposals for handling national emergency stoppages. Mr. Shultz has a quiet way of underemphasis and his words, almost inaudibly murmured to some intent listeners after his talk, got slow circulation among the thousand delegates and hundreds of others union leaders at the AFL- CIO Eighth Constitutional Convention. But those words picked up steam and now many policy makers are asking just what he meant by "that."

It is known here that as early as last May 7 Secretary Shultz met with the Labor Law Reform subcommittee of the House Republican Conference Research Committee. The smaller 12-member group, headed by Salt Lake City's Congressman Sherman Lloyd, wanted to touch base with Mr. Nixon's Labor Department head. They told him that they were a working unit and would not seek publicity and were open-minded. This group has both conservatives and liberals on it and planned to turn its findings in to the full committee headed by Ohio's Congressman Robert Taft Jr.

"Some have suggested labor courts, some favor seizure, some feel that Taft- Hartley should be expanded beyond its present jurisdiction, some feel that there should be laws on such strikes extended beyond the present focus on national health and safety, perhaps to include the use of the law if there is an economic emergency, Congressman Lloyd said a few days after the committee had talked with Secretary Shultz. "Some feel that national emergency strikes should be referred directly to Congress for compulsory negotiations."

This is of intense interest to the labor leaders-- and soon will be to the public.

Few realize that there still are tough negotiations underway between the International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO) and several national airlines. New York City's famed subway pacts are up and may have to be negotiated under a new mayor. I'm told by railway union chiefs, "You can bet on railroad strikes in the next nine months no matter what President Nixon does."

There are "rumbles" on both waterfronts over the container jurisdiction. There may be a long tough electrical workers strike. And Walter Reuther certainly appears to be planning a General Motors strike. And these are but a few.

Furthermore, such leaders as the State, County and Municipal Employees' Jerry Wurf and the Postal Union heads are watching development on the public sector legal front. The season for federal strikes is coming swiftly if the government employees union leaders mean what they have said here.

But it will all depend on who controls Congress -- and who has the majority in the Supreme Court, which accounts for the bitterness towards Judge Haynsworth Jr. -- a bitterness whith Hubert Humphrey said was organized mostly by one man, George Meany.

Small wonder the labor leaders cheered and cheered when "HHH" said, "Come help me," and urged them to keep alive the same coalition which was launched by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

They will -- with all the money, manpower and political genius they have. And they have plenty.

Ann Landers

If the Fifth is Also A Boy, Should They Trade?

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the pregnant-out-of-wedlock girl who wanted to know if she should give her baby to a childless couple (her uncle and aunt — for $400) gave me the courage to write to you. Although my situation is somewhat different, there is a similarity.

I am the mother of four boys. They are healthy and normal and we love them. But this last pregnancy was not planned and my husband is still giving me a hard time because of it. I am in my sixth month of pregnancy and I feel and look exactly like I did with the others. I am sure this baby is going to be another boy. WE DO NOT WANT ANOTHER BOY.

My husband's sister had her third girl in December. She and her husband would give anything to have a boy. They live in Portland and we live in Oklahoma so we would not see them very often. Also, they are in better financial shape than we are. They have asked us for this child if it is a boy. My husband wants me to say yes. I am undecided. What do you say? — P. G. Lady Who Has Faith In You.

Dear Lady: Keep the baby, Faith.

Dear Ann Landers: I work in a supermarket and I love my job. But I've learned something pretty shocking about Mrs. John Public. She can't read.

For example: Yesterday we ran a full page ad with a coupon saying it was worth 50 cents against a certain item if the customer clipped it from the paper and presented it with a purchase of $5 or more. All day long people kept handing me the coupon, wanting the discount even though they had not purchased $5's worth. In some cases they hadn't purchased anything.

Then there are the women who come to the register and argue about prices. Yesterday, I ran up $1.16 for a half dozen deluxe oranges. The woman said I had made a mistake, that the oranges were two for 25 cents. I told her she was wrong. She replied, "I am not wrong. YOU don't know the prices in your own store. I read the price right off the sign." She then insisted that I go with her to look at the sign. She had been looking at the sign on the lemons which were in the next bin.

Our store is in an upper-class neighborhood. Most of the women who trade with us have had some college. How come they can't read? — Middletown N. Y.

Dear Mid: They can read but they don't think, which affords me an excellent opportunity to repeat something I've said before. Many people hear but they don't listen. They look but they don't see. They talk but they don't say anything. Thanks for additional evidence.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been divorced for two years. My ex-husband is devoted to our son who is now six years old. I am planning on remarrying in a few months. My son keeps asking me if Daddy will be at the wedding. I don't know what to tell him. Can you advise me? — Looking Ahead

Dear Looking: Tell him, "No, Daddy will not be there." Your son sounds plenty confused as it is. Don't add to his problems by inviting your ex-husband to your wedding.

Confidential to Whipping Post, Sick Soul, Cynical Cynara, Mrs. Jones, etc..etc.:

Obviously you have a great deal of spare time on your hands. Well, I don't. How about using that vivid imagination of yours to turn out some short stories for one of the confession magazines? And please lose my address. Thanks.

Do you feel ill at ease ... out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cnets in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

COLLEGE NEWS

SANDRA KAY TRUCKS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES TRUCKS of 508 S. New Madrid, Sikeston, is attending Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, Missouri, this fall. Sandra is enrolled as a senior student and is studying in the field of speech.

Jacqueline E. Long

Miss JACQUELINE ELIZABETH LONG, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. JACK LONG, 901 Scott, New Madrid, received a bachelor of science degree on Sept. 21. Miss Long's area of concentration is medical technology, and her school, the University of Tennessee (Medical Units, Memphis).

Miss Long was a member of the Dean's List, Student Union Board and UT Student/Alumni Board of Governors. She attended the University of Memphis for her pre-professional training.

She is now employed at City of Memphis Hospital, Memphis, Tenn.

Help For Hurricane Victims Becomes Too Much For Volunteer

TULARE, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Army and a Sacramento trucking line have come to the aid of a Tulare housewife whose project to aid victims of Hurricane Camille got out of hand.

Mary Bruner said she got the idea when she tried to telephone her newlywed niece, Mrs. Mike Machado, who had just moved to Kessler Air Force Base near Biloxi, Miss., with her husband.

"It was three days after the hurricane had hit," she said, "and we hadn't been able to find out a thing."

Mrs. Bruner finally was able to place a call to the sheriff's office in Biloxi.

"The officers told me that the apartments where Nancy and Mike were living had been destroyed. I later found out that they lost all their beautiful wedding gifts and their new car but were not injured.

"Anyway, these officers were so cooperative, I thought it would be a nice gesture to send them a box of items for victims."

Word of Mrs. Bruner's plan spread and items of clothing began pouring into the Bruner home.

Within a week a place was needed to store the clothing. A neighbor offered a shed.

By last week, Mrs. Bruner had collected 2,500 pounds of clothing and was faced with a shipping problem.

Another neighbor, Everett Barnes, recently retired from the Army after 25 years of service, contacted officials in Sacramento.

The Army sent a truck from Sacramento to pick up the clothing. It then returned to the capital where the shipment was turned over to Times Lines, which agreed to take the clothing to Biloxi free of charge.

'Conspiracy of Silence' Often Means Divorce

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Many divorces are caused by a "conspiracy of silence" that prevents husbands and wives from talking about their thoughtless or harmful acts, attorney Larry Carp said Tuesday.

Carp, director of the Pastoral Counseling Institute of Greater St. Louis, said married people should discuss their frictions and misunderstandings.

"It is important that the aggrieved party bring the hurt to the other's attention as soon as possible after the incident occurs," Carp told clergymen attending a seminar sponsored by Malcolm Bliss Mental Health Center.

He said pent-up resentments can fester and grow until the reaction, when finally expressed, is more harmful than the thoughtless or insensitive act that started it all.

He said by then an "irreversible attitude" may have developed and "it may be too late for the marriage to be salvaged.

"The decision to obtain a divorce . . . is rarely caused by one isolated act committed by the other partner. It is often a series of acts or omissions to which the party who feels wronged has not reacted soon and clearly enough, and which has gone on for so long that at some point he or she feels there is no turning back," Carp said.

Mrs. DeLay Honored With Surprise Dinner

BELL CITY - Mrs. James DeLay was surprised by her family and friends with a birthday dinner Sunday, October 5, at her home.

Present for the occasion were Mr. James DeLay; her son, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell DeLay and daughter of Bell City; her daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Pry and family of Charleston and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rampley and daughter of Bell City.

Another daughter, Mrs. Otto Dietrich of Tulsas, Oklahoma, could not be present. Other guests from Bell City were: Mr. and Mrs. Morgan English, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barks, Rev. and Mrs. John Maynard and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lewis and family. Mr. and Mrs. David DeLay were also there.

Financial Bill

The first federal-state financial bill was the Highway Act of 1916, which appropriated federal aid, to be matched by states in like amount, for the construction of rural post roads.

Linn, Mo. (AP) — Miss Jo Ann Wagner of Rolla, the only girl among the 440 students at Linn Technical College, says she was a little ill at ease at first but is getting used to the situation now.

Miss Wagner, a freshman, is enrolled in design drafting and plans to become a technical illustrator.

She says discrimination against women in technical and engineering fields is no longer a problem and she urges more girls to enter technical fields.

Of Local Interest

Mrs. John O'Hara, who will be 98 tomorrow, will be guest of honor at a reception Saturday afternoon. Friends and acquaintances of Mrs. O'Hara may call between 3 and 5 p.m. at her home, 506 E. Center.

Cadet Frank Smith Elected To M. M. A. Marching Band

MEXICO - Cadet Frank Smith of Sikeston is among the members of the Missouri Military Academy Marching Band which will travel to two events this fall to participate with other units.

The M.M.A. band, Missouri's official representative at the inaugural parade for President Richard M. Nixon in Washington, D. C., will participate in the day-long music festival at Hannibal, Oct. 14. It will also march at the University of Missouri Homecoming Parade at Columbia, Nov. 1, Major Paul Cherches, director, said.

There will be 20-30 units at the Hannibal festival. The bands will parade in the morning. During the afternoon the M.M.A. band along with the others will participate in a practice session for an evening concert.

In the evening, the massed bands will play.

The M.M.A. band has about 40 members, commanded by Cadet Lt. Richard Hart and led by Lt. Paul Gillette, drum major.

Frank Smith

Cadet Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Smith, Sr., 10 Green Meadow Drive.

Peach Crunch

1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) cling peach slices
1¼ cups fine graham cracker crumbs
½ cup brown sugar, packed
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup melted butter or margarine
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons granulated sugar

Drain peaches and reserve 1 1/3 cups syrup. Blend crumbs, brown sugar, nutmeg and butter. Spread half the mixture in bottom of greased 8-inch round baking dish. Add well drained peaches. Heat 1 cup peach syrup; blend remaining syrup with cornstarch and stir into hot syrup. Cook and stir until thickened and clear. Stir in lemon rind and juice. Pour over peaches. Beat egg until stiff peaks form. Spread over peaches and top with remaining crumb mixtue. Bake in 325-degree (moderately slow) oven 45 minutes. Serve warm or cold. Makes 8 servings.

One of the best-tasting pies we know that can be made in the least amount of time is this one. Bake a graham cracker crumb shell, cool and fill with canned cling peach slices and toasted shredded coconut folded into whipped cream.

Wallace Returns As Tiger Starter

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)— Seventh-rated Missouri and brawny Nebraska match two of the biggest biceps in the Big Eight here Saturday as they launch conference play before an expected 62,000 fans. Kickoff is 1:30 p.m.

I's the top early-season test in the Big Eight, and the winner is certain to emerge as one of the teams to beat for the league championship.

Missouri has clicked off three straight victories over Air Force, Illinois and Michigan, while Nebraska bowed 31-21 to potent Southern Cal in its opener before rebounding to crack crack Texas A&M and Minnesota. The Cornhuskers are tied for 20th in the Associated Press poll.

"Nebraska doesn't surprise me, because I expected Bob Devaney to come up with a good team," Tiger Coach Dan Devine said. "They are probably the biggest team we'll play. I don't know if we can handle that defensive line of their's."

Devancy, hoping sophomore quarterbacks Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson can lead the Huskers back into Big Eight prominence, admits "we're moving the ball better than we have in a long time."

Devaney called the Tigers "a real sound team, a team that won't beat itself."

Tagge is the Big Eight total offense leader, averaging 191.7 yards for three games, and has passed for 457 yards.

Missouri boasts a stable of rugged running backs directed by quarterback Terry McMillan. Joe Moore, the Tiger tailback, has gained 432 yards, more than any Big Eight back and has yet to be held below 100 yards in a game. The Tigers also have big, bruising James Harrison back after being sidelined with a pulled muscle.

Although Nebraska lost Joe Orduna for the season, the Huskers are not hurting at running back. Jeff Kinney, a converted quarterback, has reeled off 144 yards from the tailback spot.

Missouri also welcomes back all-Big Eight defensive tackle Rocky Wallace. The Cornhuskers will notice his presence.

Cardinals Make Deal

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Controversial Rich Allen was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday, or was he?

The Philadelphia Phillies announced the trade of Allen to the Cardinals for catcher Tim McCarver, outfielder Curt Flood, relief pitcher Joe Hoerner and outfielder Byron Browne. Infielder Cookie Rojas and pitcher Jerry Johnson went along with Allen.

Flood, however, heard of the trade and immediately announced he had retired from baseball.

The Cardinals said Flood's decision didn't change a thing. "Once the trade is made, it goes," said a St. Louis spokesman.

Phillies general manager John Quinn said only, "I have no statement until I have had a chance to talk with Flood."

The deal, according to the Cardinals' spokesman, could wind up in the office of the commissioner of baseball.

Allen, the slugging first baseman, was overjoyed at the news of the trade. "Six years in this town j)philadelphia) is enough for anybody. I'm glad to be away from Quinn and all of them. They treat you like cattle."

Flood said in a statement released by a public relations agent: "If I were younger I certainly would enjoy playing for Philadelphia. But under the circumstances, I have decided to retire from organized baseball effective today (Wednesday) . . ."

The 32-year-old Flood and the 27-year-old McCarver were the key figures in the deal for Philadelphia. Flood is one of the best defensive outfielders in baseball and hit .285 with 57 RBI this past season. McCarver hit .250 and had 51 RBI as the Cardinals, favored to win the National League pennant for the third straight year, finished a disappointing fourth in their division.

Allen batted .288 with 32 home runs and 89 RBI in 118 games with the Phillies in 1969. In his six seasons in the National League he has become one of the most feared sluggers in the game. He has hit 177 home runs and driven in 544 runs, averaging .300 at bat.

Allen's parting with the Phillies was a foregone conclusion. The only guessing was to what club and for what players.

The 27-year-old Allen has been involved in one controversy after another with the Phillies' management. Two managers, Gene Mauch and Bob Skinner left the club after problems with Allen. Mauch was fired. Skinner quit, blasting Carpenter and Quinn for protecting Allen.

Allen's problems with the Phillies began July 3, 1965, when he had a fight during batting practic with teammater Frank Thomas. Thomas was released and after that Allen was the victim of intense booing from the home fans. Then, there were missed airplanes, missed games, latenesses for batting practice, a bar fight, and an almost crippling injury highlighting his stormy career.

This past summer he was fined $1,000 for missing a flight to St. Louis. Later, June 24, he failed to show up for a doubleheader at Shea Stadium in New York. Skinner suspended him indefinitely. He missed 25 days and 29 games, losing in excess of $10,000 in salary.

When he finally came back, after a meeting with club owner Bob Carpenter, he vowed this was his last season in Philadelphia.

St. Louis has gambled that manager Red Schoendienst can accomplish what Mauch and Skinner couldn't — get Allen to conform to rules. Schoendienst, asked if he felt he could handle Allen, said: "I don't know Allen. I've never spoken to him. I know his reputation, of course, but I don't know any of the background of what went on in Philadelphia."

The St. Louis skipper said his rules are not tough, that he demands a player be in shape when he comes to the ball park. I usually don't have trouble in handling anybody. The big thing is they have to handle themselves . . . He (Allen) will start here with a clean slate."

As for Allen, he said he was going out to St. Louis and get himself settled down. "I won't worry about anything but baseball," he said. "I want to be on a pennant winner and this may be it."

Lilbourn Wins In Volleyball

By ARTHUR FISHER

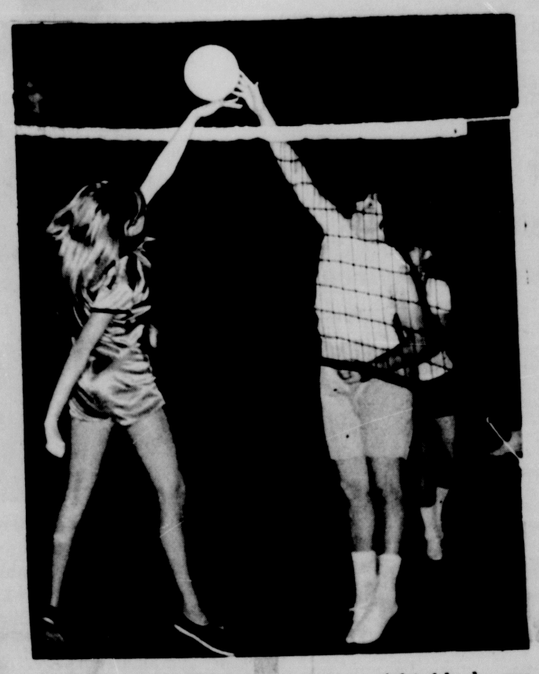

PORTAGEVILLE - Volleyball is a sport that is gaining steadily in popularity. Monday night the Portageville high school girl's volleyball lost to Lilbourn 26-19 in a game that proved to be filled with a lot of action and excitement.

These two teams had met in a previous game which was taken by the Panthers. The records of these two teams before entering the game was Lilbourn 6-0 and Portageville 2-2.

The Lilbourn team seemed to dominate the first half of the game as the action was fast and the players were alert as the game quickly moved toward half-time, which found Lilbourn in the lead 16 to 7.

The Lilbourn team had the advantages of height and good spiking which baffled the Bulldogs. Many times throughout the game Portageville showed how well they could work under pressure.

Portageville suffered a few minor injuries due to the excellent spiking of the Panthers. Many girls were hit in the face or aquired jammed fingers as the result of not being able to handle the quick spikes.

Big Red Getting Sharper

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "We're getting sharper each week. Yes, we're getting sharpe each week," Coach Charley Winner opined of his St. Louis football Cardinals Wednesday.

But, Winner added, "we've still got a lot of areas we must improve in."

The Big Red opened its season with a 24-3 loss to Dallas then came up with a 10-27 victory over Chicago and a 27-14 effort against Pittsburg.

Last week, Winner said, "we actually stopped ourselves more than the Steelers stopped us. It was a lot of little things, a lot of little mistakes. Otherwise, we could have turned the game into a real rout."

According to the Cardinal victory prescription, three touchdowns are enough to win most games, so the defense must limit opponents to a maximum two touchdowns and one field goal.

That formula will receive another test this weekend in the laboratory of the Washington Redskins under the direction of Vince Lombardi and Sonny Jurgensen.

"We're going up against one of the best in football in Jurgensen," Winner said. "It's almost impossible to rush him. He sets up so quick and delivers so quick. He's a real challenge."

Sports Corner

By Ron Jaynes Sports Editor

Harry Caray, the official voice of the St. Louis baseball Cardinals, got fired yesterday... from a 10 minute sports program he does over KMOX radio in St. Louis... with a 25-minute notice.

This could be the first step toward his release as the Cardinals broadcaster, as reports have been circulation in recent weeks.

Such remors have been circulated for many years. But with this recent dismissal... the "Holy Cow" man seems surely on his way out of the Red Bird organization.

Caray is an employe of Anheuser - Busch, while his mike- partner... Jack Buck is an employe of the radio station that carries the Cardinal network.

Caray's contractor to broadcast Cardinal games does expire at the end of the year, and no one in the organization that carries Cardinal broadcasts has indicated that the rumors are incorrect.

Even Harry doesn't sound too convinced that he'll be back next season... at least with the Cardinals.

When interrupted during a broadcast with a note informing him of his ouster, Caray sloughed off the question with the remark that he was told the job was only temporary when hired... 25 years ago.

And in later broadcasts, Caray has flatly stated that he doesn't know if he will return next year as the voice of the Cardinals and adds that he feels he has done a good job this year.

Bob Prince, long- time broadcaster of the Pirates is rumored to be Caray's successor.

Harry is known the world over and his possible dismissal is the talk of the sports world.

An example of his popularity is the number of cards, gifts and letters he received last winter when he was hospitalized after being hit by a car.

Caray's dismissal will be a big Cardinal mistake, one it possibly will never overcome.

There is one reason above all else why the Cardinals are so popular in Southeast Missouri and throughout he Midwest — Harry Caray. The Cardinals have been big winners... right... but the Red Birds of the late 40's to the mid-60's weren't the big winners, but still had the crowd attendance... because Harry Caray made the broadcasts interesting with his discriptions of plays, the players and the overall game.

Caray is criticized for being too editorial: for raking Tim McCarver over the coals because he can't throw anybody out trying to steal second base, for getting on the Cardinals because they can't get a hit at the right time... but when he gives a player the pat on the back... he's not mentioned.

But this is what makes his account of the game interesting. Harry lives and dies with the Cardinals.

When the Cardinals fail to come through in the clutch, you feel bad inside because Harry feels bad inside. And when a Cardinal comes through in the clutch, you feel good all over because Harry feels good all over.

His popularity is the fact that people from all over the U.S. know him by his phrases and how many times have you seen a fan enter Busch Memorial Stadium with his transistor accompanying him... just how many?

This is one big plus for the gravel voiced man of baseball... he's got the listeners.

There are a few who can't stand Caray's..." It might be, could be, it is," ... his frenzied The Cardinals win the pennant!... or his "Sensational catch" phrase.

But there are many, many more who will miss the "Holy Cow" man of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals -- Harry Caray.

The best replacement for Harry Caray would be Southeast Missouri's ...jelly belly... Mike Shain...

Henzi To Start Saturday Against Central Methodist

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. - Chuck Leslie, 175½, Los Angeles, stopped Jimmy Rosette, 175, San Diego, 6.

CANTON, Mo --Culver-Stockton College's football team will be attempting to extend one streak and end another here Saturday when the Wildcats host Central Methodist.

Culver-Stockton is seeking its fifth victory without a loss and hopes to end Central Methodist's recent domination of the series. The game will match the Wildcats' powerful offense against a stubborn Central Methodist defense.

Relying on the running of halfback Bob Vashinko of Cicero,Ill., (Morton East) and fullback Bruce Rowe of Marseilles, Ill., and the passing of quarterback George Vokac, Vashinko's high school teammate, the Wildcats have been pilling up nearly 400 yards per game in total offense.

Latest National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics statistics showed the Wildcats among the leaders in total offense, passing offense and rushing offense. Vokac and end Keith Alexander were among the individual leaders.

Central Methodist should give the offense a big test because the Eagles have a veteran - laden defense that is allowing only one touchdown per game. Over the last three seasons Eagle opponents have socred only slightly more than once a game.

The Eagles have beaten Culver-Stockton the last five times and teams have met and hold a 23-17-3 edge in the series which dates back to 1923. Only during the war years of 1943-45 has the series been interrupted.

"Central Methodist has two outstanding linebackers in Keith Walk and Joe Forrest," Culver-Stockton coach Jack McBride said. "We have a lot of respect for them. They stalk along behind the line like a pair of lions in a cage. And the defensive line is probably the best we've seen since our opening game.

"Offensively we don't know what to expect. They apparently have done a variety of things this year and we'll have to expect anything. We do know that physically they are very strong. We expect them to hit as hard as anyone we play."

McBride thinks his team is ready. "We're probably stronger than we have been in two or three weeks," he said. 'Mike Meyers (Halfback from Atlanta, Ga.) and Millard Bondurant (flanker and defensive back from Cairo, Ill.) are both at full strength since suffering sprains and freshman Terry Crase (Gary, Ind.) appears ready to give us help as a running back."

McBride noted that defensive end Bill Buckney of Quincy, Ill., has been hampered this week with a sprained knee but said that the junior should be ready to play Saturday.

Linebacker Dan Arrington of Highland, Ind., out last week with a broken jaw, has received the doctor's approval to play Saturday but McBride said seniors Tom Henzi of Sikeston, Mo., and Rod Maffett of Mentor, Ohio, would start as linebackers.

"We can use Arrington, Gary Kaneshiro (Biar Cliff, N. Y.) or Dennis Steele (Morris, Ill.) there if necessary," McBride said.

Central Methodist won, 14-6, at Fayette last year and five of the last eight meetings have been decided by a touchdown. In that game end Buster DeLaRoche scored on a kickoff return and a pass to erase an early Culver-Stockton lead.

DeLaRoche returns although he has seen duty primarily as a defensive back this year. The Eagles have several other veterans including slot back Larry Clickner, tackle Ted Staniec and defensive end Roger Peters.

Newcomers, including freshman quarterback Chris Domitrovich, will man some starting spots but the Eagles are experienced.

Reading Course To Be Offered

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A 10-week reading efficiency course for adults will be offered by Southeast Missouri State College beginning this month, Donald Hunt, instructor of education and psychology at the college, has announced.

Hunt, who will teach the course, said an organizational meeting willbe held at 7 p.m. Monday in the education building on the campus. The course is tentatively scheduled from 7 p.m. - 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday night of the 10 - week period, beginning next Wednesday. No credit will be awarded.

The course is designed to improve and extend basic reading skills such as vocabulary, comprehension, analytical skills, judgment, skimming ability, and rate, Hunt said. It will supplement the basic reading exercises currently in use at most reading centers, he added.

"Modern society places a high priority for man's efficiency in reading," the instructor noted. "Wit the skyrocketing growth in human knowledge and the increasing complexity of the vocational growth in human knowledge and the increasing complexity of the vocational environment, an individual who is limited in his reading skills faces serious problems."

Hunt said few persons are able to improve their reading efficiency without a formally-organized program. At the same time, he noted that the course he contemplates goes beyond the scope of the usual speed reading class.

Biologists At Loss to Explain Lack of Rabbits

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — A Missouri conservation official says the state's rabbit population has been at a record low point for the past four years.

The West Central district supervisor for the Conservation Commission—Chet Vermoss of Sedalia—says biologists cannot figure out why.

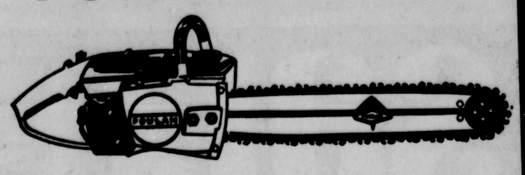

Missouri has traditionally been the leading rabbit-producing state in the union.

Vermoss related to a civic club Tuesday that the rabbit population normally runs in seven-year cycles with a high point maintained for two years, followed by a slowly diminishing crop and then a gradual buildup.

Vermoss also said it looks like some 2,000 cross - bred pheasants released in the Lamont area will produce and become native birds.

The rope used to tie a boat to the mooring is called a painter. Originally this called in French peintour was the rope holding the anchor to the ship. This goes back to the Middle Ages and eventually to the Latin word pendere, to hang.

Quiet Operation— No annoying combustion noises. Disturbing "warming-up" noises, found on all other wall recessed heaters, have been "engineered out."

Handsome Appearance— Smart, modern design blends beautifully with any setting. Long - lasting, easy - to - clean baked enamel finish in neutral tone.

Cheaper to Operate— Really saves fuel by heating 80° air near ceiling instead of cooler air near floor. Separate opening Draft Diverter gives less heat loss up the flue, too.

Greater Heat Circulation— Powerful quiet - operating blowers move five times more air than most other heaters, without creating a draft.

Automatic Safety Devices— Automatic Limit Control prevents overheating of furnace. Automatic Pilot (100% cut-off type) cuts off 100% in case flame goes out.

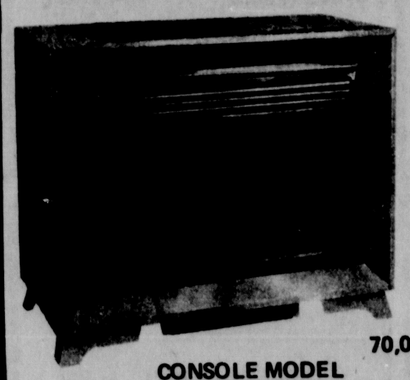

Wall-Type Thermostat— Finger-tip temperature control. Set the thermostat and forget it.

Easy to Install— Simple, one-man installation. Easy step-by-step instructions are printed on all parts. Fits between standard 4-inch studs on 16-inch centers.

Equipted with automatic pilots and complete automatic temperature controls, including wall thermostats, limit control and adjustable blower control. Built in blowers deliver warm air at base board level, are standard equipment.

Center Provides Job Training

The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Center, one of 12 in the Bootheel, at the Airport school. provides training for jobs.

A desirable participant is a person with a high school agree but he may receive training for a certificate, which is quivalent to a high school diploma.

Taught at the school are nurses aides, building trades, general education development and emergency food program training.

Eligibility to enter classes are those having low income and in need of health facilities.

Seven recently were placed in jobs as nurses aides in the Missouri Delta Community hospital. Six more are available for job placements. A new class will open Nov. 4.

In three months 500 families have been served through the emergency food program by persons receiving certificates at the Center.

There were 60 families given services each month through the persons who were in the health aide training. The goal is to place 12 unemployed persons on jobs through training received at the center.

Now in training are 10 in building trades; 10 in nurses aide; 17 in general education development classes. Another 25 will enroll for the same training.

In charge of the Center is Mrs. Altha Gunn, coordinator.

The center contacts industries to find possible job openings and to fill the requirements with proper training.

SOPRANO SINGS FROM CHAIR

GENEVA (AP) — Brooklyn-born soprano Gloria Davy will sing in Poulenc's "Dialogues of the Carmelites" from a wheelchair in performances at the Grand Theater in Geneva, Switzerland, beginning Oct. 28.

While she recuperates from a recent auto accident, Miss Davy will commute from her Geneva home to the theater in an ambulance.

She expects to meet all her scheduled engagements, including performances in "Dido and Aeneas" in Parma, Italy, in January and an American tour with the Buffalo Philharmonic.

Seven Cape State Artists To Exhibit at Charleston

CHARLESTON — The Mississippi Couuty Historical Society and Art Gallery will open a new art show Sunday, featuring seven artists who are faculty members of Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

The show will open with a reception from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., and will run through Nov. 15, according to gallery manager Dr. Robert Frazier.

Those taking part in the show:

Sam Bishop, serigraphy (color prints made by the silk screen process). Mr. Bishop, an instructor of art and supervisor at the Campus School, received his B. S. from SEMo State in 1961, and his M. Ed. degree from the University of Missouri in 1965. He has been on the Cape State faculty since 1968.

William J. Chamberlain, prints, drawings and photographs. Mr. Chamberlain, a faculty member at the college since 1967, graduated from George Peabody College in 1963, and received his master of fine arts degree from the University of Georgia in 1967.

Marea Conrad Daume, an assistant professor of art, has been a member of the college staff since 1960. She graduated from Cape State in 1931 with a B.S. in education degree, attended Teachers College at Columbia University and received her M. S. in Ed. degree in 1958 from Southern Illinois University. She has also attended the University of Chicago. She will be displaying stitchery and painting.

Frank W. Needle Jr., an assistant professor of art, has been on he college faculty since 1967. He will display his paintings in the Charles show. He has a bachelor of fine arts degree from Washington University (1952) and a M.F.A. degree from the University of Kansas.

Rick Proctor, an assistant professor of art at the college since 1968, holds a B.S. and M. E. Degree from West Texas State University, and the master of arts degree from New Mexico Highlands University. He will display paintings, prints and drawings at the Mississippi County gallery show.

Roy Vincent Schoenborn, associate professor of art and education at the college, received his masters degree from Teachers College, Columbia University in 1956. He has also attended Kent State University, Illinois State Normal University, Western Reserve University, and Northwestern. Mr. Schoenborn will have watercolors on display Sunday.

Jake K. Wells, who gave one of the first one- man shows at the Charleston gallery, is an assistant professor of art at the college, where he has taught since 1960. He graduated from the college in 1942, and received his M.A. degree in 1952 from George Peabody College. Mr. Wells will enter several paintings in the Charleston show.

There is no admission charge at the gallery, and the public is invited to attend the reception Sunday. Gallery hours are 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily except on the opening day of a show.

Fall Color Peak Week Or 2 Away

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's fall color show is building up but the peak is still a week or more away, the state Conservation Department reported today in its second autumn foliage roundup of the year.

Here's how things stand in those areas reporting:

Southwest — Good color on the higher ground, particularly in the Table Rock—Lake Taneycomo area. Trees at the lower levels still mostly green.

Southeast—Few gum trees turning but bulk of forest still green.

Northeast — Dogwoods, sumacs and Virginia creepers offering first wild colors. Recommended tours along Missouri 94, the river road, and Missouri highways 47 and 79.

Northwest — Hickory and ash turning but still a bit early. A little later, try I-29 between St. Joseph and Oregon, Mo. and Missouri routes 59-45 between St. Joseph and Platte City.

Central — Little change so far, but some maples turning. River roads offer best prospects.

St. Louis Told Transit Start Beats Talking

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The most effective way to obtain a mass transit system to relieve surface traffic congestion and stimulate city business is to stop talking and start building, Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, Canada, advised the city of St. Louis Tuesday.

Drapeau said his city talked about building a subway for 50 years until the city council decided unanimously to get started and made the long-term loans necessary for financing.

He said plans for the Montreal subway were not complete when digging started.

The system, 16 miles of lines and 26 stations, cost $213.7 million. It is being paid off in annual installments included in the city budget.

The system was built without the Canadian equivalent of federal aid, Drapeau said, but the provincial government by special act called on surrounding communities that benefit from the subway to help pay for it.

The Montreal subway is subsidized because fares do not cover all costs.

"I don't think there's a system in the world that can survive without being subsidized," Drapeau said.

Drapeau was in St. Louis to attend a "Salute to Canada" program.

Kennedy Quizzed on Jobless Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary David Kennedy says the Nixon administration finds a 4 per cent unemployment rate "acceptable" in its fight to curb inflation.

But he won't say how much higher the jobless rate could go without causing a change in anti-inflation policies.

Kennedy was one of several administration experts quizzed Tuesday by worried members of the joint congressional economic subcommittee.

Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and William Proxmire, D-Wis., made it clear they don't share the view of some economists that last month's increase of unemployment from 3.5 to 4 per cent was a good sign indicating a slowdown in the inflationary trend.

Symington asked: "Are we planning for a recession to reduce inflation?"

Kennedy replied: "No, we must now watch the timing to make sure that doesn't happen."

The Nixon administration earlier this year assured labor leaders it would not use unemployment as a weapon to bring inflation under control.

But only last month organized labor's chief economist said government anti-inflation steps threatened to bring massive unemployment.

"What they are trying to do is bring down the rate of price increases by slamming the brakes on the economy, which can only result in a further increase in unemployment," said Nathaniel Goldfinger, economist for the AFL-CIO.

During Tuesday's hearing, Proxmire asked Kennedy to set an unemployment figure which would trigger alarm within the administration, but the secretary said he had no "magic figure" in mind.

Kennedy noted that prior to the Vietnam conflict unemployment rates often ran over the 4 per cent level. Proxmire acknowledged this but said "we can't go back to that."

Budget Director Robert Mayo told the congressmen that should there be a sudden upsurge in unemployment, manpower programs could be speeded up. The Administration spokesmen also said that although there was no emergency plan, other steps could include restoration of federal construction and enactment of family assistance and unemployment insurance measures proposed earlier.

Kennedy and Mayo urged the members to work for extension of the surtax at 5 per cent after Jan. 1 and for repeal of the investment tax credit to keep up anti-inflationary pressure.

Dr. Geoffrey H. Moore, commissioner of labor statistics, told the subcommittee Wednesday the general price level is virtually certain to advance further.

He also told the subcommittee: "A recession is not necessary to bring about a decline in the rate of increase in the Consumer Price Index."

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY TO MAKE FIRST U.S. TOUR

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Choral Society will be introduced to the American public, with a tour of 20 U.S. cities, starting with a concert Oct. 21 in Burlington, V.

The chorus consists of 90 mixed voices and 35 accompanying orchestra players.

The Royal Choral Society was founded in 1872. The first concert, a memorial to Prince Albert, was conducted by composer Charles Gounod and was attended by Queen Victoria.

Until his death in 1967, the late Malcolm Sargent trained and directed the chorus for 39 years.

An untuned car is "won't start" trouble.

This winter, more cars won't start because of worn spark plugs than old batteries. Worn spark plugs? You'd better believe it! Especially in winter.

The colder it gets, the more your battery's output drops. So there's less voltage available to start. Worn spark plugs can easily require twice the voltage of new plugs. Result—you have a combination that can be too much for even a brand-new battery.

Look what happened in Sparta, New Jersey, last winter. One hundred and ten cars were volunteered for a winter starting test sanctioned by the United States Auto Club. It began with fifty-five cars getting a Champion Tune-Up (a new set of Champion spark plugs plus other basic tune-up items needed). The other fifty-five cars were left untuned. After three months of winter, the untuned cars had almost two and a half times more starting trouble than the tuned cars.

You don't want starting trouble this winter. Get a Champion Tune-Up now. Champion spark plugs meet or exceed warranty requirements of all vehicle and engine manufacturers. Remember—an untuned car is trouble!

Suffer From Wanderitus? Here's Cure

Have you ever followed behind . . . or ridden with . . . a driver who seemed to be jockeying his steering wheel back and forth as if he were winding his way through an obstacle course? His car may have been weaving a bit, but his steering wheel was working overtime.

That person was driving a car with Wanderitus, an ailment of the steering system. Its results are: driver fatigue, passenger car-sickness and sometimes, in severe cases, dented fenders.

Wanderitus is the product of looseness in the parts that transmit steering effort to the front wheels. You turn the steering wheel and, before the effects are felt, you must take up the slack caused by looseness in these parts.

The worst thing about Wanderitus is that gusts of wind, irregularities in the road and other factors cause the front wheels to veer, willy nilly, one way or another within the limits permitted by the looseness of the steering linkage.

The driver tries to counteract this darting business by winding his steering wheel in the other direction. It is like trying to control a ship with a loose rudder.

Like so many car ailments, Wanderitus creeps up on its victim, who subconsciously compensates for the worsening condition by more action at the steering wheel. Finally, he is whipping his wheel from one side to another in only partial control of his car.

To determine for yourself whether or not your car is beginning to suffer the first sneaky stages of Wanderitus, try this simple test:

Stand outside your car and reach through the open window to the steering wheel.

With your front wheels pointed straight ahead, and your car standing still, move the steering wheel about a quarter turn to the left, then to the right.

If the steering wheel moves more than two inches before the front wheels begin to turn, your car's steering system needs some adjustment, or possibly replacement of worn parts.

Don't let Wanderitus creep up on you! Stay alert for its symptoms and consult your mechanic at the very first sign. Then, just to be sure, include a check of your car's steering during its six month physical exam.

Check of Map Will Reveal Area Hazards

The U.S. Department of Commerce reports that corrosion loss in the United States is estimated at $10-billion annually and, perhaps 50 per cent of this loss is in the automotive field. It appears this figure is on the rise.

One of the contributing factors is current vehicle body design. This, along with industrial fallout and air pollution, moist and salty coastal air, road chemicals, heated garages, snow and just plain water — the principal causes of rust and corrosion — points toward continuing rust problems for car and truck owners throughout the U.S.

Although auto companies spend millions of dollars each year on rust preventives, an estimated 30 per cent of all buyers still get additional aftermarket rust protection for their cars and trucks.

Rust Begins Inside

In the past few years, the manufacturers have stepped up their use of rust-inhibiting primers either with a spray application or dip. Use of galvanized steel, zinc and aluminum coatings have also increased. But, body design, in itself, an ever-changing necessity, aggravates the problem as certain design features are conducive to corrosion.

Often those curving lines attractive to the eye lead to confined, poorly ventilated areas in which moisture and dirt can accumulate. And, it is now an accepted fact that most rust begins from the inside, rather than from the outside as had been the popularly accepted theory.

Salt, either from the air in coastal regions or from deicing chemicals, has often been felt to be the principal culprit in speeding up rust destruction. However, recent studies, such as those conducted by the Ontario Highway Department, are specifically reporting that "atmosphere pollution rather than salt is shaping up as the real villain in the rusting of automobiles."

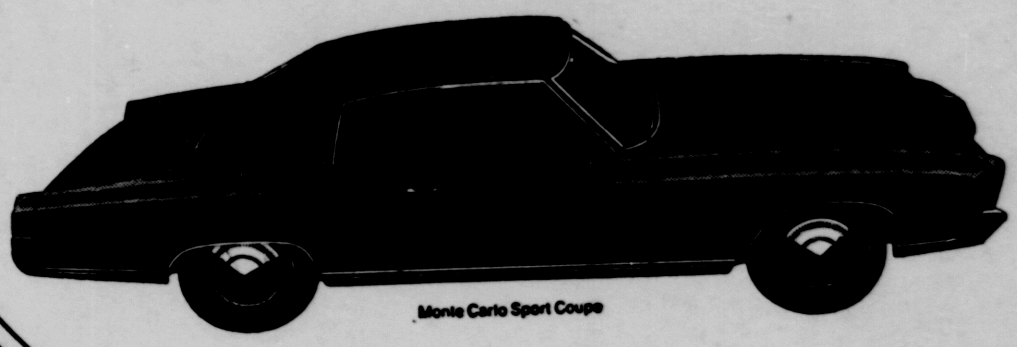

Over New York City alone, almost 600,000 tons of sulfur dioxide is in the air and a simple rain contributes to form dilute acid which accelerates the natural tendency of steel to rust. In fact, pure water itself has been found to be more corrosive than certain salt solutions.

Heated garages, where solid ice or snow on a vehicle is turned into a liquid state in the melting process, also are rust inducing.

You Sure All Lights are Working? Better Check

How long has it been since someone made a left turn in front of you without signaling? Probably not since yesterday.

You snarled at him for not using his turn signals. But did it occur to you that maybe his turn signals were out of order, and he didn't even know it?

Incidentally, are yours working? For some reason, we seem to know less about what lights are working on our cars than about anything else. When you hit the brake pedal, do you really know whether or not your brake lights turn on?

How many drivers have mumbled to themselves about you recently? Burned out lights account for most discrepancies in reports from diagnostic centers around the country.

Even the driver whose lights all burn like blazes may have his lighting problems, too: Improperly aimed headlights. This is the driver who appears to have his high beams on as he heads your way. But your up-and-down flash warning finds that those were his low beams blinding you — aimed too high.

Meanwhile, there is someone else groping along, unable to see because his lights — at least one of them — has drooped so low it can't light the road that lies ahead.

Drooped. That's the term. For headlights can do just that, even if it is barely perceptible to you. But they are adjustable devices which mechanics can keep aimed where they should be aimed.

Too high, too low, or too much to one side or another, and a driver is temporarily blinded, for all intents and purposes.

The adjustment should be checked every six months. If your man is properly equipped, he will have an electronic checker to keep you right on the beam.

It will tell him if your beams are up to power, too. Headlamps can lose their brilliance after a while.

Whether your lights are out, drooping or crosseyed, they are trouble for you if they are not up to snuff. Better have them checked now.

Beware Bad Advice on Driving

Any driver seeking advice on winter car care usually can find plenty — and much of it is incorrect.

To help drivers steer clear of bad winter driving advice, automotive experts list the following winter driving myths and compare them with what automotive engineers and fleet operators say:

1. "An engine should idle and warm up before the car is driven, especially in cold weather." Not so, say the experts. The best way to warm up an engine to peak operating efficiency is to drive the car easily. Just idling the engine keeps the choke closed longer.

2. "Pump the accelerator a few times before using the starter so the engine will start the first time and prevent flooding." Pumping the accelerator more than once on cars with automatic chokes may flood the engine.

The proper method is to depress the pedal slightly, hold it there and start the motor. If the engine is flooded, a motorist should floor the gas pedal and hold it there while he tries to start the engine. If the engine doesn't start, wait a few minutes and try again, repeating this method every few minutes until the car starts.

3. "Power brakes make your car safer: you can stop quicker." Not necessarily, says the Allstate expert. Power brakes make you stop with less effort, but not in less distance.

They give some drivers a false sense of security, because like power steering, they don't give the driver enough feel of the pavement. On wet or icy pavement this is dangerous.

4. "Cars don't need as much maintenance as they used to." Despite the improved oils and lubricants developed by the car manufacturers, drivers still are advised to change their oil more often under severe driving conditions.

City driving and winter driving may require a driver to change his oil more frequently than his manual suggests.

On winter's icy roads, motorists should give signals of intention to turn sooner than they would under normal driving conditions.

Oil Filter Change May Be What 'Tick' is Demanding

One of these mornings when you start your car you may hear a mysterious tick-tick-tick from the engine for a few seconds. Don't ignore it. The sound can be a sign of impending engine troubles.

The tick-tick-tick you hear is the sound of your car's tappets tapping, a malady that affects some engines in cold weather when the oil takes longer to get to the valve mechanism. Cold oil moves slowly because it is thicker.

If the ticking prevails for more than a few seconds, your problem may be dirty oil and a clogged oil filter. One tiny particle of dirt, carbon, a minute speck of metal or plain old dust from the air can be enough to hinder the operation of the precision hydraulic valve lifters that make modern engines so quiet.

If you should hear an ominous tick-tick-tick, the first thing to do is to take a look at the lube sticker on your door jamb to see when you last had the oil and filter changed. The last man to do the job should have noted it there. If it has been more than three months since you had this service, you may be inflicting considerable damage to your engine.

The oil you buy for your car has to lubricate to reduce friction and wear of working parts. It must protect metals from acid and rusting. Its job also includes sealing, cooling and keeping the engine clean. A regular change of oil filter helps the oil do its job.

A clean air filter helps, too. It helps keep out damaging abrasives that can work their way into the engine from the air it breathes.

Air filters should be changed (or cleaned, if yours is the cleanable type) at least every six months, or twice a year.

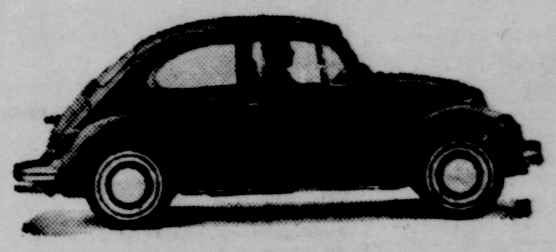

When to change oil and oil filter? This depends more on driving conditions than on mileage. Short distance, stop and go driving, for example, is harder on engines than long, steady speeds. Winter weather, too, presents problems.

A good rule of thumb is to change oil about every three thousand miles . . . or every ninety days . . . and to put in a

Roads present more hazards to tires during winter months than during warm-weather months. Foreign objects such as nails and glass are retained in the buildup of ice and snow. For this reason, check winter tires carefully and frequently for cuts or breaks. And be sure you have a spare tire in your car's trunk.

Road Hazards Make Thorough Mid-Winter Repairs a 'Must'

Good Local Body Shop Will Have What It Takes to Do Job

Have you recently taken a really good look at the finish on your car? Studies by leading automotive service magazines found three out of every four cars are in need of body repair and/or touch-up work.

When checking your car, chances are you'll find finish defects ranging from minor stone-nicks to more sizeable scratches, scrapes, or dents. Close examination may even produce evidence of more serious damage with rust appearing in the rocker panels, lower portion of fenders, or at other points.

This time of year is an especially important one to make needed repairs. For winter road conditions take a harsh toll of car bodies.

Costing You Money

Regardless of the origination or extent of the present damage, it's costing you money every day it goes unattended. Once paint is chipped away and bare metal is exposed, corrosive action begins and will continue to grow until arrested and eliminated by repair.

Metal deterioration can also occur from beneath the car. This usually goes undetected until rust appears on the outside surface after corroding the metal behind. (Undercoating will, in most cases, prevent the start of this latter form of corrosion).

In either case, the longer the damage is neglected, the more extensive and time consuming the repair becomes, thus increasing your repair bill.

Once you're ready for repairs, your next and most important step is to locate a reputable auto body repair and refinishing shop — one that has adequate facilities, modern equipment, and experienced personnel to do the job.

What Shop Can Do

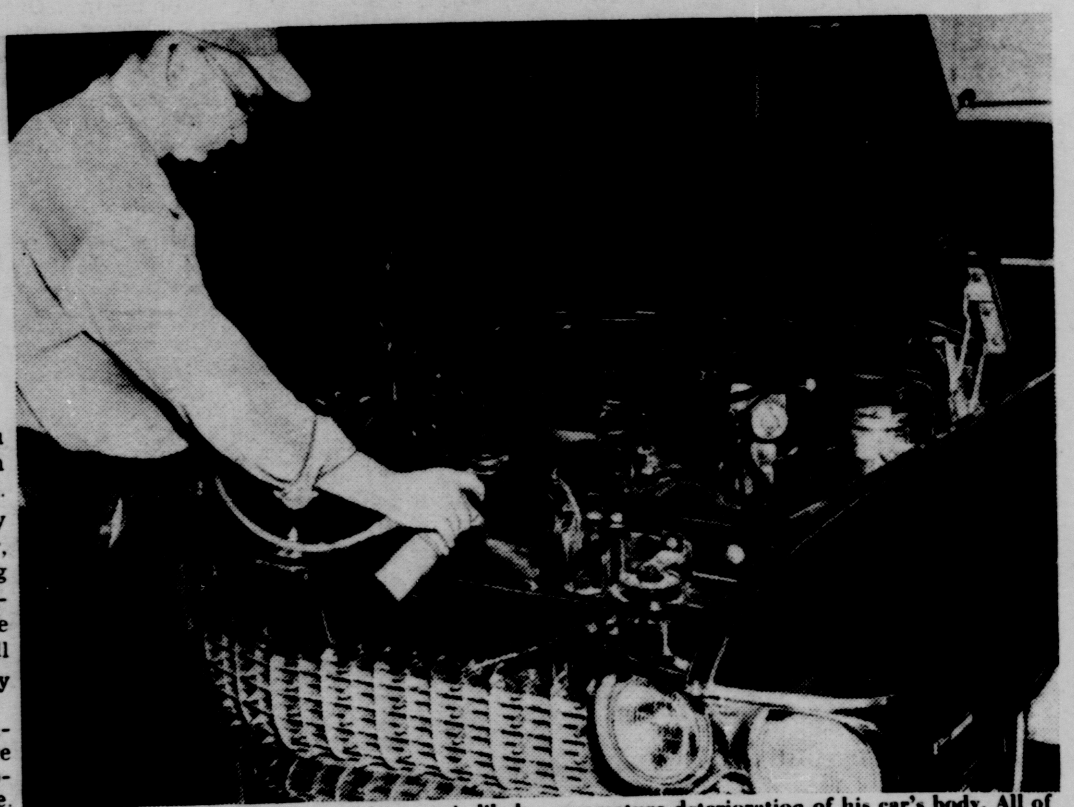

Such a shop will have ample parking and work space; modern metal working tools; quality spray equipment; spray booth with proper exhaust for dust-free paint jobs; force dry (infrared) equipment for drying fresh paint in minutes as opposed to hours with air dry; factory trained spray operators.

A shop with these qualifications can assure you of a first-rate, professional job in the shortest possible time.

Don't settle for a 50% job at a bargain basement price from a shop that has makeshift facilities. It'll probably cost you more in the long run through costly re-work at a later date.

When the original beauty has been restored to your car, don't be misled into believing it to be permanent. New damage is likely to occur at some future date and corrosion will once again attempt its ugly deed.

Periodic checks and continuous, proper maintenance are your only assurance of prolonging the original finish life. Do this faithfully and you'll derive the many benefits from owning, driving, trading, or selling a clean, rust-free car.

A swish in time with a spray paint gun is likely to save some expensive repairs later. By taking care of minor nicks, scratches and dents as soon as they become noticeable, a motorist can avoid premature deterioration of his car's body. All of which makes the car more valuable at trade-in time. (DeVilbiss Co. Photo)

'Stay On Top Of Weather' Advice To Motorists . . .

Smart automobile owners make it a special point during fall and winter to "Stay on top of the weather."

This means knowing in advance not only what weather conditions may be tomorrow, but what they are like in the area toward which the motorist is headed on a longer than "just about town" trip.

It is the car radio, of course, that is your "any time" pipeline to the wanted weather information, available from stations everywhere.

When on a trip, one should have no difficulty in picking up broadcasts from stations in areas toward which the motorist is travelling. In addition to call letters they usually identify the city from which they are broadcasting.

Think About Those Other Five Cars

At least five cars besides your own should concern you while driving.

They are the one ahead, the one behind, the one approaching in the opposing lane, the one ready to enter from a side street, and the one parked at the curb.

Be prepared for any of them to do anything without warning.

Try to drive in such a way that you have plenty of time to make the right decision. Don't crowd those split seconds by crowding the traffic — and your luck.

R) road chemicals; H) humidity.

There are few areas in the United States or Canada that are immune from corrosion. Areas depicted in dark grey have the most severe problems. Lighter shades of grey have trouble of progressively less severity. White areas are relatively corrosion-free. Polluted or salt air take a heavy toll of car bodies as do salt and other types of chemicals on winter roads. (Map is courtesy of the Ziebart Co.)

Winter Head Start Program Launched

PORTAGEVILLE — Plans for a co-ordinated winter Head Start Program in the Bootheel were disclosed Wednesday at the opening of a three- day seminar, by staff members.

"We will try and eliminate the mistakes of the past and, at the same time, make fewer mistakes in the future application of the Head Start program to the 12 schools in the Bootheel area," M. Mike Cooper, Delta area director told 150 workers at the opening day meeting.

Porter, a Hayti resident, in asking for "full co- operation of every worker," explained the "Status of Head Start," showing the advances it has made; the need for further advancement some of the mistakes and the need for understanding and cooperating in "further selling the program to the general public.

"There are many people who ask what Head Start really is," he said. "It is just a glorified nursery which tends to support another Federal project and is used as a political football? What interest do the teachers, the teacher aides and other workers have in the program?

"These questions are being asked and the public must be advised and shown how the program aides the uninformed children-- provides them to enter school without fear of classes and imbues them with a desire to go to school. That it permits them, through federal funds, to get necessary eye and tooth ailments corrected; aids their nutritional needs and, overall, gives them a background that many of their older brothers and sisters did not have."

Mrs. Bernice R. Wilson, Educational director and training coordinator of the area, from Kennett, gave the announcements. Camille Huber, of Hayti, director of the operations division of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation the sponsoring agency for the Head Start program, discussed programs over which DAEOC presidents, and John Porter of Dexter, director of social service, explained plans outlined for that area.

A small groups alignment was made for the Wednesday afternoon sessions with teachers, teacher aides and secretaries meeting at Delta Center with Mrs. Wilson; social workers being instructed by Porter at the Portageville Head Start Center; nurses meeting with Jean Littell of Gideon and cooks with Mrs. Wagner of Cape Girardeau.

The Head Start organizational setup includes Cooper as director with E.D. Barrett of Homer as the fiscal officer; Susan Porter of Portageville, office manager; Judy Bailey, Caruthersville, secretary - bookkeeper; Dr. Wm. Dillon, Sikeston, dental advisor; Dr. Dale Cravens of the State Mental Board at Jefferson City as psychological advisor; Frank Crail, Cardwell and Elsie Collier, Sikeston, program co-ordinators; Dr. Alan Gubin, Caruthersville, medical advisor; Charles Brandon, Portageville, counselor.

The winter program is expected to include a total of 176 key operatives, including 34 teachers, 70 teacher aides, 14 social workers, 14 nurses, 10 bus drivers and 20 skilled cooks.

Areas to be served include: Senath- Hornersville - Rives, Morehouse, Morely, Sikeston, Dexter, North Lilbourn, North Pemiscot, Charleston, Caruthersville, Campbell, Hayti and Kennett. East Prairie, Bernie, Malden, Bell City, Advance, Benton and Oran sponsor summer programs only.

YAF Leader Says Oct. 15 Marchers Totally Inhuman Dupes

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — An official of the Conservative Young Americans for Freedom today criticized anti-war sponsors of the Oct. 15 Vietnam Moratorium as "totally inhuman" dupes of the North Vietnamese Communist regime.

"Those who march on Oct. 15 do not march in support of 'peace,'" said Michael Thompson, national vice chairman of the YAF and chairman of the National Student Committee for Victory in Vietnam.

"They march when they know that North Vietnam will take their meaning of these marches to be a support for a Communist victory in that war."

He said those demonstrating against the war were willing to abandon Vietnam and possibly Laos, Thailand and Cambodia "to a bleak future of further Communist atrocities."

Circuit Court

BENTON: Judge Craig heard these CRIMINAL CASES here recently:

State vs. Ann Larkin, Burglary & Stealing.

Defendant in Court with his attorney. Leave granted State to file Motion to endouse witness Joe Wussler. Defendant withdrew Objections as to his endorsement.

Whereupon defendant is formally arraigned and enters a plea of "Not Guilty."

Both parties announce ready, so Judge Craig orders the trail to proceed, and gives a list of 24 prospective jurors to both sides for their legal challenges in order to obtain 12 men and women to hear the case.

The State then presented its case to the Judge and jury. At it's conclusion, the defendant files Motion for Judgment of Acquital, which Judge Craig overrules.

Thereupon, the defendant presents his side of the case and Judge Craig instructs the jury as to the law covering the evidence presented by both sides.

After these instructions, the jury, at 4:57 p.m. retires to the jury room, in charge of Sheriff Dennis, and his deputies, to consider the evidence and render a verdict.

At 6:50 p.m., the same day the jury returns to the Courtroom and states they are unable to reach a verdict.

Judge Craig discharges them, and by agreement with both plaintiff and defendant, sets Jan. 12, 1970 as a trial date.

State vs. Floyd Porter, Jr., Stealing Over Value of $50.00

Case filed Aug. 13, 1968. Defendant placed on probation for a year, and having satisfactorily conducted himself during this time, is finally discharged.

State vs. Bernadine M. Harper No-Account Check.

Same as above case.

Chester Medler

Medler to School Board In Dexter

DEXTER — Chester Medler has been appointed to the Dexter board of education tofill he vacancy created by the resignation of O. C. Stuart.

Stuart has resigned because of an Attorney General's opinion that serving on both a school board and a bank board of a bank which serves as a depository for the school violates the Conflict of Interest Law. He is a member of the board of directors at the Citizens Bank.

Stuart was first appointed to the Board of Education in 1952 when the late Don Johnson moved from Dexter. He has served continuously since then. The Southwest Elementary and the Senior High buildings were built during the time that he was on the Board.

At the regular meeting on October 2, Medler was appointed by the Board to serve until the next annual election. He is a native of this community and graduated from the Dexter High School. At present he is a co- owner of the Medler- Davis Chevrolet Agency. Medler has two daughters- Sherry, who is a freshman in college and Paula, who is a sophomore in high school. His wife is the former Mary Ellen Aslin.

Army Revokes Medal Awarded To Turner

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has revoked a Distinguished Service Medal awarded to Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner when he retired as Army provost marshal general last fall.

This was the second such action by the Army in connection with a central figure in Senate and Pentagon investigations of alleged irregularities inthe handling of service club funds.

Earlier, the Army revoked a DSM awarded to Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge.

YARMOUTH, N.S. (AP) — When the fish aren't biting there's nothing you can do. For five days, 34 expert anglers failed to get even one strike in the 20th International Tuna Cup match off Nova Scotia.

Anglers from Spain, Italy, Canada, United States, British Caribbean and Mexico blamed the scarcity of tuna on hurricane Gerda whose 80-mile and hour winds churned up the seas in the area.

The weekend before the match six tuna were taken in three days. However, they failed to count in the standing and the Alton B. Sharp trophy was retained by Mexico, the 1968 winner.

The Prayer
from The Upper Room

Search me, O God, and know my heart! Try me and know my thoughts! And see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting! (Psalm 139:23-24, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, give us wisdom and power for the living of these days. Grant to us understanding and confidence which will bring to all of us the peace and tranquility we crave. Amen.

Repairs Being Made on Hahs Machine Shop Building

50 years ago
October 9, 1919

J. R. McKinney and a force of workmen are putting a concrete floor in the machine shop, opposite the Carter Store on Prosperity street. Other extensive repairs are also to be make on this building, which was recently purchased by J. O. Hahs of Dexter for a first class machine shop. Mr. Hahs comes to Sikeston highly recommended as an A-1 machinist.

A message received from Shadburn Old states that he arrived Monday in San Francisco, but will not remain there long. He has been stationed on the Isle of Guam in the Pacific Ocean for more than six months. Shadburn is in the Navy and has two more years to serve before he will be discharged.

Because of the crowded conditions in the primary department of our shcools, it has become necessary to create another room and employ a teacher. Mrs. Archie Barnett was chosen for this new place and began her duties Monday morning. The plan now is to give Mrs. Barnett a room in the high school building, where she is to have charge of about 40 of the little ones, who live in that part of town.

Miss Ethel Sikes arrived Monday morning from San Antonio, Tex., for a brief visit with her father, Mr. Need Sikes, and other relatives before returning to her pre-war work in John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

According to J. L. Oberle, district manager of Sterling Stores, Inc., the new 5 cent to $1 store to be located in the corner store of the Matthews Building, will be open for business on or about November 1.

Cairo--A total of 5165 vehicles and 8215 passengers and pedestrians have crossed the Mississippi River bridge in the first 10 days operation, according to figures compiled by Hewitt Johnson, auditor.

Fulton--J. Hershel Tyer of Sikeston again has been chosen a member of the Razzberries, the "pep" organization of Westminster College in Fulton, which is in charge of working up enthusiasm for all athletic contests and especially at the football games in the fall.

Manager Hudgins, manager of the local Sterling Store, claims a new Yo Yo record, that of selling nearly 400 of the "tops with strings" in three business days. Twenty-four dozen Yo Yos were received Friday morning. Saturday afternoon, the supply was exhausted and another ship of 12 dozen ordered At the close of business Monday night, nine dozen of the crazy tops had been placed in the hands of prospective yo yoers.

The Bulldogs had everything on Jackson but the thing that counted most--the score--Friday night, losing a nerve-tingling thriller here, 7-6, in a contest packed with thrills to the very last play. The old Jackson Indian jinx held.

Dexter's stunning 25-0 defeat over Chaffee provided the sensation up and down the Southeast Missouri Conference baliwick in Friday nights games, giving the Bearcats--not even rated an outside chance of a title--the undisputed lead of the South Division with two straight victories.

College Admission Rule Held Too Rigid

By Jack Strauss, LL' B.

Wilbur elected to take all the tough courses he could find as a high school student and, if his marks failed to reach as high as his hopes, he never fell back on alibiology.

His ambitious programming, however, backfired when he applied for admission to a city college as a non-paying student. An 85 per cent average was required for admission and all he had was 84.3 per cent average. The result? His application was turned down.

"Seven-tenths of a point shouldn't be any reason to turn me dow," argued Wilbur. "Considering the rough courses I took, I'm entitled to a little sympathetic dispensation."

"While I can give you the sympathy," answered a college official, "I can't give you the dispensation. The line's got th be drawn somewhere, and It's been drawn at an 85 per cent average. The rule's reasonable and that's that!"

Not satisfied, Wilbur took the matter to court where he demanded that an exception be made in his case so that he could go to the free college.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order that ambitious Wilbur be admitted to the college?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! He held that an 85 per cent average should not be a hard and fast rule in determining whether a student should be admitted to a college requiring such an average.

What should be considered, noted the judge, is whether the student's average is based upon hard courses or easy ones and whether he lowered his average by attending stimulation, challenging a d more difficult programs. This is the procedure followed by the better colleges, concluded the judge, and our city colleges can afford to do no less.

Engineers Close Office At Malden

MALDEN — Col. Charles T. Williams, Memphis District Engineer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, has announced that the corps is closing is project office at Malden.

The office, sometimes referred to as a Corps field office, had been in Malden for about three years and was used as the base of operations for now completed channel improvement work in the general area.

Field offices are temporary in nature and opened and closed according to their proximity to the construction sites. The one in Malden had been operating for a long time according to usual Corps standards.

The two remaining employes of the office, Elvis Pyland and Robert G. Hayes, have been reassigned. Pyland will now be based in Marked Tree, Ark., and Hayes in Paragould, Ark.

High-speed production methods may put an end to the sugar-coated pill. For decades pharmaceutical companies have coated tablets with sugar syrup, but the current trend in the industry is film coating, according to U.S. Industrial Chemicals, Co. Coating a batch of tablets with film takes only one to four hours while it takes up to 72 hours for skilled artisans to put a sugar-coating on the same batch of pills.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Oct. 9, the 282nd day of 1969. There are 83 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1867, Russia formally transferred Alaska to the United States.

On this date:

In 1701, Yale College was founded.

In 1760, the Russians captured Berlin.

In 1910 some 400 persons perished in forest fires which destroyed six towns in northern Minnesota.

In 1934, King Alexander, on a state visit to France, was assassinated by a Croatian student in Marseilles.

In 1958, Pope Pius XII died at the age of 82.

In 1963, President John F. Kennedy approved the sale of $250 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union.

Ten years ago — President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico arrived in Washington to confer with President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Five years ago — Venezuelan terrorists kidnaped the deputy chief of the U.S. Air Force mission in Caracas, Lt. Col. Michael Smolen. He was released three days later.

One year ago — The South Vietnamese government said an attempted coup against President Nguyen Van Thieu had been foiled and several officers seized.

STOLL WINS IN DEBUT

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest clicked in its opening football game under new coach Cal Stoll, former assistant at Michigan State. The Deacons beat North Carolina State 22-21 on a two-point conversion play with five seconds left to play.

Last season, when the Deacons had a 2-7-1 record, they tried two pointers on three occasions and failed each time.

Pentagon Avers Detecting Low Planes Difficult

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has acknowledged that the ability to detect approach of airplanes from Communist Cuba at low level is "somewhat limited."

"We have known for some time that our low level radar capability is somewhat limited," Jerry Friedheim, deputy assistant secretary of defense, told newsmen.

"To plug this deficiency," Friedheim said, the United States normally flies an EC121 radar picket plane between Cuba and the Florida coast.

He said, however, that no such picket plane was aloft on Sunday when the defecting pilot flew a Soviet built MIG 17 jet to Homestead Airforce Base, south of Miami.

The Pentagon said Monday that the pilot, Lt. Eduardo Guerra Jimenez, evaded U.S. radar almost until landing by flying at altitudes of only 30 to 40 feet.

Friedheim said "I find no review in progress" when asked about published reports of a hasty review by the United States of its air defense procedures in the wake of a MIG 17 landing at Homestead.

"I know of no review," Friedheim said.

Asked if the Pentagon is concerned over the situation, Friedheim replied, "We are always concerned when our air space is penetrated."

New Raise for Conservation Commission

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The staff of the state Conservation Commission will get a second 5 per cent pay increase this month, it was reported today.

Most employes in the department got a 5 per cent pay boost July 1. A half dozen or more of the top administrative personnel got between 5 and 10 per cent, but some of those increases also involved promotions.

Larry Gale, associate director, said the second increase was authorized by the commission at its meeting here Sept. 23. He said it was called an adjustment, primarily to bring clerical and secretarial scales up to a competitive level with other state agencies.

There would be no increases this time for personnel above the division level, Gale said.

A $225,000 salary item for the commission staff did not clear the Legislature last spring so the commission is attempting to finance the pay hike by "some belt tightening" and possibly a request for a deficiency appropriation when the special session is called early next year to set the 1970-71 budget.

Gale said some new positions and some vacancies are not being filled for the time being. He also said the commission's position would be helped if the forestry division does not have to employ a lot of extra help for fall or spring forest fire fighting.

"If we have a wet fall and spring," Gale said, "we should be in good shape."

Most other state employes got a 5 per cent pay increase either July 1 or Aug. 1, but there have been no reports of further increases contemplated by agencies other than the conservation department.

New Madrid to Have Sewer Service Charge

NEW MADRID — The city council Monday night authorized the addition of a sewer service charge to the bills of municipal light and power subscribers effective with the December billing. The sewer charge will be based on one- half the monthly charge for water with a minimum charge per customer of 75 cents per month.

The board had heard a report that construction had begun on the city's new sewage lagoon and lift station at a 40 acre site purchased east of the city limits. Voters approved by a vote of 228 to 9 and 230 to 6 two $250,000 bond issues Oct. 1, 1968 for the construction of a lagoon sewage system and extension and improvement of water works and sewage facilities. One issue was for $250,000 in general revenue bonds and the other was for $250,000 in combined water works and sewage revenue bonds.

The contract for the new lagoon system, and lift station was awarded last month to Superior Concretors, Cape Girardeau, which had a low bid of $250,003.23. The new sewage system will have a capacity for 5,000 persons, double the present population of the city.

Mrs. Gene Copeland, Mrs. Gene French and Mrs. Larry Rost on behalf of the New Madrid Women's Club requested that 10 p.m. curfew be set for the youth. The board authorized City attorney Hal Hunter, Jr. to prepare an ordinance for their consideration.

School cross walks and school zone signs were authorized at crossings near the Catholic school and Police Chief O. E. Householder was authorized to repair and replace other school crossing signs needed at the grade and high schools.

Howard Phillips advised the board that complaints had been received by the county health department concerning litter accumulating near the Dixie Theater, Phillips 66 Station and a vacant lot on the South end of Main Street. Complaints had also been received, according to Phillips, from property owners concerning children riding horses on private lawns.

Construction payments were authorized totaling $254,467.45 in connection with the Noranda Aluminum, Inc. and power plant projects in the city's St. Jude Industrial Park.

The board authorized $600.00 to be paid in a joint venture with the city of Portageville and the county to be used the payment of salary for the New Madrid County Airport manager.

Inspection of sewer mains on Femmer Drive was requestd and cleaning of these lines was authorized if required.

Transfer of $3500.00 from the Municipal Light and Power to the general revenue fund was authorized and all current bills were ordered paid.

80 Greet St. Louis Mayor

A Democratic breakfast to boost the Harry S. Truman Award and Rally in St. Louis Oct. 31- Nov. 1, was held at the Rustic Rock today at a 9 a.m. It drew 80 party leaders and mayors to hear St. Louis Mayor A. J. Cervantes discuss plans for the statewide gathering.

Arriving at the airport of 8:30 a.m. with a half dozen St. Louis political leaders including Paul Berra, chairman of the Truman rally, Mayor Cervantes, and his group were taken to the Rustic Rock, where Bootheel party leaders greeted the metropolitan visitors.

The St. Louis mayor pointed out in his short address that, "we're trying to get 51 per cent of the vote at the next election." He said the large statewide dinner was conceived by the St. Louis City Democratic Committee." He said that "We will go from here to Rolla and Springfield in its promotion.

Paul Berra, who hails from South St. Louis, said:

"I come from an area where they usually clobber us at election time, and this three- day event will be a large one. It will open with a Halloween party Friday night. Saturday there will be a tour of the city. At noon Sen. Thomas Eagleton will be the speaker. Saturday night at the banquet will be the selection of the outstanding Democratic leader, and the choice will be made on Dec. 17.

"Most of the state officers, Congressmen and U.S. Senators will be present Saturday night. Sunday morning will be a brunch at the new Spanish Pavillion. Sunday afternoon all visitors who are guests of the rally, will be able to receive tickets to the St. Louis football Cardinals game with the New Orleans Saints.

Headquarters for visitors will be the Sheraton- Jefferson Hotel.

ST. LOUIS MAYOR A. J. Cervantes, pauses after telling jokes on his family background, today at breakfast at the Rustic Rock Inn. He was promoting the coming Harry Truman Rally in St. Louis over the Halloween weekend.

Committee Approves Haynsworth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth to the Supreme Court.

Approval came on a vote of 10 to 6. Maryland Republican Charles McC. Mathias abstained.

Dedication Of Hearnes School Set

CHARLESTON — At the Charleston R-1 school district board of education meeting last night Oct. 24 was set for the dedication of the new Warren E. Hearnes elementary school. Governor Hearnes will be present for the dedication ceremonies. Mrs. Velma Brown is chairman.

The board tabled action on the sale of the Mark Twain and Lincoln school properties.

First National Reveals Dividend

Donald R. Bohannon, president of the First National Bank, announced on behalf of the behalf of the board of directors, a 10-cent per share quarterly dividend payable on Oct. 15 to all stockholders of record as of Sept. 30, 1969.

Bohannon stated the payment of this second quarterly dividend is in line with the Board of Directors desire to continue dividend payments on a quarterly basis to their stockholders. The total number of shares outstanding is 300,000 with the number of shareholders exceeding 500 throughout Missouri, Southern Illinois, Western Kentucky, and Northeast Arkansas.

U.S. Battlefield Deaths Hit 34-Month Low of 64

SAIGON (AP) — The total of American battlefield deaths in Vietnam dropped last week to 64, the lowest weekly toll since December 1966, the U.S. Command announced today.

The reduction in American casualties continued a generally downward trend that began three months ago. Official sources said if this trend continues, it could prompt President Nixon to speed up American troop withdrawals.

However, the sources cautioned that although significant enemy activity is at its lowest level for this year, captured enemy documents and prisoner reports indicate a winter campaign beginning in November. Therefore, American forces have not curtailed their offensive operations to keep the enemy from getting set in position.

Casualty totals for South Vietnamese government forces and for the enemy also were down considerably last week, and the government's military headquarters said in a communique: "The level of enemy activities during last week was the lowes since the beginning of the year and it decreased six per cent compared to that of the previous week."

The U.S. Command reported 900 Americans wounded in action last week, the lowest total since 599 were wounded during the first week of he year, Dec. 29-Jan. 4.

The weekly report raised to 38,887 the total number of American troops reported killed in action in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961. The total number of American battlefield wounded reported rose to 254,274.

The U.S. Command said enemy battlefield deaths now total 558,552 since the beginning of 1961.

U.S. headquarters also reported two American aircraft shot down Wednesday. An Air Force F4 Phantom fighterbomber was downed 10 miles southeast of Da Nang, but the two crewmen escaped unhurt. A small army observation helicopter was shot down 22 miles southeast of Saigon, wounding two crewmen.

"The South Vietnamese have been taking an unusually high number of casualties from booby traps and mines," said one source.

Bid to Put $30,000 Top On Farm Payments Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, by a four-vote margin, sidestepped today an attempt to insist on a limit of $30,000 for farm subsidy payments which the Senate had rejected.

Questions about the House-imposed, and Senate-rejected ceiling have been hanging fire since July.

It came to a head when an attempt finally was made to send the Agriculture Department appropriation bill, to which the limitation was attached, to a House-Senate conference committee.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., sponsor of the original House amendment which was approved by a 224-142 vote in May, tried to get the House to instruct its conferees in advance to insist on the House position.

However, Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee on agriculture, then moved to table (kill) Conte's proposal.

The Whitten move first was approved on a 64-44 standing vote and then nailed down on a roll call vote of 181-177.

The money bill then was sent to the Senate-House conference for compromise of the differences, including the payment limitation.

Two Chicagoans Killed in Crash

A Chicago man and woman were killed Wednesday at 2:20 p.m. when the driver of a car lost control on a curve on highway 61, four miles north of Fruitland. The dead:

Arthur Stewart, 56, driver of a 1963 Pontiac, who was traveling north on the highway when he lost control of the vehicle, ran off the road and struck a utility pole.

A passenger, Jimmie Rorer. Their bodies were taken to McCombs Funeral Home in Jackson.

A two- car collision Wednesday at 8:20 a.m. on highway 177, one mile north of Cape Girardeau, injured Lucille Kirchhoff Bryant, 51, Cape Girardeau, the driver of 1962 Chevrolet.

A 1959 Cadillac, driven by Roland Funk, 20, Cape Girardeau, attempted a right turn from a county road onto route 177, when he veered into the path of the Bryant car, the state patrol reported.

The Bryant woman received bruises on her left eye, arm and knee.

She was taken to St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Wednesday at 5:30 p.m., three miles south of Malden, Joyce Pickard, 33, Malden, received cuts on her face and head, when her 1959 Chrysler left the road and went into a ditch. The patrol said the car was traveling at high speed.

She was taken to Crooms clinic in Malden.

Tonight's Sikeston Recovery, Inc., meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at the city administration building.

Policeman Nabs Four After Burglary

Policeman Jack Patterson sprang from bushes early today and nabbed four burglary suspects.

Patterson reported one of those arrested is a juvenile boy. The men are identified as Jimmy Sloan, 22, Larry Adams, 19, and Billy Greer, 28, all of Sikeston.

They were arrested about 5:52 a.m. when Patterson spotted them in a Cape Girardeau taxi near the War Drum on East Malone. Patterson stopped the cab. He said the four offered no resistance.

They were questioned about breaking into a grocery store owned by Jim Poe at Morehouse. Poe reported 30 pairs of mens trousers and 10 cartons of cigarettes were stolen from the store between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m. today. Entry has made through a rear door.

The highway patrol reported a car, believed to have been used by the burglars, was abandoned at Scott City. Cigarettes and men's trousers were reported to have been found in the car.

Patterson said the four suspects had three cartons of cigarettes when he arrested them.

$555 Loss in Straw Fire

Fireman said today the loss by fire of 740 bales of straw Tuesday at the Country Club was $555.

The 5:05 p.m. fire destroyed the straw, which was used to bed grain during the winter.

Third 'Hoover' Spot Filled

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes now has named three of the four at-large members of Missouri's third "Little Hoover" Commission.

Wednesday he chose former House Speaker Howard Elliott, Ladue Republican. Elliott was speaker from 1943 to 1947 and in 1952 was the unsuccessful GOP nominee for governor.

Earlier, Hearnes named Fred Hughes, president of the Joplin Globe Publishing Co., a Republican, and former Circuit Judge D. W. Gilmore, now of Kansas City and a Democrat, to the commission.

He indicated the fourth member, a Democrat, will be named soon. The at-large members will work with four representatives and four senators in studying governmental reorganization proposals.

TESTING HIS SALES approach for the Lions Club gourmet pepper sale which opens tonight at 6:30 p.m. in a city wide canvass, is Clem Beal, chairman of the fund raising project. At left are Sandy Buchanan and Shirley Keyley.

Hearnes Signs Tax Bill

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today signed his embattled income tax increase bill into law.

The expected action came after Senate President pro tem Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, already had set in motion his campaign to block the law from becoming effective Jan. 1.

Blackwell's petition campaign would put the tax increase law up for a referendum test by the state's voters at the November 1970 general election.

Hearnes has said that if Blackwell is successful in his quest for some 65,000 voter signatures by the Dec. 30 deadline the administration will have to hold the line on all appropriations at approximately the levels of the current fiscal year.

The bill raises the corporate income tax ceiling from 2 per cent to 5 per cent and sets a 1-6 per cent range on individual income taxes, up from the present 1-4 per cent range.

Hearnes said it would actually lower the taxes of the low income Missourian and would make substantial increases only in the taxes of persons earning more than $12,000 a year.

Blackwell Torpedoes Committee

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Efforts to select a new director of the Legislative Fiscal Affairs Committee were thwarted Wednesday by Senate President pro tem Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillboro.

Blackwell had a messenger deliver a letter to the assembled committee just as it was ready to take up the resignation of Arthur W. Betts as fiscal affairs director. Blackwell's letter took three Senate members off the committee and substituted himself and Sens. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, and Robert L. Prange, R-St. Louis.

Those taken off were Majority Leader A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, and Sens. Richard Southern, D-Monroe City, and Jack S. Curtis, R-Springfield.

Vanlandingham and Southern were present but suddenly no longer members. Blackwell and his other new choices for membership were not on hand so the Senate delegation's quorum was broken.

Without at least four of the seven members from each chamber present the committee cannot act.

The members still present after the abrupt ending of the session expressed amazement and bitterness at Blackwell's action.

Shoe Union Local Okays Bond Issue

Members of the United Shoe Workers AFL-CIO local number 123A union gave unanimous endorsement last night to the $600,000 industrial revenue bonds issue on which Sikeston citizens will vote Oct. 21.

The funds would be used to construct a plant to house National Lock, a subsidiary of Keystone Consolidated Industries, Inc.

Other groups that have endorsed the vote include the Chamber of Commerce, Lions club, Sunset Improvement club, Jaycees, women who are employed in the public schools, and the city government.

China Easing Hostile Stand

NEW YORK (AP) — Nixon administration officials say Communist China has indicated that it wants to ease its hostile stand toward the United States, the New York Times said today.

In a dispatch from Washington, Peter Grose said various branches of the government are studying what response to make, as a possible preliminary to opening talks with the Chinese.

Diplomats from Western countries who met Chinese officials in Peking last week during ceremonies marking the 20th anniversary of the Communist state reported little anti-American invective was displayed, the Times said.

These diplomats also reported a Chinese interest in easing trade and travel restrictions with the United States.

Flashing Blast Reported Widely

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Reports of "a bright flashing explosion of some sort, or light" were received early today in an area extending from Grand Island, Neb., to Fort Worth, Tex., the Federal Aviation Agency said.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said calls had been received from Des Mines, Iowa, to Arkansas. "People reported a tremendous flash and a loud explosion," the dispatcher said. "And at all the points," he added, "each said the flash was directly over their heads."

The police dispatcher at Nevada, Mo., near the Kansas border, said she had received telephone calls from western Missouri, including several from Willow Springs, about 150 miles southeast near the Arkansas border. Many of the callers said a bright body broke up in the sky and fell earthward, the dispatcher said.

Among the many calls received at Nevada, the dispatcher said, was one from a local resident who reported it appeared someone was flashing a light in her bedroom window.

Sky Fluff Blamed on Spiders

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Airborne spiders may have been responsible for a fallout of white, fluffy material that looked like spider webs over large areas of Missouri and Illinois Wednesday.

Donald Pecsok of the St. Louis County Air Pollution Control Division said a St. Louis laboratory did indeed identify the thread - like filaments as spider webs.

He said a St. Louis University entomologist also told of a creature called the balloon spider, which spins a web that can carry it through the air.

Meat Packing Spokesman Doubts Price Rise Ended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers will have to pay even more for beef if cattlemen are expected to satisfy the nation's increasing hunger for meat, according to a packing industry spokesman.

"With all due sympathy for their problems," Herrell DeGraff told congressmen Wednesday, "I have to say to consumers that on a continuing basis they cannot have both the beef supply they want and the level of beef prices they seem to want."

DeGraff, president of the American Meat Institute, said the cattle industry had reached the point where it must expand to meet future demands.

But he said cattlemen won't make the investment unless they can expect a reasonable price. He did not say how high the price might go.

He testified before a House government operations subcommittee studying the high and rapid retail meat price increase this year.

DeGraff blamed the 16 per cent beef price increase between July 1968 and July 1969 on a bad winter that produced beef shortages. He said that squeeze is easing and prices are coming down.

But he said it has been clear to the industry since 1965 that beef prices "would have to increase for a more fundamental reason than a bad winter."

Beef production from a basic 50 million animals has increased to 21 billion pounds this year from 13.5 billion in 1955 because of improved methods, DeGraff said. But, he went on, the only way to meet the rising demand is by increasing the basic number of cattle.

Earlier, the American National Cattlemen's Association admitted it urged a 5 per cent production cutback in June 1967 but denied the purpose was to create a price-boosting shortage.

The association's executive vice president, C. W. McMillan, said cattlemen were urged to make the cutback because at that time supply exceeded demand.

But Rep. John W. Wydler, R-N.Y., said he is going to turn the association's action over to the attorney general's office if he can find any connection with this year's sharp price rise.

"I don't know whether it's illegal or not but I'm going to find out," Wydler said in an interview. "When any other industry bands together to cut production and increase prices, it's illegal."

One Arrest

Police reported the arrest of John A. Swinney, 21, of 727 Greer St. yesterday at 11:50 p.m. on charges of disturbing the peace and assault.

Litter Pickups Last Year Cost State $484,568

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — It cost the state highway department $484,568 last year just to pick up the litter tossed out on the state's highway right- of- ways.

Thomas A. David, director of highways, called it a disgrace, and a danger to highway travelers and the deprtment's maintenancemen.

The cost was highest in St. Louis County- $56,900. then came Jackson County at $49,939, the city of St. Louis $26,089. Jasper County $21,555, and Green County $18,043. Tidiest was Scotland County where the cleanup bill was only $255.

Community Fund Drive Opens Tuesday

NEW MADRID - Joe Mitchell, chairman, said today the kickoff date for the Community Fund drive is Tuesday. The drive will begin with a request for donations from business establishments.

Chuck Palmer, Jim Edwards, Lawrence Galemore, Jim Helms, Leo Hedgepeth and Joe Mitchell will solicit business firms. The group will report their progress at a meeting at the community building at 7 p.m. Tuesday night.

Mitchell said that, "contributions will be divided this year among eight organizations." Last year's community fund disbursements were Boy Scouts, 10 per cent, Girl Scouts 10 per cent, New Madrid Youth Fund, 40 per cent, New Madrid Emergency Fund, 5 per cent, Salvation Army, 7 per cent, Red Cross, 25 per cent, and Cerebral Palsy, 3 per cent.

Added to this year's contributions will be the Braille foundation.

Mitchell said the major portion of the fund will remain in New Madrid. All of the youth fund or 40 per cent of the funds are used locally to support the Little League program and other youth activities. The emergency fund assists local people in need. A percentage of the funds allocated to the other organizations remains in the community.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
OBSERVATION AT THE HILTON LOBBY AT HARTFORD CONNECTICUT

A woman with calves in her legs hitting each other as she walked.

In the barber shop, watching the barber snip on the back of a customer's neck without ever touching the hair, extra dressing for a big tip.

We presume that it is their job but photographers at a public or private function are a damn nuisance.

Why the women with pretty legs wear ugly stockings.

There is nothing worse than being sober with a bunch of drunks.

* * *

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

We live in a confused time indeed. Through the generations, Americans have taken great pride in the fact that we have always rewarded hard work, diligence and achievement. We are, in fact, a nation of doers largely because the reward has been part of the game. Unhappily, there is in Congress a new tax "reform" bill which, if passed as written, would directly punish our successful business managers. This bill, now before the U. S. Senate Finance Committee, would effectively destroy incentive by crippling stock option programs, would deny tax relief on interest payments made by employees to buy stock in their own companies, and would lengthen the time limit during which an employee could take advantage of any capital gains incurred as a result of his efforts. And all this without raising any significant tax funds for the U. S. Treasury! In effect, believe it or not, the American business manager - who has guided the economic destiny of this country to where it towers as a successful example to the world - is being punished for his magnificent achievement. This is class legislation. Since this so-called "reform" was pushed through the House in haste, the hope is that the Senate will take the time and effort to set things right by our American managers.

HIGH COST OF HEADLESSNESS

"Don't give fire a place to start!" is a piece of advice often heard but too little heeded. Results of this heedlessness are starkly outlined in the annual fire records of the United States and Canada.

In the two countries, more than 1,850 homes are destroyed or damaged by fire each day, in many instances with tragic loss of life. Fire strikes about 500 industrial and commercial places each day, and in addition to the waste of physical resources there are incalculable costs in temporary or permanent loss of jobs and frequent business failures.

We have an unfortunate habit of dismissing most fires as "accidents," as sort of visitations of bad luck which somehow are unavoidable. But how unavoidable - or predictable - is the fire started by a carelessly discarded cigarette, or overloaded and defective electric wiring, or poorly maintained heating and cooking equipment? As shown by National Fire Protection Association studies, these and similar, uncomplicated causes are responsible for the great majority of fires.

Each of us needs to acknowledge the fact that fires are not only wasteful but avoidable, then to go on to reform the habits and remove the hazards which cause them. When each of us as an individual has done this, we will no longer risk our lives, jobs and possessions to the destructive forces of fire.

People are more important than tools. If you don't believe it, put a good tool into the hands of a poor workman.

* * *

THE URGENT NEED

People who talk a lot become leaders, even if they don't know what they are talking about.

This disturbing fact came to light by an experiment at the University of Tennessee.

A study of group leadership revealed that students who monopolized discussions but who were seldom correct were selected as leaders ahead of quiet ones who were usually right.

So if people with good ideas remain on the sidelines:

--the running of organizations may slip by default into the hands of the incompetent or corrupt;

--the mounting conflicts in our nation will become more a test of wills than a meeting of minds;

--the irresponsible demands of the extreme left and the over-reaction of the extreme right may slip our society into hostile fragments.

Don't let "cold feet" keep you on the sidelines when so much is at stake. Master your fear or whatever you want to call it so that you can contribute your constructive solutions to the many problems besetting our nation and the world.

This is our answer to the majority of good Americans who have asked what they can do to bring peaceful progress to our national programs instead of extremists and militants, actually few in number, dominating everything.

Halloween is coming. Once darkness falls on October 31, millions of laughing ghosts, goblins, witches and creatures of all kinds across the nation will be ringing doorbells and voicing the familiar refrain: "Trick Or Treat!"

The same darkness that lends mystery, excitement and adventure to this yearly ritual can also set the stage for tragedy. Dressed in dark costumes, trick-or-treaters are virtually impossible to see on unlighted streets and intersections where, because of their excitement, they're apt to disregard their parents' street - safety teachings.

This suggests two things. First, if you are a motorist and must be behind the wheel anytime after about 3 p.m. on Halloween, drive especially carefully!

But equally important, if you're a parent there are a number of things you can do now, a few weeks before Halloween, to make that evening safer for your trick-or-treeting youngsters.

Part of it, of course, is stressing to them the importance of being careful whenever they're near a street or driveway. But you can't depend on their remembering this, so the next logical step is to make the kids easier to see by motorists.

The National Safety Council recommends that you decorate your tots' costumes with reflective tape or paint, which is much the same material as that used on reflective traffic signs and license plates throughout the country. This material is highly visible in a car's headlights, and could give a motorist that extra split second of warning that he needs in order to avoid hitting a child who dashes out into the street at night.

With the tape, you can outline your child's cuffs, collar, sleeves, etc., in bright red, silver or stripes. With the reflective paint, you can either coat the existing designe (skeltons, etc.) on ready-made costumes, or, if you are designing the costume yourself, let your own or your child's artistic talents with the paintbrush go. Both reflective tape and paint are usually available at many auto accessory, paint and hardware stores.

Increasingly, clothing manufacturers are realizing the style and safety values of reflective materials. Two large, national department store chains are marketing jackets trimmed with reflective fabric this fall. This concept of reflectorizing for night-time safety also has the support of the U. S. Public Health Service which is actively promoting local action programs throughout the nation designed to show the benefits of reflectorizing for night-time safety. Reflective materials attract the attention of night-time motorists hundreds of feet away.

SINKING SUBMARINE CAPACITY

Testimony by Vice-Admiral Hyman Rickover before the House Appropriations subcommittee recently revealed that the Defense Department is following a very dangerous policy with regard to the construction of nuclear-powered submarines.

Admiral Rickover testified that in less than five years, the Soviet Union could surpass this country in nuclear submarine strength. Yet the Defense Department has refused to authorize the building of any nuclear submarines after 1970.

Rickover stated it would be "highly dangerous to allow the deterioration of our submarine capacity that would result if no submarines are constructed after fiscal year 1970. Our survival could well depend upon what we do in that vital area."

Admiral Rickover, director of the Navy's reactor division, says there is little doubt that the Soviet Union is working to expand substantially their submarine program, both in quantity and quality. He pointed out that the entire Soviet submarine fleet has been built since World War II, while two-thirds of the United States submarine fleet was built during that war and are about 25 years old. He added that the Defense Department has not given the approval needed for the development and testing of a new submarine.

Most military experts are agreed on the vital role that nuclear submarines play in safeguarding this country's security. Admiral Rickover said: "We must produce whatever it takes to counter the Soviet submarine threat." If the United States is to maintain its capacity to resist Communist aggression, the officials in the Defense Department should heed this sound advice.

NEW YORK (AP) — Man can make machines that remember, but no machine gets the joy out of remembering that man does himself.

It is his memories, indeed, that largely make a man. They are food to his mind, fuel to his spirit. They resurrect his past and are his chief sanctuary from muffling oblivion.

For no yesterday is dead so long as it is remembered.

Your own album of memories is pretty extensive if you can look back and remember when —

A boy could buy enough candy with a nickel to make himself sick.

Auto horns had rubber bulbs you squeezed by hand.

Grant's Tomb and the Woolworth Building, the world's tallest skyscraper, were Manhattan's chief tourist sights.

Everybody was sure there was an opium den behind every beaded curtain in Chinatown.

No matter what ailed a woman her first step toward a cure was to climb into bed with a hot water bottle.

A man was suspected of secret drinking if he habitually chewed Sen Sen, a breath improver.

It was a landmark in any child's education when he finally learned the multiplication table up to 12 by heart. Of course, in every class there was one smart aleck who could multiply 13 by 13 in his head and tell you right off that the answer was 169.

The honeymoon was over when a bride, in a burst of mistaken zeal, washed her husband's stinky pipes with soap and hot water.

For every mustache there was a mustache cup.

Kids yelled "beaver" whenever they saw a white horse or a man with a beard.

People thought twice before they bought anything that cost more than a dollar.

If you searched all the mattresses in a small town you'd find more money than was on deposit in the local bank.

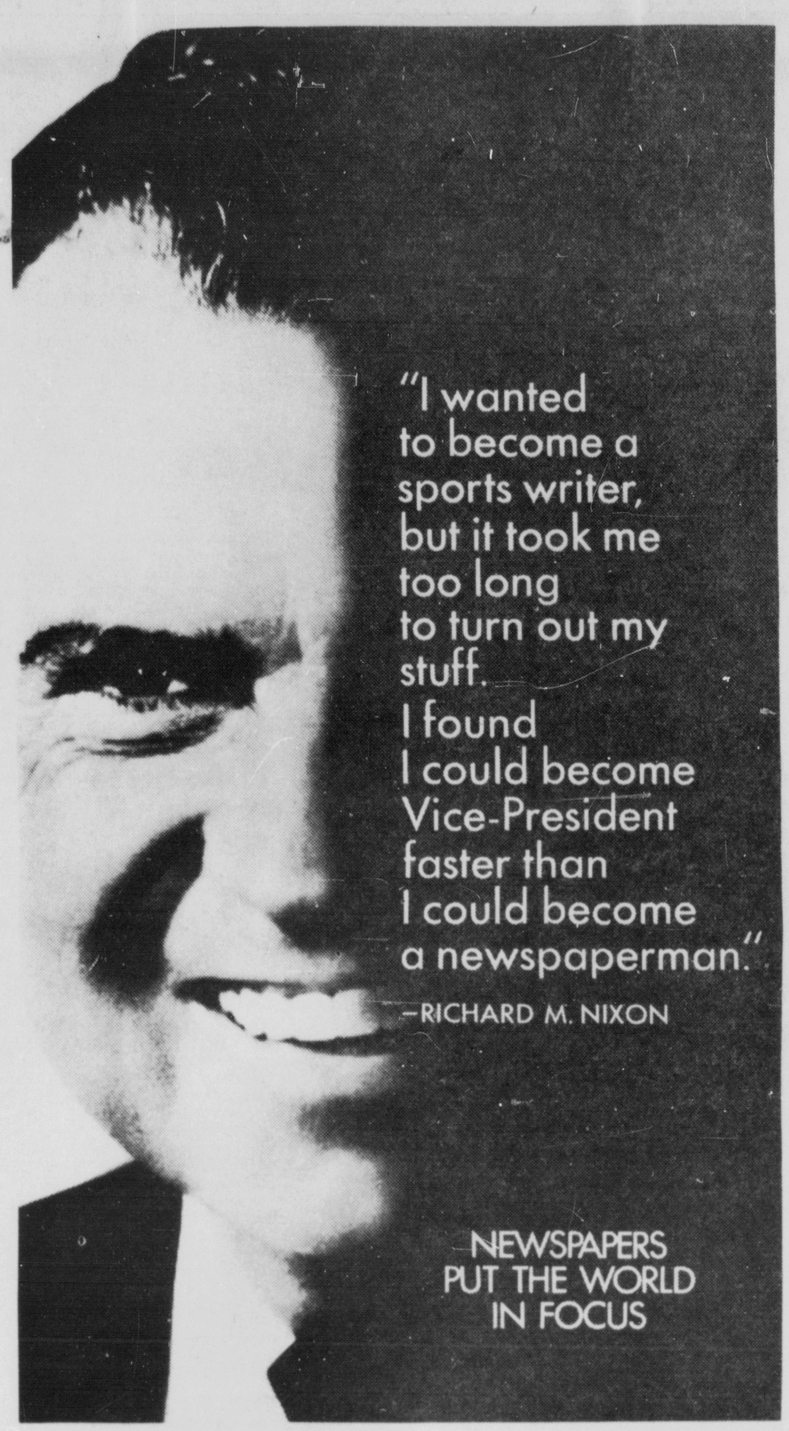

Anybody who kept his front door locked was regarded as downright unfriendly.

Before going out for the evening, a man could read a long article in the Saturday Evening Post in the time it took for his wife to lace up her corset.

A juvenile delinquent was a boy who furtively dipped the long curls of the girl in front of him into the inkwell on his schoolroom desk.

People spent less of their lives hurrying to get to places they didn't want to go in order to do something they really didn't enjoy.

Those were the days! Remember?

RED BLACKMAIL BACKFIRES

Four courageous women from Dallas have helped arouse concern among some who had been apathetic toward the communist enemy, with he result that a Vietnamese communist blackmail attempt is backfiring.

The four, wives of W. S. airmen shot down over Vietnam and listed as missing in action, traveled to the site of the Paris negotiations to talk to officials of the North Vietnamese delegation to find out "if we are wives or widows.' As one of the wives put it, " Each of us hopes that our husband is still alive, and we hope and pray that the North Vietnamese delegates will tell us where they can be found and if they are in good health."

The wives had not counted on communist callousness. One Vietnamese blatantly answered with, "Tell your children that when the war is over, this will be a simple matter."

Americans always resent totalitarian blackmail. Now wives from other cities are confronting and embarrassing the communist "peace" negotiators in Paris. The formerly apathetic are coming to realize the nature of the enemy and to organize to fight such communist tactics.

The communists' objective is obvious. They say, in effect, "When you surrender and run, leaving millions of your allies to communist executioners, only then will you learn anything about your missing husbands."

With the support of our awakened and informed citizens, aroused to action by patriots through crusades large and small, our negotiators can deal with communist blackmail everywhere. Communists understand and fear strength and resolution. HLH

Washington - Merry Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Off the Atlantic Coast, where the continental shelf ends and the ocean floor abruptly plummets, the waters are not quiet. U. S. Navy prowlers steam on set courses, and aboard them, trained men sit in soundproof rooms and wait for their listening devices to pick up messages from the deep.

The answer, a chattering pattern of pings, comes with ominous regularity. Everywhere on the seven seas--the waters we so confidently dominated for six decades--our Navy can locate sleek, nuclear-powered Soviet submarines.

From the noise characteristics of the lurking subs, flashed to a U. S. Naval Base and run through a computer, we are able to identify each sub. The game of hide-and-seek is relentless but professionally calm. Upon occasion, an American Destroyer will play a recording of the "Volga Boatman" on the sound system for the benefit of the Russians beneath the waters.

In the 25 years since World War II, the Russians have constructed a first-class Navy. Not only under the seas but on the surface, their fleet is now a match for the proud U. S. fleet. Cruisers, destroyers and helicopter carriers cruise the major waterways of the world, flying the hammer and sickly from their masts.

It doesn't take an electronics expert to read the message: Russia is staking a claim to preeminence on the high seas.

RUSSIAN MANEUVERS

In late August, 63 Soviet vessels--the biggest red fleet ever assembled outside home waters--began maneuvers near the coast of Israel. About the same time, the Russian Navy boldly steamed down the East Coast of the United States, and Soviet sailors took their first shore leave in the arms of the warm-eyed girls of Havana. The Castro brothers, Fidel and Raul, posed happily in their rumpled green fatigues with the Russians in their starched white uniforms.

In the Aegean Sea, where the Russians have found the green waters of Homer's heroes a favorite spot for maneuvers, Greece's antique Navy has difficulty keeping watch on prowling Soviet subs. Yet NATO depends upon the Greeks to patrol this corner of the Oceans.

Russian ships have also moved into the Indian Ocean to take the place of the British, who withdrew in the name of economy. An American naval visit to India, scheduled as an attempt to succeed the British, had to be called off because of the demands of the Vietnam War.

At Port Said, the Northern Terminus of the Suez Canal, Russian ships are constantly on station to boost the morale of their Arab allies. Soviet ships also make regular ports of call at Alexandria, Egypt, and at Latakia and Tartus, Syria. The Russians are even negotiating to take over the British naval base on the Mediterranean Island of Malta.

Soviet grains on the seas, however, can be attributed as much to our failings as to their achievements. For while Russia has hoisted its ensign around the world, the U. S. Navy has suffered a series of practical and political disasters.

U. S. NAVAL GOOFS

More than 70 have been documented, ranging from the loss of the nuclear submarines thresher and scorpion to the disastrous accidents aboard the carriers Forrestal and Enterprise. The latest: The Destroyer Frank E. Evans was sliced in two by an Australian carrier during exercises in the South China Sea with the loss of 73 U. S. Seamen. A naval inquiry placed the primary blame upon the American ship.

The Admirals have treated their men almost as badly as their ships. In 1967, Lt. Cmdr. Marc Arnheiter, because of his aggressiveness in Vietnam waters, upset some crew members aboard the picket ship Vance. He was given a hasty summary dismissal. Capt. Richard Alexander, commander of the battleship New Jersey, felt Arnheiter had received a raw deal. He put his career on the line and protested to the Secretary of the Navy. Although one of the Navy's most promising officers, Alexander was immediately transferred to a desk job in the Boston Navy yard.

Through decades of gunboat diplomacy, two world wars and a host of small crises, the Navy's reputation went virtually unblemished. Now, however, with the Russians challenging us for supremacy of the Oceans, there is strong evidence of dry rot in the Navy's timbers.

LEADERSHIP CRISIS

To scrape away the barnacles and find out what is really wrong with the Navy, this column talked to Navy personnel of all ranks. Their general answer: The Navy is suffering from a leadership crisis.

Desk-bound Admirals at the Pentagon have put loyalty to each other above loyalty to the Navy and the Nation. Many of them still live in the era of battleships, and follow the rules of the admirals' club, a closed clique of senior officers who band together to keep their gold braid untarnished.

Young officers who challenge the establishment are frowned upon, and imaginative thinking is suppressed. There is no forgiveness for those who buck the system. Result: Junior officers leaving the service as soon as their basic commitment expires.

The situation recently became so critical among the submarine corps that the Navy was compelled to offer a $15,000 bonus to young officers who would agree to stay for an additional tour.

While young officers are leaving the service, however, the old Admirals are demanding more aircraft carriers--a throwback to the glory days of a quarter century ago.

That is the measure of the difference between the Russian Navy and ours. The Soviet Navy is a new one. The U. S. Navy, though more experienced, is burdened with old men, old concepts and old techniques. The weight of years is threatening a proud tradition

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WORRYING UNION CHIEFS:

Labor Leaders Fear Drive for Labor Courts And Curbs on Nationwide Strikes.

Atlantic City, N.J. -- Out front in the big hall, the massed labor leaders guffawed and waved "HHH for Unity" placards each time "private citizen" Hubert Humphrey lashed and mocked President Nixon. They cheered when the former vice president said, "Oh, boy, is it good to see you... Thank you for carrying the brunt of the political battle. If the others had done as much as you, this meeting (the AFL-CIO Convention) would have been in the East Room of the White House."

So spoke the man who almost became America's first labor president.

But behind the scenes, behind the guffaws, there is great concern. Labor leaders and their political strategists in COPE (Committee on Political Education) fear that a Republican victory in the 1970 Congressional elections will ease the way for vast changes in today's pro- union labor laws.

For example, the labor leaders see a Republican drive to replace the National Labor Relations Board with a new system of labor courts.

The national union chiefs are view this so seriously, they've encouraged one of their new national leaders to fly to Australia next to study the labor court system of handling strikes there.

The traveler making this very unsentimental journey will be Charles Luna, Texas- born president of the sprawling newly merged United Transportation Union (AFL—CIO), biggest in the ground transport arena which plans a series of silent, sudden flash selective rail strikes next year if it doesn't win a two year contract giving its members a 30 per cent plus cost of living clause packet.

There is concern here, too, over just what Mr. Nixon's Secretary of Labor, George Shultz, meant when he said here, after his speech in the big hall, that the White House soon would send Congress proposals for handling national emergency stoppages. Mr. Shultz has a quiet way of underemphasis and his words, almost inaudibly murmured to some intent listeners after his talk, got slow circulation among the thousand delegates and hundreds of others union leaders at the AFL- CIO Eighth Constitutional Convention. But those words picked up steam and now many policy makers are asking just what he meant by "that."

It is known here that as early as last May 7 Secretary Shultz met with the Labor Law Reform subcommittee of the House Republican Conference Research Committee. The smaller 12-member group, headed by Salt Lake City's Congressman Sherman Lloyd, wanted to touch base with Mr. Nixon's Labor Department head. They told him that they were a working unit and would not seek publicity and were open-minded. This group has both conservatives and liberals on it and planned to turn its findings in to the full committee headed by Ohio's Congressman Robert Taft Jr.

"Some have suggested labor courts, some favor seizure, some feel that Taft- Hartley should be expanded beyond its present jurisdiction, some feel that there should be laws on such strikes extended beyond the present focus on national health and safety, perhaps to include the use of the law if there is an economic emergency, Congressman Lloyd said a few days after the committee had talked with Secretary Shultz. "Some feel that national emergency strikes should be referred directly to Congress for compulsory negotiations."

This is of intense interest to the labor leaders-- and soon will be to the public.

Few realize that there still are tough negotiations underway between the International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO) and several national airlines. New York City's famed subway pacts are up and may have to be negotiated under a new mayor. I'm told by railway union chiefs, "You can bet on railroad strikes in the next nine months no matter what President Nixon does."

There are "rumbles" on both waterfronts over the container jurisdiction. There may be a long tough electrical workers strike. And Walter Reuther certainly appears to be planning a General Motors strike. And these are but a few.

Furthermore, such leaders as the State, County and Municipal Employees' Jerry Wurf and the Postal Union heads are watching development on the public sector legal front. The season for federal strikes is coming swiftly if the government employees union leaders mean what they have said here.

But it will all depend on who controls Congress -- and who has the majority in the Supreme Court, which accounts for the bitterness towards Judge Haynsworth Jr. -- a bitterness whith Hubert Humphrey said was organized mostly by one man, George Meany.

Small wonder the labor leaders cheered and cheered when "HHH" said, "Come help me," and urged them to keep alive the same coalition which was launched by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

They will -- with all the money, manpower and political genius they have. And they have plenty.

Ann Landers

If the Fifth is Also A Boy, Should They Trade?

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the pregnant-out-of-wedlock girl who wanted to know if she should give her baby to a childless couple (her uncle and aunt --- for $400) gave me the courage to write to you. Although my situation is somewhat different, there is a similarity.

I am the mother of four boys. They are healthy and normal and we love them. But this last pregnancy was not planned and my husband is still giving me a hard time because of it. I am in my sixth month of pregnancy and I feel and look exactly like I did with the others. I am sure this baby is going to be another boy. WE DO NOT WANT ANOTHER BOY.

My husband's sister had her third girl in December. She and her husband would give anything to have a boy. They live in Portland and we live in Oklahoma so we would not see them very often. Also, they are in better financial shape than we are. They have asked us for this child if it is a boy. My husband wants me to say yes. I am undecided. What do you say? --- P. G. Lady Who Has Faith In You.

Dear Lady: Keep the baby, Faith.

Dear Ann Landers: I work in a supermarket and I love my job. But I've learned something pretty shocking about Mrs. John Public. She can't read.

For example: Yesterday we ran a full page ad with a coupon saying it was worth 50 cents against a certain item if the customer clipped it from the paper and presented it with a purchase of $5 or more. All day long people kept handing me the coupon, wanting the discount even though they had not purchased $5's worth. In some cases they hadn't purchased anything.

Then there are the women who come to the register and argue about prices. Yesterday, I ran up $1.16 for a half dozen deluxe oranges. The woman said I had made a mistake, that the oranges were two for 25 cents. I told her she was wrong. She replied, "I am not wrong. YOU don't know the prices in your own store. I read the price right off the sign." She then insisted that I go with her to look at the sign. She had been looking at the sign on the lemons which were in the next bin.

Our store is in an upper-class neighborhood. Most of the women who trade with us have had some college. How come they can't read? --- Middletown N. Y.

Dear Mid: They can read but they don't think, which affords me an excellent opportunity to repeat something I've said before. Many people hear but they don't listen. They look but they don't see. They talk but they don't say anything. Thanks for additional evidence.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been divorced for two years. My ex-husband is devoted to our son who is now six years old. I am planning on remarrying in a few months. My son keeps asking me if Daddy will be at the wedding. I don't know what to tell him. Can you advise me? --- Looking Ahead

Dear Looking: Tell him, "No, Daddy will not be there." Your son sounds plenty confused as it is. Don't add to his problems by inviting your ex-husband to your wedding.

She is now employed at City of Memphis Hospital, Memphis, Tenn.

Help For Hurricane Victims Becomes Too Much For Volunteer

TULARE, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Army and a Sacramento trucking line have come to the aid of a Tulare housewife whose project to aid victims of Hurricane Camille got out of hand.

Mary Bruner said she got the idea when she tried to telephone her newlywed niece, Mrs. Mike Machado, who had just moved to Kessler Air Force Base near Biloxi, Miss., with her husband.

"It was three days after the hurricane had hit," she said, "and we hadn't been able to find out a thing."

Mrs. Bruner finally was able to place a call to the sheriff's office in Biloxi.

"The officers told me that the apartments where Nancy and Mike were living had been destroyed. I later found out that they lost all their beautiful wedding gifts and their new car but were not injured.

"Anyway, these officers were so cooperative, I thought it would be a nice gesture to send them a box of items for victims."

Word of Mrs. Bruner's plan spread and items of clothing began pouring into the Bruner home.

Within a week a place was needed to store the clothing. A neighbor offered a shed.

By last week, Mrs. Bruner had collected 2,500 pounds of clothing and was faced with a shipping problem.

Another neighbor, Everett Barnes, recently retired from the Army after 25 years of service, contacted officials in Sacramento.

The Army sent a truck from Sacramento to pick up the clothing. It then returned to the capital where the shipment was turned over to Times Lines, which agreed to take the clothing to Biloxi free of charge.

'Conspiracy of Silence' Often Means Divorce

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Many divorces are caused by a "conspiracy of silence" that prevents husbands and wives from talking about their thoughtless or harmful acts, attorney Larry Carp said Tuesday.

Carp, director of the Pastoral Counseling Institute of Greater St. Louis, said married people should discuss their frictions and misunderstandings.

"It is important that the aggrieved party bring the hurt to the other's attention as soon as possible after the incident occurs," Carp told clergymen attending a seminar sponsored by Malcolm Bliss Mental Health Center.

He said pent-up resentments can fester and grow until the reaction, when finally expressed, is more harmful than the thoughtless or insensitive act that started it all.

He said by then an "irreversible attitude" may have developed and "it may be too late for the marriage to be salvaged.

"The decision to obtain a divorce . . . is rarely caused by one isolated act committed by the other partner. It is often a series of acts or omissions to which the party who feels wronged has not reacted soon and clearly enough, and which has gone on for so long that at some point he or she feels there is no turning back," Carp said.

Mrs. DeLay Honored With Surprise Dinner

BELL CITY - Mrs. James DeLay was surprised by her family and friends with a birthday dinner Sunday, October 5, at her home.

Present for the occasion were Mr. James DeLay; her son, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell DeLay and daughter of Bell City; her daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Pry and family of Charleston and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rampley and daughter of Bell City.

Another daughter, Mrs. Otto Dietrich of Tulsas, Oklahoma, could not be present. Other guests from Bell City were: Mr. and Mrs. Morgan English, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barks, Rev. and Mrs. John Maynard and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lewis and family. Mr. and Mrs. David DeLay were also there.

Financial Bill

The first federal-state financial bill was the Highway Act of 1916, which appropriated federal aid, to be matched by states in like amount, for the construction of rural post roads.

Linn, Mo. (AP) — Miss Jo Ann Wagner of Rolla, the only girl among the 440 students at Linn Technical College, says she was a little ill at ease at first but is getting used to the situation now.

Miss Wagner, a freshman, is enrolled in design drafting and plans to become a technical illustrator.

She says discrimination against women in technical and engineering fields is no longer a problem and she urges more girls to enter technical fields.

Cadet Frank Smith Elected To M. M. A. Marching Band

MEXICO - Cadet Frank Smith of Sikeston is among the members of the Missouri Military Academy Marching Band which will travel to two events this fall to participate with other units.

The M.M.A. band, Missouri's official representative at the inaugural parade for President Richard M. Nixon in Washington, D. C., will participate in the day-long music festival at Hannibal, Oct. 14. It will also march at the University of Missouri Homecoming Parade at Columbia, Nov. 1, Major Paul Cherches, director, said.

There will be 20-30 units at the Hannibal festival. The bands will parade in the morning. During the afternoon the M.M.A. band along with the others will participate in a practice session for an evening concert.

In the evening, the massed bands will play.

The M.M.A. band has about 40 members, commanded by Cadet Lt. Richard Hart and led by Lt. Paul Gillette, drum major.

Cadet Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Smith, Sr., 10 Green Meadow Drive.

Peach Crunch

1 can (1 lb. 13 oz.) cling peach slices
1¼ cups fine graham cracker crumbs
½ cup brown sugar, packed
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup melted butter or margarine
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons granulated sugar

Drain peaches and reserve 1 1/3 cups syrup. Blend crumbs, brown sugar, nutmeg and butter. Spread half the mixture in bottom of greased 8-inch round baking dish. Add well drained peaches. Heat 1 cup peach syrup; blend remaining syrup with cornstarch and stir into hot syrup. Cook and stir until thickened and clear. Stir in lemon rind and juice. Pour over peaches. Beat egg until stiff peaks form. Spread over peaches and top with remaining crumb mixtue. Bake in 325-degree (moderately slow) oven 45 minutes. Serve warm or cold. Makes 8 servings.

One of the best-tasting pies we know that can be made in the least amount of time is this one. Bake a graham cracker crumb shell, cool and fill with canned cling peach slices and toasted shredded coconut folded into whipped cream.

Cardinals Make Deal

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Controversial Rich Allen was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday, or was he?

The Philadelphia Phillies announced the trade of Allen to the Cardinals for catcher Tim McCarver, outfielder Curt Flood, relief pitcher Joe Hoerner and outfielder Byron Browne. Infielder Cookie Rojas and pitcher Jerry Johnson went along with Allen.

Flood, however, heard of the trade and immediately announced he had retired from baseball.

The Cardinals said Flood's decision didn't change a thing. "Once the trade is made, it goes," said a St. Louis spokesman.

Phillies general manager John Quinn said only, "I have no statement until I have had a chance to talk with Flood."

The deal, according to the Cardinals' spokesman, could wind up in the office of the commissioner of baseball.

Allen, the slugging first baseman, was overjoyed at the news of the trade. "Six years in this town j)philadelphia) is enough for anybody. I'm glad to be away from Quinn and all of them. They treat you like cattle."

Flood said in a statement released by a public relations agent: "If I were younger I certainly would enjoy playing for Philadelphia. But under the circumstances, I have decided to retire from organized baseball effective today (Wednesday)..."

The 32-year-old Flood and the 27-year-old McCarver were the key figures in the deal for Philadelphia. Flood is one of the best defensive outfielders in baseball and hit .285 with 57 RBI this past season. McCarver hit .250 and had 51 RBI as the Cardinals, favored to win the National League pennant for the third straight year, finished a disappointing fourth in their division.

Allen batted .288 with 32 home runs and 89 RBI in 118 games with the Phillies in 1969. In his six seasons in the National League he has become one of the most feared sluggers in the game. He has hit 177 home runs and driven in 544 runs, averaging .300 at bat.

Allen's parting with the Phillies was a foregone conclusion. The only guessing was to what club and for what players.

The 27-year-old Allen has been involved in one controversy after another with the Phillies' management. Two managers, Gene Mauch and Bob Skinner left the club after problems with Allen. Mauch was fired. Skinner quit, blasting Carpenter and Quinn for protecting Allen.

Allen's problems with the Phillies began July 3, 1965, when he had a fight during batting practic with teammater Frank Thomas. Thomas was released and after that Allen was the victim of intense booing from the home fans. Then, there were missed airplanes, missed games, latenesses for batting practice, a bar fight, and an almost crippling injury highlighting his stormy career.

This past summer he was fined $1,000 for missing a flight to St. Louis. Later, June 24, he failed to show up for a doubleheader at Shea Stadium in New York. Skinner suspended him indefinitely. He missed 26 days and 29 games, losing in excess of $10,000 in salary.

When he finally came back, after a meeting with club owner Bob Carpenter, he vowed this was his last season in Philadelphia.

St. Louis has gambled that manager Red Schoendienst can accomplish what Mauch and Skinner couldn't — get Allen to conform to rules. Schoendienst, asked if he felt he could handle Allen, said: "I don't know Allen. I've never spoken to him. I know his reputation, of course, but I don't know any of the background of what went on in Philadelphia."

The St. Louis skipper said his rules are not tough, that he demands a player be in shape when he comes to the ball park. I usually don't have trouble in handling anybody. The big thing is they have to handle themselves . . . He (Allen) will start here with a clean slate."

As for Allen, he said he was going out to St. Louis and get himself settled down. "I won't worry about anything but baseball," he said. "I want to be on a pennant winner and this may be it."

Wallace Returns As Tiger Starter

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)— Seventh-rated Missouri and brawny Nebraska match two of the biggest biceps in the Big Eight here Saturday as they launch conference play before an expected 62,000 fans. Kickoff is 1:30 p.m.

I's the top early-season test in the Big Eight, and the winner is certain to emerge as one of the teams to beat for the league championship.

Missouri has clicked off three straight victories over Air Force, Illinois and Michigan, while Nebraska bowed 31-21 to potent Southern Cal in its opener before rebounding to crack crack Texas A&M and Minnesota. The Cornhuskers are tied for 20th in the Associated Press poll.

"Nebraska doesn't surprise me, because I expected Bob Devaney to come up with a good team," Tiger Coach Dan Devine said. "They are probably the biggest team we'll play. I don't know if we can handle that defensive line of their's."

Devancy, hoping sophomore quarterbacks Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson can lead the Huskers back into Big Eight prominence, admits "we're moving the ball better than we have in a long time."

Devaney called the Tigers "a real sound team, a team that won't beat itself."

Tagge is the Big Eight total offense leader, averaging 191.7 yards for three games, and has passed for 457 yards.

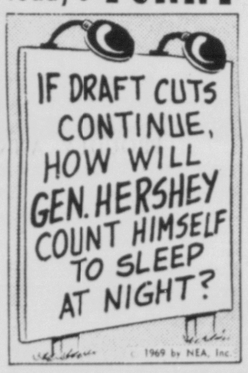

Missouri boasts a stable of rugged running backs directed by quarterback Terry McMillan. Joe Moore, the Tiger tailback, has gained 432 yards, more than any Big Eight back and has yet to be held below 100 yards in a game. The Tigers also have big, bruising James Harrison back after being sidelined with a pulled muscle.

Although Nebraska lost Joe Orduna for the season, the Huskers are not hurting at running back. Jeff Kinney, a converted quarterback, has reeled off 144 yards from the tailback spot.

Missouri also welcomes back all-Big Eight defensive tackle Rocky Wallace. The Cornhuskers will notice his presence.

Lilbourn Wins In Volleyball

By ARTHUR FISHER

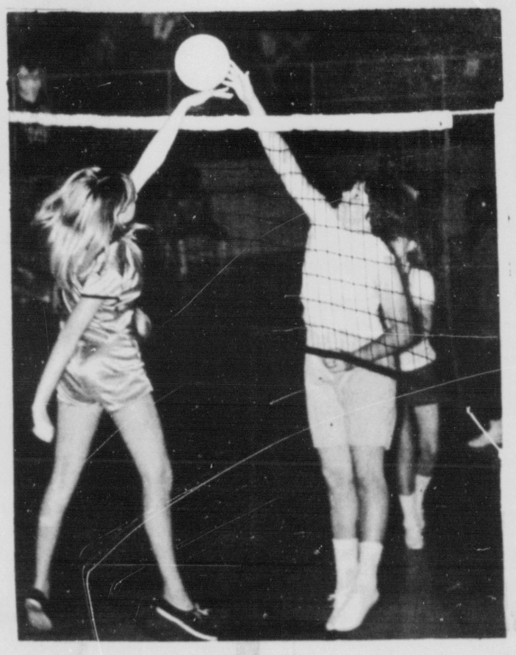

PORTAGEVILLE - Volleyball is a sport that is gaining steadily in popularity. Monday night the Portageville high school girl's volleyball lost to Lilbourn 26-19 in a game that proved to be filled with a lot of action and excitement.

These two teams had met in a previous game which was taken by the Panthers. The records of these two teams before entering the game was Lilbourn 6-0 and Portageville 2-2.

The Lilbourn team seemed to dominate the first half of the game as the action was fast and the players were alert as the game quickly moved toward half-time, which found Lilbourn in the lead 16 to 7.

The Lilbourn team had the advantages of height and good spiking which baffled the Bulldogs. Many times throughout the game Portageville showed how well they could work under pressure.

Portageville suffered a few minor injuries due to the excellent spiking of the Panthers. Many girls were hit in the face or aquired jammed fingers as the result of not being able to handle the quick spikes.

Big Red Getting Sharper

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "We're getting sharper each week. Yes, we're getting sharpe each week," Coach Charley Winner opined of his St. Louis football Cardinals Wednesday.

But, Winner added, "we've still got a lot of areas we must improve in."

The Big Red opened its season with a 24-3 loss to Dallas then came up with a 10-27 victory over Chicago and a 27-14 effort against Pittsburg.

Last week, Winner said, "we actually stopped ourselves more than the Steelers stopped us. It was a lot of little things, a lot of little mistakes. Otherwise, we could have turned the game into a real rout."

According to the Cardinal victory prescription, three touchdowns are enough to win most games, so the defense must limit opponents to a maximum two touchdowns and one field goal.

That formula will receive another test this weekend in the laboratory of the Washington Redskins under the direction of Vince Lombardi and Sonny Jurgensen.

"We're going up against one of the best in football in Jurgensen," Winner said. "It's almost impossible to rush him. He sets up so quick and delivers so quick. He's a real challenge."

Sports Corner

By Ron Jaynes Sports Editor

Harry Caray, the official voice of the St. Louis baseball Cardinals, got fired yesterday... from a 10 minute sports program he does over KMOX radio in St. Louis... with a 25-minute notice.

This could be the first step toward his release as the Cardinals broadcaster, as reports have been circulation in recent weeks.

Such remors have been circulated for many years. But with this recent dismissal... the "Holy Cow" man seems surely on his way out of the Red Bird organization.

Caray is an employe of Anheuser - Busch, while his mike- partner... Jack Buck is an employe of the radio station that carries the Cardinal network.

Caray's contractor to broadcast Cardinal games does expire at the end of the year, and no one in the organization that carries Cardinal broadcasts has indicated that the rumors are incorrect.

Even Harry doesn't sound too convinced that he'll be back next season... at least with the Cardinals.

When interrupted during a broadcast with a note informing him of his ouster, Caray sloughed off the question with the remark that he was told the job was only temporary when hired... 25 years ago.

And in later broadcasts, Caray has flatly stated that he doesn't know if he will return next year as the voice of the Cardinals and adds that he feels he has done a good job this year.

Bob Prince, long- time broadcaster of the Pirates is rumored to be Caray's successor.

Harry is known the world over and his possible dismissal is the talk of the sports world.

An example of his popularity is the number of cards, gifts and letters he received last winter when he was hospitalized after being hit by a car.

Caray's dismissal will be a big Cardinal mistake, one it possibly will never overcome.

There is one reason above all else why the Cardinals are so popular in Southeast Missouri and throughout he Midwest — Harry Caray. The Cardinals have been big winners... right... but the Red Birds of the late 40's to the mid-60's weren't the big winners, but still had the crowd attendance... because Harry Caray made the broadcasts interesting with his discriptions of plays, the players and the overall game.

Caray is criticized for being too editorial: for raking Tim McCarver over the coals because he can't throw anybody out trying to steal second base, for getting on the Cardinals because they can't get a hit at the right time... but when he gives a player the pat on the back... he's not mentioned.

But this is what makes his account of the game interesting. Harry lives and dies with the Cardinals.

When the Cardinals fail to come through in the clutch, you feel bad inside because Harry feels bad inside. And when a Cardinal comes through in the clutch, you feel good all over because Harry feels good all over.

His popularity is the fact that people from all over the U.S. know him by his phrases and how many times have you seen a fan enter Busch Memorial Stadium with his transistor accompanying him... just how many ?

This is one big plus for the gravel voiced man of baseball... he's got the listeners.

There are a few who can't "tand Caray's..." It might be, could be, it is," ... his frenzied The Cardinals win the pennant!... or his "Sensational catch" phrase.

But there are many, many more who will miss the "Holy Cow" man of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals -- Harry Caray.

The best replacement for Harry Caray would be Southeast Missouri's ...jelly belly... Mike Shain...

Henzi To Start Saturday Against Central Methodist

CANTON, Mo --Culver-Stockton College's football team will be attempting to extend one streak and end another here Saturday when the Wildcats host Central Methodist.

Culver-Stockton is seeking its fifth victory without a loss and hopes to end Central Methodist's recent domination of the series. The game will match the Wildcats' powerful offense against a stubborn Central Methodist defense.

Relying on the running of halfback Bob Vashinko of Cicero,Ill., (Morton East) and fullback Bruce Rowe of Marseilles, Ill., and the passing of quarterback George Vokac, Vashinko's high school teammate, the Wildcats have been pilling up nearly 400 yards per game in total offense.

Latest National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics statistics showed the Wildcats among the leaders in total offense, passing offense and rushing offense. Vokac and end Keith Alexander were among the individual leaders.

Central Methodist should give the offense a big test because the Eagles have a veteran - laden defense that is allowing only one touchdown per game. Over the last three seasons Eagle opponents have socred only slightly more than once a game.

The Eagles have beaten Culver-Stockton the last five times and teams have met and hold a 23-17-3 edge in the series which dates back to 1923. Only during the war years of 1943-45 has the series been interrupted.

"Central Methodist has two outstanding linebackers in Keith Walk and Joe Forrest," Culver-Stockton coach Jack McBride said. "We have a lot of respect for them. They stalk along behind the line like a pair of lions in a cage. And the defensive line is probably the best we've seen since our opening game.

"Offensively we don't know what to expect. They apparently have done a variety of things this year and we'll have to expect anything. We do know that physically they are very strong. We expect them to hit as hard as anyone we play."

McBride thinks his team is ready. "We're probably stronger than we have been in two or three weeks," he said. 'Mike Meyers (Halfback from Atlanta, Ga.) and Millard Bondurant (flanker and defensive back from Cairo, Ill.) are both at full strength since suffering sprains and freshman Terry Crase (Gary, Ind.) appears ready to give us help as a running back."

McBride noted that defensive end Bill Buckney of Quincy, Ill., has been hampered this week with a sprained knee but said that the junior should be ready to play Saturday.

Linebacker Dan Arrington of Highland, Ind., out last week with a broken jaw, has received the doctor's approval to play Saturday but McBride said seniors Tom Henzi of Sikeston, Mo., and Rod Maffett of Mentor, Ohio, would start as linebackers.

"We can use Arrington, Gary Kaneshiro (Biar Cliff, N. Y.) or Dennis Steele (Morris, Ill.) there if necessary," McBride said.

Central Methodist won, 14-6, at Fayette last year and five of the last eight meetings have been decided by a touchdown. In that game end Buster DeLaRoche scored on a kickoff return and a pass to erase an early Culver-Stockton lead.

DeLaRoche returns although he has seen duty primarily as a defensive back this year. The Eagles have several other veterans including slot back Larry Clickner, tackle Ted Staniec and defensive end Roger Peters.

Newcomers, including freshman quarterback Chris Domitrovich, will man some starting spots but the Eagles are experienced.

Reading Course To Be Offered

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A 10-week reading efficiency course for adults will be offered by Southeast Missouri State College beginning this month, Donald Hunt, instructor of education and psychology at the college, has announced.

Hunt, who will teach the course, said an organizational meeting willbe held at 7 p.m. Monday in the education building on the campus. The course is tentatively scheduled from 7 p.m. - 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday night of the 10 - week period, beginning next Wednesday. No credit will be awarded.

The course is designed to improve and extend basic reading skills such as vocabulary, comprehension, analytical skills, judgment, skimming ability, and rate, Hunt said. It will supplement the basic reading exercises currently in use at most reading centers, he added.

"Modern society places a high priority for man's efficiency in reading," the instructor noted. "Wit the skyrocketing growth in human knowledge and the increasing complexity of the vocational growth in human knowledge and the increasing complexity of the vocational environment, an individual who is limited in his reading skills faces serious problems."

Hunt said few persons are able to improve their reading efficiency without a formally-organized program. At the same time, he noted that the course he contemplates goes beyond the scope of the usual speed reading class.

Biologists At Loss to Explain Lack of Rabbits

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — A Missouri conservation official says the state's rabbit population has been at a record low point for the past four years.

The West Central district supervisor for the Conservation Commission—Chet Vermoss of Sedalia—says biologists cannot figure out why.

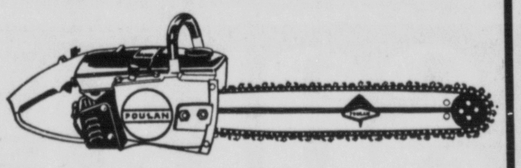

Missouri has traditionally been the leading rabbit-producing state in the union.

Vermoss related to a civic club Tuesday that the rabbit population normally runs in seven-year cycles with a high point maintained for two years, followed by a slowly diminishing crop and then a gradual buildup.

Vermoss also said it looks like some 2,000 cross - bred pheasants released in the Lamont area will produce and become native birds.

The rope used to tie a boat to the mooring is called a painter. Originally, this called in French peintour- was the rope holding the anchor to the ship. This goes back to the Middle Ages and eventually to the Latin word pendere, to hang.

Quiet Operation— No annoying combustion noises. Disturbing "warming-up" noises, found on all other wall recessed heaters, have been "engineered out."

Handsome Appearance— Smart, modern design blends beautifully with any setting. Long - lasting, easy - to - clean baked enamel finish in neutral tone.

Cheaper to Operate— Really saves fuel by heating 80° air near ceiling instead of cooler air near floor. Separate opening Draft Diverter gives less heat loss up the flue, too.

Greater Heat Circulation— Powerful quiet - operating blowers move five times more air than most other heaters, without creating a draft.

Automatic Safety Devices— Automatic Limit Control prevents overheating of furnace. Automatic Pilot (100% cut-off type) cuts off 100% in case flame goes out.

ADMINISTRATORS MEET IN the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Center, at the Airport school. They are from left seated, Mrs. Ruby Hughes, emergency food aide; Mrs. Thelma West, recruiter; and Mrs. Bettie Redd, health aide; standing, Mrs. Shirley Holifield, emergency food aide; Mrs. Mary French, counselor; Mrs. Altha Gunn, coordinator; and Miss Shirley Burton, secretary.

Center Provides Job Training

The Delta Area Economic Opportunity Center, one of 12 in the Bootheel, at the Airport school. provides training for jobs.

A desirable participant is a person with a high school agree but he may receive training for a certificate, which is quivalent to a high school diploma.

Taught at the school are nurses aides, building trades, general education development and emergency food program training.

Eligibility to enter classes are those having low income and in need of health facilities.

Seven recently were placed in jobs as nurses aides in the Missouri Delta Community hospital. Six more are available for job placements. A new class will open Nov. 4.

In three months 500 families have been served through the emergency food program by persons receiving certificates at the Center.

There were 60 families given services each month through the persons who were in the health aide training. The goal is to place 12 unemployed persons on jobs through training received at the center.

Now in training are 10 in building trades; 10 in nurses aide; 17 in general education development classes. Another 25 will enroll for the same training.

In charge of the Center is Mrs. Altha Gunn, coordinator.

The center contacts industries to find possible job openings and to fill the requirements with proper training.

Mrs. Mary French, counselor, deals with job placement. and works with the person seeking the training.

SOPRANO SINGS FROM CHAIR

GENEVA (AP) — Brooklyn-born soprano Gloria Davy will sing in Poulenc's "Dialogues of the Carmelites" from a wheelchair in performances at the Grand Theater in Geneva, Switzerland, beginning Oct. 28.

While she recuperates from a recent auto accident, Miss Davy will commute from her Geneva home to the theater in an ambulance.

She expects to meet all her scheduled engagements, including performances in "Dido and Aeneas" in Parma, Italy, in January and an American tour with the Buffalo Philharmonic.

Seven Cape State Artists To Exhibit at Charleston

CHARLESTON — The Mississippi Couuty Historical Society and Art Gallery will open a new art show Sunday, featuring seven artists who are faculty members of Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

The show will open with a reception from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., and will run through Nov. 15, according to gallery manager Dr. Robert Frazier.

Those taking part in the show:

Sam Bishop, serigraphy (color prints made by the silk screen process). Mr. Bishop, an instructor of art and supervisor at the Campus School, received his B. S. from SEMo State in 1961, and his M. Ed. degree from the University of Missouri in 1965. He has been on the Cape State faculty since 1968.

William J. Chamberlain, prints, drawings and photographs. Mr. Chamberlain, a faculty member at the college since 1967, graduated from George Peabody College in 1963, and received his master of fine arts degree from the University of Georgia in 1967.

Marea Conrad Daume, an assistant professor of art, has been a member of the college staff since 1960. She graduated from Cape State in 1931 with a B.S. in education degree, attended Teachers College at Columbia University and received her M. S. in Ed. degree in 1958 from Southern Illinois University. She has also attended the University of Chicago. She will be displaying stitchery and painting.

Frank W. Needle Jr., an assistant professor of art, has been on he college faculty since 1967. He will display his paintings in the Charles show. He has a bachelor of fine arts degree from Washington University (1952) and a M.F.A. degree from the University of Kansas.

Rick Proctor, an assistant professor of art at the college since 1968, holds a B.S. and M. E. Degree from West Texas State University, and the master of arts degree from New Mexico Highlands University. He will display paintings, prints and drawings at the Mississippi County gallery show.

Roy Vincent Schoenborn, associate professor of art and education at the college, received his masters degree from Teachers College, Columbia University in 1956. He has also attended Kent State University, Illinois State Normal University, Western Reserve University, and Northwestern. Mr. Schoenborn will have watercolors on display Sunday.

Jake K. Wells, who gave one of the first one- man shows at the Charleston gallery, is an assistant professor of art at the college, where he has taught since 1960. He graduated from the college in 1942, and received his M.A. degree in 1952 from George Peabody College. Mr. Wells will enter several paintings in the Charleston show.

There is no admission charge at the gallery, and the public is invited to attend the reception Sunday. Gallery hours are 1p.m. to 5 p.m. daily except on the opening day of a show.

Fall Color Peak Week Or 2 Away

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's fall color show is building up but the peak is still a week or more away, the state Conservation Department reported today in its second autumn foliage roundup of the year.

Here's how things stand in those areas reporting:

Southwest — Good color on the higher ground, particularly in the Table Rock—Lake Taneycomo area. Trees at the lower levels still mostly green.

Southeast—Few gum trees turning but bulk of forest still green.

Northeast — Dogwoods, sumacs and Virginia creepers offering first wild colors. Recommended tours along Missouri 94, the river road, and Missouri highways 47 and 79.

Northwest — Hickory and ash turning but still a bit early. A little later, try I-29 between St. Joseph and Oregon, Mo. and Missouri routes 59-45 between St. Joseph and Platte City.

Central — Little change so far, but some maples turning. River roads offer best prospects.

St. Louis Told Transit Start Beats Talking

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The most effective way to obtain a mass transit system to relieve surface traffic congestion and stimulate city business is to stop talking and start building, Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, Canada, advised the city of St. Louis Tuesday.

Drapeau said his city talked about building a subway for 50 years until the city council decided unanimously to get started and made the long-term loans necessary for financing.

He said plans for the Montreal subway were not complete when digging started.

The system, 16 miles of lines and 26 stations, cost $213.7 million. It is being paid off in annual installments included in the city budget.

The system was built without the Canadian equivalent of federal aid, Drapeau said, but the provincial government by special act called on surrounding communities that benefit from the subway to help pay for it.

The Montreal subway is subsidized because fares do not cover all costs.

"I don't think there's a system in the world that can survive without being subsidized," Drapeau said.

Drapeau was in St. Louis to attend a "Salute to Canada" program.

Kennedy Quizzed on Jobless Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary David Kennedy says the Nixon administration finds a 4 per cent unemployment rate "acceptable" in its fight to curb inflation.

But he won't say how much higher the jobless rate could go without causing a change in anti-inflation policies.

Kennedy was one of several administration experts quizzed Tuesday by worried members of the joint congressional economic subcommittee.

Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and William Proxmire, D-Wis., made it clear they don't share the view of some economists that last month's increase of unemployment from 3.5 to 4 per cent was a good sign indicating a slowdown in the inflationary trend.

Symington asked: "Are we planning for a recession to reduce inflation?"

Kennedy replied: "No, we must now watch the timing to make sure that doesn't happen."

The Nixon administration earlier this year assured labor leaders it would not use unemployment as a weapon to bring inflation under control.

But only last month organized labor's chief economist said government anti-inflation steps threatened to bring massive unemployment.

"What they are trying to do is bring down the rate of price increases by slamming the brakes on the economy, which can only result in a further increase in unemployment," said Nathaniel Goldfinger, economist for the AFL-CIO.

During Tuesday's hearing, Proxmire asked Kennedy to set an unemployment figure which would trigger alarm within the administration, but the secretary said he had no "magic figure" in mind.

Kennedy noted that prior to the Vietnam conflict unemployment rates often ran over the 4 per cent level. Proxmire acknowledged this but said "we can't go back to that."

Budget Director Robert Mayo told the congressmen that should there be a sudden upsurge in unemployment, manpower programs could be speeded up. The Administration spokesmen also said that although there was no emergency plan, other steps could include restoration of federal construction and enactment of family assistance and unemployment insurance measures proposed earlier.

Kennedy and Mayo urged the members to work for extension of the surtax at 5 per cent after Jan. 1 and for repeal of the investment tax credit to keep up anti-inflationary pressure.

Dr. Geoffrey H. Moore, commissioner of labor statistics, told the subcommittee Wednesday the general price level is virtually certain to advance further.

He also told the subcommittee: "A recession is not necessary to bring about a decline in the rate of increase in the Consumer Price Index."

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY TO MAKE FIRST U.S. TOUR

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Choral Society will be introduced to the American public, with a tour of 20 U.S. cities, starting with a concert Oct. 21 in Burlington, V

The chorus consists of 90 mixed voices and 35 accompanying orchestra players.

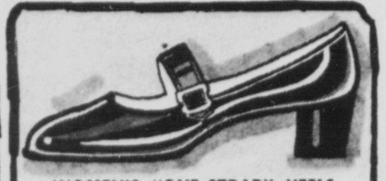

The Royal Choral Society was founded in 1872. The first concert, a memorial to Prince Albert, was conducted by composer Charles Gounod and was attended by Queen Victoria.

Until his death in 1967, the late Malcolm Sargent trained and directed the chorus for 39 years.

An untuned car is "won't start" trouble.

This winter, more cars won't start because of worn spark plugs than old batteries. Worn spark plugs? You'd better believe it! Especially in winter.

The colder it gets, the more your battery's output drops. So there's less voltage available to start. Worn spark plugs can easily require twice the voltage of new plugs. Result — you have a combination that can be too much for even a brand-new battery.

Look what happened in Sparta, New Jersey, last winter. One hundred and ten cars were volunteered for a winter starting test sanctioned by the United States Auto Club. It began with fifty-five cars getting a Champion Tune-Up (a new set of Champion spark plugs plus other basic tune-up items needed). The other fifty-five cars were left untuned. After three months of winter, the untuned cars had almost two and a half times more starting trouble than the tuned cars.

You don't want starting trouble this winter. Get a Champion Tune-Up now. Champion spark plugs meet or exceed warranty requirements of all vehicle and engine manufacturers. Remember — an untuned car is trouble!

Suffer From Wanderitus? Here's Cure

Have you ever followed behind . . . or ridden with . . . a driver who seemed to be jockeying his steering wheel back and forth as if he were winding his way through an obstacle course? His car may have been weaving a bit, but his steering wheel was working overtime.

That person was driving a car with Wanderitus, an ailment of the steering system. Its results are: driver fatigue, passenger car-sickness and sometimes, in severe cases, dented fenders.

Wanderitus is the product of looseness in the parts that transmit steering effort to the front wheels. You turn the steering wheel and, before the effects are felt, you must take up the slack caused by looseness in these parts.

The worst thing about Wanderitus is that gusts of wind, irregularities in the road and other factors cause the front wheels to veer, willy nilly, one way or another within the limits permitted by the looseness of the steering linkage.

The driver tries to counteract this darting business by winding his steering wheel in the other direction. It is like trying to control a ship with a loose rudder.

Like so many car ailments, Wanderitus creeps up on its victim, who subconsciously compensates for the worsening condition by more action at the steering wheel. Finally, he is whipping his wheel from one side to another in only partial control of his car.

To determine for yourself whether or not your car is beginning to suffer the first sneaky stages of Wanderitus, try this simple test:

Stand outside your car and reach through the open window to the steering wheel.

With your front wheels pointed straight ahead, and your car standing still, move the steering wheel about a quarter turn to the left, then to the right.

If the steering wheel moves more than two inches before the front wheels begin to turn, your car's steering system needs some adjustment, or possibly replacement of worn parts.

Don't let Wanderitus creep up on you! Stay alert for its symptoms and consult your mechanic at the very first sign. Then, just to be sure, include a check of your car's steering during its six month physical exam.

Check of Map Will Reveal Area Hazards

The U.S. Department of Commerce reports that corrosion loss in the United States is estimated at $10-billion annually and, perhaps 50 per cent of this loss is in the automotive field. It appears this figure is on the rise.

One of the contributing factors is current vehicle body design. This, along with industrial fallout and air pollution, moist and salty coastal air, road chemicals, heated garages, snow and just plain water — the principal causes of rust and corrosion — points toward continuing rust problems for car and truck owners throughout the U.S.

Although auto companies spend millions of dollars each year on rust preventives, an estimated 30 per cent of all buyers still get additional aftermarket rust protection for their cars and trucks.

Rust Begins Inside

In the past few years, the manufacturers have stepped up their use of rust-inhibiting primers either with a spray application or dip. Use of galvanized steel, zinc and aluminum coatings have also increased. But, body design, in itself, an ever-changing necessity, aggravates the problem as certain design features are conducive to corrosion.

Often those curving lines attractive to the eye lead to confined, poorly ventilated areas in which moisture and dirt can accumulate. And, it is now an accepted fact that most rust begins from the inside, rather than from the outside as had been the popularly accepted theory.

Salt, either from the air in coastal regions or from deicing chemicals, has often been felt to be the principal culprit in speeding up rust destruction. However, recent studies, such as those conducted by the Ontario Highway Department, are specifically reporting that "atmosphere pollution rather than salt is shaping up as the real villain in the rusting of automobiles."

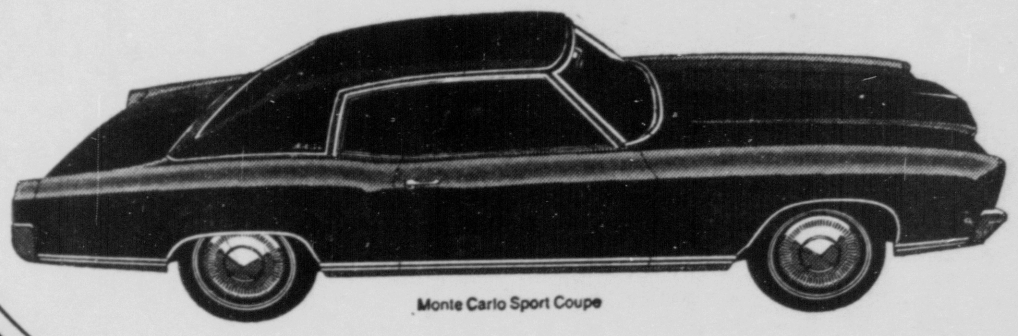

Over New York City alone, almost 600,000 tons of sulfur dioxide is in the air and a simple rain contributes to form dilute acid which accelerates the natural tendency of steel to rust. In fact, pure water itself has been found to be more corrosive than certain salt solutions.

Heated garages, where solid ice or snow on a vehicle is turned into a liquid state in the melting process, also are rust inducing.

You Sure All Lights are Working? Better Check

How long has it been since someone made a left turn in front of you without signaling? Probably not since yesterday.

You snarled at him for not using his turn signals. But did it occur to you that maybe his turn signals were out of order, and he didn't even know it?

Incidentally, are yours working? For some reason, we seem to know less about what lights are working on our cars than about anything else. When you hit the brake pedal, do you really know whether or not your brake lights turn on?

How many drivers have mumbled to themselves about you recently? Burned out lights account for most discrepancies in reports from diagnostic centers around the country.

Even the driver whose lights all burn like blazes may have his lighting problems, too: Improperly aimed headlights. This is the driver who appears to have his high beams on as he heads your way. But your up-and-down flash warning finds that those were his low beams blinding you — aimed too high.

Meanwhile, there is someone else groping along, unable to see because his lights — at least one of them — has drooped so low it can't light the road that lies ahead.

Drooped. That's the term. For headlights can do just that, even if it is barely perceptible to you. But they are adjustable devices which mechanics can keep aimed where they should be aimed.

Too high, too low, or too much to one side or another, and a driver is temporarily blinded, for all intents and purposes.

The adjustment should be checked every six months. If your man is properly equipped, he will have an electronic checker to keep you right on the beam.

It will tell him if your beams are up to power, too. Headlamps can lose their brilliance after a while.

Whether your lights are out, drooping or crosseyed, they are trouble for you if they are not up to snuff. Better have them checked now.

Beware Bad Advice on Driving

Any driver seeking advice on winter car care usually can find plenty — and much of it is incorrect.

To help drivers steer clear of bad winter driving advice, automotive experts list the following winter driving myths and compare them with what automotive engineers and fleet operators say:

1. "An engine should idle and warm up before the car is driven, especially in cold weather." Not so, say the experts. The best way to warm up an engine to peak operating efficiency is to drive the car easily. Just idling the engine keeps the choke closed longer.

2. "Pump the accelerator a few times before using the starter so the engine will start the first time and prevent flooding." Pumping the accelerator more than once on cars with automatic chokes may flood the engine.

The proper method is to depress the pedal slightly, hold it there and start the motor. If the engine is flooded, a motorist should floor the gas pedal and hold it there while he tries to start the engine. If the engine doesn't start, wait a few minutes and try again, repeating this method every few minutes until the car starts.

3. "Power brakes make your car safer: you can stop quicker." Not necessarily, says the Allstate expert. Power brakes make you stop with less effort, but not in less distance.

They give some drivers a false sense of security, because like power steering, they don't give the driver enough feel of the pavement. On wet or icy pavement this is dangerous.

4. "Cars don't need as much maintenance as they used to." Despite the improved oils and lubricants developed by the car manufacturers, drivers still are advised to change their oil more often under severe driving conditions.

City driving and winter driving may require a driver to change his oil more frequently than his manual suggests.

On winter's icy roads, motorists should give signals of intention to turn sooner than they would under normal driving conditions.

Oil Filter Change May Be What 'Tick' is Demanding

One of these mornings when you start your car you may hear a mysterious tick-tick-tick from the engine for a few seconds. Don't ignore it. The sound can be a sign of impending engine troubles.

The tick-tick-tick you hear is the sound of your car's tappets tapping, a malady that affects some engines in cold weather when the oil takes longer to get to the valve mechanism. Cold oil moves slowly because it is thicker.

If the ticking prevails for more than a few seconds, your problem may be dirty oil and a clogged oil filter. One tiny particle of dirt, carbon, a minute speck of metal or plain old dust from the air can be enough to hinder the operation of the precision hydraulic valve lifters that make modern engines so quiet.

If you should hear an ominous tick-tick-tick, the first thing to do is to take a look at the lube sticker on your door jamb to see when you last had the oil and filter changed. The last man to do the job should have noted it there. If it has been more than three months since you had this service, you may be inflicting considerable damage to your engine.

The oil you buy for your car has to lubricate to reduce friction and wear of working parts. It must protect metals from acid and rusting. Its job also includes sealing, cooling and keeping the engine clean. A regular change of oil filter helps the oil do its job.

A clean air filter helps, too. It helps keep out damaging abrasives that can work their way into the engine from the air it breathes.

Air filters should be changed (or cleaned, if yours is the cleanable type) at least every six months, or twice a year.

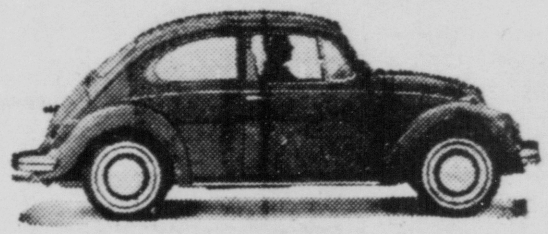

When to change oil and oil filter? This depends more on driving conditions than on mileage. Short distance, stop and go driving, for example, is harder on engines than long, steady speeds. Winter weather, too, presents problems.

A good rule of thumb is to change oil about every three thousand miles . . . or every ninety days . . . and to put in a

---

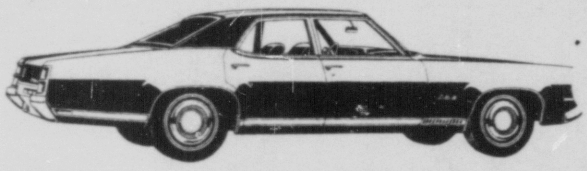

Roads present more hazards to tires during winter months than during warm-weather months. Foreign objects such as nails and glass are retained in the buildup of ice and snow. For this reason, check winter tires carefully and frequently for cuts or breaks. And be sure you have a spare tire in your car's trunk.

Road Hazards Make Thorough Mid-Winter Repairs a 'Must'

Good Local Body Shop Will Have What It Takes to Do Job

Have you recently taken a really good look at the finish on your car? Studies by leading automotive service magazines found three out of every four cars are in need of body repair and/or touch-up work.

When checking your car, chances are you'll find finish defects ranging from minor stone-nicks to more sizeable scratches, scrapes, or dents. Close examination may even produce evidence of more serious damage with rust appearing in the rocker panels, lower portion of fenders, or at other points.

This time of year is an especially important one to make needed repairs. For winter road conditions take a harsh toll of car bodies.

Costing You Money

Regardless of the origination or extent of the present damage, it's costing you money every day it goes unattended. Once paint is chipped away and bare metal is exposed, corrosive action begins and will continue to grow until arrested and eliminated by repair.

Metal deterioration can also occur from beneath the car. This usually goes undetected until rust appears on the outside surface after corroding the metal behind. (Undercoating will, in most cases, prevent the start of this latter form of corrosion).

In either case, the longer the damage is neglected, the more extensive and time consuming the repair becomes, thus increasing your repair bill.

Once you're ready for repairs, your next and most important step is to locate a reputable auto body repair and refinishing shop — one that has adequate facilities, modern equipment, and experienced personnel to do the job.

What Shop Can Do

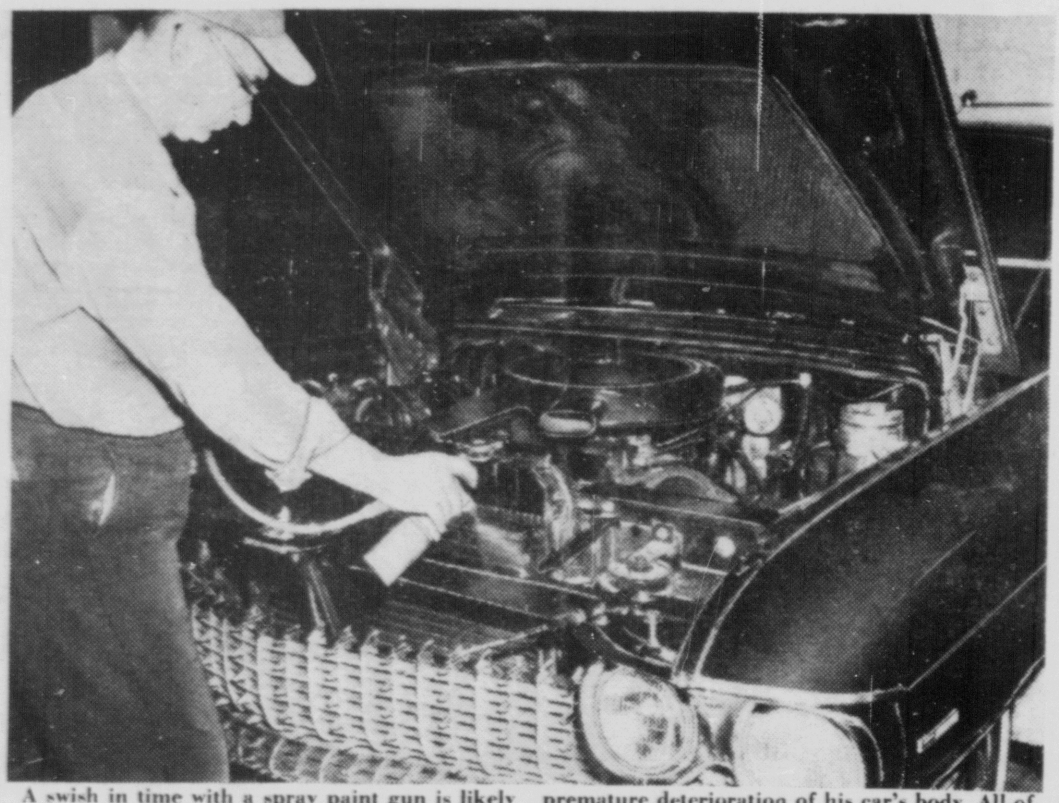

Such a shop will have ample parking and work space; modern metal working tools; quality spray equipment; spray booth with proper exhaust for dust-free paint jobs; force dry (infrared) equipment for drying fresh paint in minutes as opposed to hours with air dry; factory trained spray operators.

A shop with these qualifications can assure you of a first-rate, professional job in the shortest possible time.

Don't settle for a 50% job at a bargain basement price from a shop that has makeshift facilities. It'll probably cost you more in the long run through costly re-work at a later date.

When the original beauty has been restored to your car, don't be misled into believing it to be permanent. New damage is likely to occur at some future date and corrosion will once again attempt its ugly deed.

Periodic checks and continuous, proper maintenance are your only assurance of prolonging the original finish life. Do this faithfully and you'll derive the many benefits from owning, driving, trading, or selling a clean, rust-free car.

A swish in time with a spray paint gun is likely to save some expensive repairs later. By taking care of minor nicks, scratches and dents as soon as they become noticeable, a motorist can avoid premature deterioration of his car's body. All of which makes the car more valuable at trade-in time. (DeVilbiss Co. Photo)

'Stay On Top Of Weather' Advice To Motorists . . .

Smart automobile owners make it a special point during fall and winter to "Stay on top of the weather."

This means knowing in advance not only what weather conditions may be tomorrow, but what they are like in the area toward which the motorist is headed on a longer than "just about town" trip.

It is the car radio, of course, that is your "any time" pipeline to the wanted weather information, available from stations everywhere.

When on a trip, one should have no difficulty in picking up broadcasts from stations in areas toward which the motorist is travelling. In addition to call letters they usually identify the city from which they are broadcasting.

Think About Those Other Five Cars

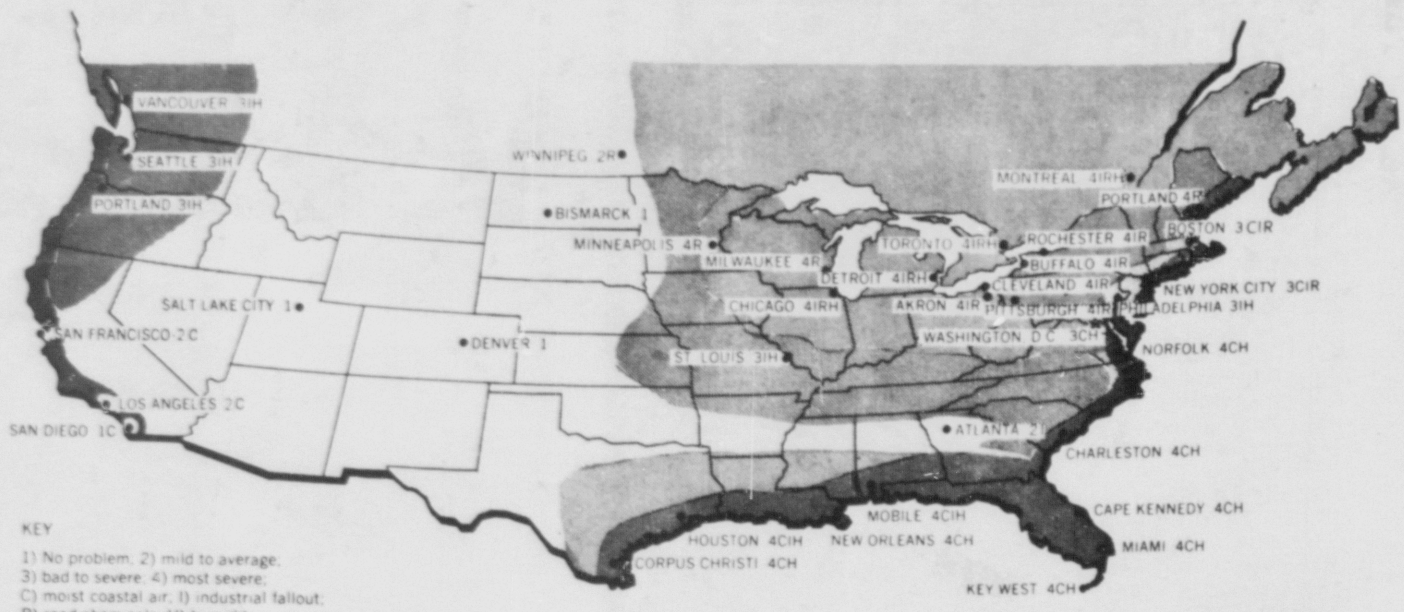

At least five cars besides your own should concern you while driving.

They are the one ahead, the one behind, the one approaching in the opposing lane, the one ready to enter from a side street, and the one parked at the curb.

Be prepared for any of them to do anything without warning.

Try to drive in such a way that you have plenty of time to make the right decision. Don't crowd those split seconds by crowding the traffic — and your luck.

The Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo. 4
(B) Thursday, October 9

There are few areas in the United States or Canada that are immune from corrosion. Areas depicted in dark grey have the most severe problems. Lighter shades of grey have trouble of progressively less severity. White areas are relatively corrosion-free. Polluted or salt air take a heavy toll of car bodies as do salt and other types of chemicals on winter roads. (Map is courtesy of the Ziebart Co.)

How convenient! All the really great 1970 cars in one place!

Winter Head Start Program Launched

PORTAGEVILLE — Plans for a co-ordinated winter Head Start Program in the Bootheel were disclosed Wednesday at the opening of a three- day seminar, by staff members.

"We will try and eliminate the mistakes of the past and, at the same time, make fewer mistakes in the future application of the Head Start program to the 12 schools in the Bootheel area," M. Mike Cooper, Delta area director told 150 workers at the opening day meeting.

Porter, a Hayti resident, in asking for "full co- operation of every worker," explained the "Status of Head Start," showing the advances it has made; the need for further advancement some of the mistakes and the need for understanding and cooperating in "further selling the program to the general public.

"There are many people who ask what Head Start really is," he said. "It is just a glorified nursery which tends to support another Federal project and is used as a political football? What interest do the teachers, the teacher aides and other workers have in the program?

"These questions are being asked and the public must be advised and shown how the program aides the uninformed children-- provides them to enter school without fear of classes and imbues them with a desire to go to school. That it permits them, through federal funds, to get necessary eye and tooth ailments corrected; aids their nutritional needs and, overall, gives them a background that many of their older brothers and sisters did not have."

Mrs. Bernice R. Wilson, Educational director and training coordinator of the area, from Kennett, gave the announcements. Camille Huber, of Hayti, director of the operations division of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation the sponsoring agency for the Head Start program, discussed programs over which DAEOC presidents, and John Porter of Dexter, director of social service, explained plans outlined for that area.

A small groups alignment was made for the Wednesday afternoon sessions with teachers, teacher aides and secretaries meeting at Delta Center with Mrs. Wilson; social workers being instructed by Porter at the Portageville Head Start Center; nurses meeting with Jean Littell of Gideon and cooks with Mrs. Wagner of Cape Girardeau.

The Head Start organizational setup includes Cooper as director with E.D. Barrett of Homer as the fiscal officer; Susan Porter of Portageville, office manager; Judy Bailey, Caruthersville, secretary - bookkeeper; Dr. Wm. Dillon, Sikeston, dental advisor; Dr. Dale Cravens of the State Mental Board at Jefferson City as psychological advisor; Frank Crail, Cardwell and Elsie Collier, Sikeston, program co-ordinators; Dr. Alan Gubin, Caruthersville, medical advisor; Charles Brandon, Portageville, counselor.

The winter program is expected to include a total of 176 key operatives, including 34 teachers, 70 teacher aides, 14 social workers, 14 nurses, 10 bus drivers and 20 skilled cooks.

Areas to be served include: Senath- Hornersville - Rives, Morehouse, Morely, Sikeston, Dexter, North Lilbourn, North Pemiscot, Charleston, Caruthersville, Campbell, Hayti and Kennett. East Prairie, Bernie, Malden, Bell City, Advance, Benton and Oran sponsor summer programs only.

YAF Leader Says Oct. 15 Marchers Totally Inhuman Dupes

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — An official of the Conservative Young Americans for Freedom today criticized anti-war sponsors of the Oct. 15 Vietnam Moratorium as "totally inhuman" dupes of the North Vietnamese Communist regime.

"Those who march on Oct. 15 do not march in support of 'peace,'" said Michael Thompson, national vice chairman of the YAF and chairman of the National Student Committee for Victory in Vietnam.

"They march when they know that North Vietnam will take their meaning of these marches to be a support for a Communist victory in that war."

He said those demonstrating against the war were willing to abandon Vietnam and possibly Laos, Thailand and Cambodia "to a bleak future of further Communist atrocities."

Circuit Court

BENTON: Judge Craig heard these CRIMINAL CASES here recently:

State vs. Ann Larkin, Burglary & Stealing.

Defendant in Court with his attorney. Leave granted State to file Motion to endouse witness Joe Wussler. Defendant withdrew Objections as to his endorsement.

Whereupon defendant is formally arraigned and enters a plea of "Not Guilty."

Both parties announce ready, so Judge Craig orders the trail to proceed, and gives a list of 24 prospective jurors to both sides for their legal challenges in order to obtain 12 men and women to hear the case.

The State then presented its case to the Judge and jury. At it's conclusion, the defendant files Motion for Judgment of Acquital, which Judge Craig overrules.

Thereupon, the defendant presents his side of the case and Judge Craig instructs the jury as to the law covering the evidence presented by both sides.

After these instructions, the jury, at 4:57 p.m. retires to the jury room, in charge of Sheriff Dennis, and his deputies, to consider the evidence and render a verdict.

At 6:50 p.m., the same day the jury returns to the Courtroom and states they are unable to reach a verdict.

Judge Craig discharges them, and by agreement with both plaintiff and defendant, sets Jan. 12, 1970 as a trial date.

State vs. Floyd Porter, Jr., Stealing Over Value of $50.00

Case filed Aug. 13, 1968. Defendant placed on probation for a year, and having satisfactorily conducted himself during this time, is finally discharged.

State vs. Bernadine M. Harper No-Account Check.

Same as above case.

Bell Telephone Files Revised Rate Schedule

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has filed with the Missouri Public Service Commission a revised telephone rate schedule which will produce $30.6 million in additional revenues as authorized by the commission last week.

The new rates become effective Oct. 14. R. R. Shockley, vice president, said the average increase for one-party residential users in the state will be about 30 cents.

Station-to-station long distance calls of less than 15 miles will increaee five cents for the first three minutes and other long distance calls will go up 10 cents.

Parade Tonight At New Madrid

NEW MADRID - The grand float parade of the 9th annual American Legion Fall Festival begins at 8 p.m. tonight.

The mile-long parade will feature floats, 15 queen candidates entered in the Miss American Legion contest; Little Miss and Mr. American Legion; prize winning floats of the kiddie parade; and 10 marching bands from Lilbourn, Matthews, Parma, Bernie, Caruthersville, North Pemiscot, Portageville, New Madrid junior high, New Madrid senior high, and Senath-Hornersville.

Cash prizes of $50, $35 and $15 will be awarded to the three top floats entered in the parade.

Parade units assemble at the junior high school on David Street at 7 p.m.

Chester Medler

Medler to School Board In Dexter

DEXTER — Chester Medler has been appointed to the Dexter board of education tofill he vacancy created by the resignation of O. C. Stuart.

Stuart has resigned because of an Attorney General's opinion that serving on both a school board and a bank board of a bank which serves as a depository for the school violates the Conflict of Interest Law. He is a member of the board of directors at the Citizens Bank.

Stuart was first appointed to the Board of Education in 1952 when the late Don Johnson moved from Dexter. He has served continuously since then. The Southwest Elementary and the Senior High buildings were built during the time that he was on the Board.

At the regular meeting on October 2, Medler was appointed by the Board to serve until the next annual election. He is a native of this community and graduated from the Dexter High School. At present he is a co- owner of the Medler- Davis Chevrolet Agency. Medler has two daughters- Sherry, who is a freshman in college and Paula, who is a sophomore in high school. His wife is the former Mary Ellen Aslin.

Army Revokes Medal Awarded To Turner

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has revoked a Distinguished Service Medal awarded to Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner when he retired as Army provost marshal general last fall.

This was the second such action by the Army in connection with a central figure in Senate and Pentagon investigations of alleged irregularities in the handling of service club funds.

Earlier, the Army revoked a DSM awarded to Sgt. Maj. William O. Wooldridge.

Repairs Being Made on Hahs Machine Shop Building

50 years ago
October 9, 1919

J. R. McKinney and a force of workmen are putting a concrete floor in the machine shop, opposite the Carter Store on Prosperity street. Other extensive repairs are also to be make on this building, which was recently purchased by J. O. Hahs of Dexter for a first class machine shop. Mr. Hahs comes to Sikeston highly recommended as an A-1 machinist.

A message received from Shadburn Old states that he arrived Monday in San Francisco, but will not remain there long. He has been stationed on the Isle of Guam in the Pacific Ocean for more than six months. Shadburn is in the Navy and has two more years to serve before he will be discharged.

Because of the crowded conditions in the primary department of our shcools, it has become necessary to create another room and employ a teacher. Mrs. Archie Barnett was chosen for this new place and began her duties Monday morning. The plan now is to give Mrs. Barnett a room in the high school building, where she is to have charge of about 40 of the little ones, who live in that part of town.

Miss Ethel Sikes arrived Monday morning from San Antonio, Tex., for a brief visit with her father, Mr. Need Sikes, and other relatives before returning to her pre-war work in John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

According to J. L. Oberle, district manager of Sterling Stores, Inc., the new 5 cent to $1 store to be located in the corner store of the Matthews Building, will be open for business on or about November 1.

Cairo--A total of 5165 vehicles and 8215 passengers and pedestrians have crossed the Mississippi River bridge in the first 10 days operation, according to figures compiled by Hewitt Johnson, auditor.

Fulton--J. Hershel Tyer of Sikeston again has been chosen a member of the Razzberries, the "pep" organization of Westminster College in Fulton, which is in charge of working up enthusiasm for all athletic contests and especially at the football games in the fall.

Manager Hudgins, manager of the local Sterling Store, claims a new Yo Yo record, that of selling nearly 400 of the "tops with strings" in three business days. Twenty-four dozen Yo Yos were received Friday morning. Saturday afternoon, the supply was exhausted and another ship of 12 dozen ordered At the close of business Monday night, nine dozen of the crazy tops had been placed in the hands of prospective yo yoers.

The Bulldogs had everything on Jackson but the thing that counted most--the score--Friday night, losing a nerve-tingling thriller here, 7-6, in a contest packed with thrills to the very last play. The old Jackson Indian jinx held.

Dexter's stunning 25-0 defeat over Chaffee provided the sensation up and down the Southeast Missouri Conference baliwick in Friday nights games, giving the Bearcats--not even rated an outside chance of a title--the undisputed lead of the South Division with two straight victories.

Malone Theatre, today, "Ardy Hardy Gets Spring Fever" with Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Cecilla Parker and Fay Holden.

James Edward Bandy, who moved to East Prairie from Sikeston this summer, fractured a bone in his left foot in the football game between East Prairie and Ste. Genevieve and will be unable to play the remainder of the season.

YARMOUTH, N.S. (AP) - When the fish aren't biting there's nothing you can do. For five days, 34 expert anglers failed to get even one strike in the 20th International Tuna Cup match off Nova Scotia.

Anglers from Spain, Italy, Canada, United States, British Caribbean and Mexico blamed the scarcity of tuna on hurricane Gerda whose 80-mile and hour winds churned up the seas in the area.

The weekend before the match six tuna were taken in three days. However, they failed to count in the standing and the Alton B. Sharp trophy was retained by Mexico, the 1968 winner.

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

Search me, O God, and know my heart! Try me and know my thoughts! And see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting! (Psalm 139:23-24, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, give us wisdom and power for the living of these days. Grant to us understanding and confidence which will bring to all of us the peace and tranquility we crave. Amen.

College Admission Rule Held Too Rigid

By Jack Strauss, LL' B.

Wilbur elected to take all the tough courses he could find as a high school student and, if his marks failed to reach as high as his hopes, he never fell back on alibiology.

His ambitious programming, however, backfired when he applied for admission to a city college as a non-paying student. An 85 per cent average was required for admission and all he had was 84.3 per cent average. The result? His application was turned down.

"Seven-tenths of a point shouldn't be any reason to turn me dow," argued Wilbur. "Considering the rough courses I took, I'm entitled to a little sympathetic dispensation."

"While I can give you the sympathy," answered a college official, "I can't give you the dispensation. The line's got th be drawn somewhere, and It's been drawn at an 85 per cent average. The rule's reasonable and that's that!"

Not satisfied, Wilbur took the matter to court where he demanded that an exception be made in his case so that he could go to the free college.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you order that ambitious Wilbur be admitted to the college?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! He held that an 85 per cent average should not be a hard and fast rule in determining whether a student should be admitted to a college requiring such an average.

What should be considered, noted the judge, is whether the student's average is based upon hard courses or easy ones and whether he lowered his average by attending stimulation, challenging a d more difficult programs. This is the procedure followed by the better colleges, concluded the judge, and our city colleges can afford to do no less.

Engineers Close Office At Malden

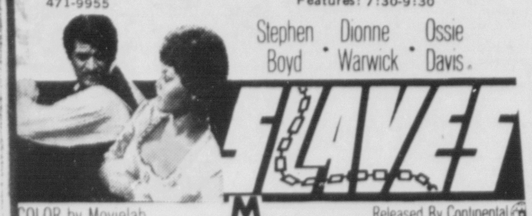

MALDEN — Col. Charles T. Williams, Memphis District Engineer, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, has announced that the corps is closing is project office at Malden.

The office, sometimes referred to as a Corps field office, had been in Malden for about three years and was used as the base of operations for now completed channel improvement work in the general area.

Field offices are temporary in nature and opened and closed according to their proximity to the construction sites. The one in Malden had been operating for a long time according to usual Corps standards.

The two remaining employes of the office, Elvis Pyland and Robert G. Hayes, have been reassigned. Pyland will now be based in Marked Tree, Ark., and Hayes in Paragould, Ark.

High-speed production methods may put an end to the sugar-coated pill. For decades pharmaceutical companies have coated tablets with sugar syrup, but the current trend in the industry is film coating, according to U.S. Industrial Chemicals, Co. Coating a batch of tablets with film takes only one to four hours while it takes up to 72 hours for skilled artisans to put a sugar-coating on the same batch of pills.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Oct. 9, the 282nd day of 1969. There are 83 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1867, Russia formally transferred Alaska to the United States.

On this date:

In 1701, Yale College was founded.

In 1760, the Russians captured Berlin.

In 1910 some 400 persons perished in forest fires which destroyed six towns in northern Minnesota.

In 1934, King Alexander, on a state visit to France, was assassinated by a Croatian student in Marseilles.

In 1958, Pope Pius XII died at the age of 82.

In 1963, President John F. Kennedy approved the sale of $250 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union.

Ten years ago — President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico arrived in Washington to confer with President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Five years ago — Venezuelan terrorists kidnaped the deputy chief of the U.S. Air Force mission in Caracas, Lt. Col. Michael Smolen. He was released three days later.

One year ago — The South Vietnamese government said an attempted coup against President Nguyen Van Thieu had been foiled and several officers seized.

Pentagon Avers Detecting Low Planes Difficult

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has acknowledged that the ability to detect approach of airplanes from Communist Cuba at low level is "somewhat limited."

"We have known for some time that our low level radar capability is somewhat limited," Jerry Friedheim, deputy assistant secretary of defense, told newsmen.

"To plug this deficiency," Friedheim said, the United States normally flies an EC121 radar picket plane between Cuba and the Florida coast.

He said, however, that no such picket plane was aloft on Sunday when the defecting pilot flew a Soviet built MIG 17 jet to Homestead Airforce Base, south of Miami.

The Pentagon said Monday that the pilot, Lt. Eduardo Guerra Jimenez, evaded U.S. radar almost until landing by flying at altitudes of only 30 to 40 feet.

Friedheim said "I find no review in progress" when asked about published reports of a hasty review by the United States of its air defense procedures in the wake of a MIG 17 landing at Homestead.

"I know of no review," Friedheim said.

Asked if the Pentagon is concerned over the situation, Friedheim replied, "We are always concerned when our air space is penetrated."

New Raise for Conservation Commission

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The staff of the state Conservation Commission will get a second 5 per cent pay increase this month, it was reported today.

Most employes in the department got a 5 per cent pay boost July 1. A half dozen or more of the top administrative personnel got between 5 and 10 per cent, but some of those increases also involved promotions.

Larry Gale, associate director, said the second increase was authorized by the commission at its meeting here Sept. 23. He said it was called an adjustment, primarily to bring clerical and secretarial scales up to a competitive level with other state agencies.

There would be no increases this time for personnel above the division level, Gale said.

A $225,000 salary item for the commission staff did not clear the Legislature last spring so the commission is attempting to finance the pay hike by "some belt tightening" and possibly a request for a deficiency appropriation when the special session is called early next year to set the 1970-71 budget.

Gale said some new positions and some vacancies are not being filled for the time being. He also said the commission's position would be helped if the forestry division does not have to employ a lot of extra help for fall or spring forest fire fighting.

"If we have a wet fall and spring," Gale said, "we should be in good shape."

Most other state employes got a 5 per cent pay increase either July 1 or Aug. 1, but there have been no reports of further increases contemplated by agencies other than the conservation department.

New Madrid to Have Sewer Service Charge

NEW MADRID — The city council Monday night authorized the addition of a sewer service charge to the bills of municipal light and power subscribers effective with the December billing. The sewer charge will be based on one- half the monthly charge for water with a minimum charge per customer of 75 cents per month.

The board had heard a report that construction had begun on the city's new sewage lagoon and lift station at a 40 acre site purchased east of the city limits. Voters approved by a vote of 228 to 9 and 230 to 6 two $250,000 bond issues Oct. 1, 1968 for the construction of a lagoon sewage system and extension and improvement of water works and sewage facilities. One issue was for $250,000 in general revenue bonds and the other was for $250,000 in combined water works and sewage revenue bonds.

The contract for the new lagoon system, and lift station was awarded last month to Superior Concretors, Cape Girardeau, which had a low bid of $250,003.23. The new sewage system will have a capacity for 5,000 persons, double the present population of the city.

Mrs. Gene Copeland, Mrs. Gene French and Mrs. Larry Rost on behalf of the New Madrid Women's Club requested that 10 p.m. curfew be set for the youth. The board authorized City attorney Hal Hunter, Jr. to prepare an ordinance for their consideration.

School cross walks and school zone signs were authorized at crossings near the Catholic school and Police Chief O. E. Householder was authorized to repair and replace other school crossing signs needed at the grade and high schools.

Howard Phillips advised the board that complaints had been received by the county health department concerning litter accumulating near the Dixie Theater, Phillips 66 Station and a vacant lot on the South end of Main Street. Complaints had also been received, according to Phillips, from property owners concerning children riding horses on private lawns.

Construction payments were authorized totaling $254,467.45 in connection with the Noranda Aluminum, Inc. and power plant projects in the city's St. Jude Industrial Park.

The board authorized $600.00 to be paid in a joint venture with the city of Portageville and the county to be used the payment of salary for the New Madrid County airport manager.

Inspection of sewer mains on Femmer Drive was requestd and cleaning of these lines was authorized if required.

Transfer of $3500.00 from the Municipal Light and Power to the general revenue fund was authorized and all current bills were ordered paid.
